Novel Environments Jayne Hildebrand, 2023-05-31 The environment concept has shaped humanity's relationship to the natural world and has drawn attention to the effects of human actions on our natural surroundings But when did we learn that we live in an environment While scholars have often located the emergence of the environment concept in twentieth century ecological and political thought Novel Environments Science Description and Victorian Fiction reconstructs a longer and a specifically literary history It was in the descriptive worldmaking of the Victorian novel that the environment was first transformed from an abstraction into a vivid object of imagination and feeling Engaging the scientific theories of their contemporaries Mary Russell Mitford George Eliot Thomas Hardy and Robert Louis Stevenson turned to detailed description from gardens and landscapes to weather and atmospheres to model interactions between life and its surroundings Far from merely furnishing static background the descriptive apparatus of the Victorian novel imagined the nonhuman environment as dynamically involved with human action feeling and development In making this argument Novel Environments recovers the scientific vocabulary the Victorians used to name the surroundings of living organisms The word environment dominates our own way of speaking about the nonhuman world but nineteenth century scientific writers and novelists availed themselves of a richer conceptual lexicon which included environment along with less familiar concepts such as milieu medium and circumstance Jayne Hildebrand traces the development of Victorian environmental thought from the earliest theorization of physical surroundings as a dynamic influence in the life sciences through the idea of a singular medium in mid century organicism to the conception of the planet as an environmental system at the fin de siècle By showing how novelistic description helped to produce the modern environment concept Hildebrand sheds new light on the relationship between Victorian literature and the life sciences and reveals how literary form has shaped the ecological ideas through which we apprehend the nonhuman world

The Aboriginal Tent Embassy Gary Foley, Andrew Schaap, Edwina Howell, 2013-07-24 The 1972 Aboriginal Embassy was one of the most significant indigenous political demonstrations of the twentieth century What began as a simple response to a Prime Ministerial statement on Australia Day 1972 evolved into a six month political stand off between radical Aboriginal activists and a conservative Australian government The dramatic scenes in July 1972 when police forcibly removed the Embassy from the lawns of the Australian Houses of Parliament were transmitted around the world The demonstration increased international awareness of the struggle for justice by Aboriginal people brought an end to the national government policy of assimilation and put Aboriginal issues firmly onto the national political agenda The Embassy remains today and on Australia Day 2012 was again the focal point for national and international attention demonstrating the intensity that the Embassy can still provoke after forty years of just sitting there If as some suggest the Embassy can only ever be removed by Aboriginal people achieving their goals of Land Rights Self Determination and economic independence then it is likely to remain for some time yet This book explores the context of this moment that captured the world's attention by using predominantly the voices of the people who were there More than a simple oral history some of the key players represented here bring with them the imprimatur of the education they were to gain in the era after the Tent Embassy This is an act of radicalisation The Aboriginal participants in subversive political action have now broken through the barriers of access to academia and write as both eye witnesses and also as trained historians lawyers film makers It is another act of subversion a continuing taunt to the entrenched institutions of the dominant culture part of a continuum of political thought and action Larissa Behrendt Professor of Law Jumbunna Indigenous House of Learning University of Technology Sydney The Myth Of Wings A. greatness it entailed Franco argues however that Rousseau and Nietzsche are more than mere critics they both put forward powerful alternative visions of how we ought to live Franco focuses specifically on their views of the self and its realization their understandings of women and the relation between the sexes and their speculative conceptions of politics While there are many similarities in their positive visions Franco argues that it is the differences between them from which we have most to learn

Promising Nothing Neal J. Anthony, 2021-02-23 Can the categories of classical Lutheran Christology be unleashed to express the vitality of christological existence an existence situated between Promise and experience If as Martin Luther famously asserted in his Heidelberg Disputation 1518 true theology and recognition of God are in the crucified Christ then such a theological point of departure not only bore radical implications for his Christology but indeed also bears profound significance for theological discussions around the Word of Promise its structure its experience its plurality With regard to the elaboration of the two natures of Jesus Christ such a point of departure permits a delineation of Promise the body of Promise who is bound to who suffers the nihil of human existence Which means such a point of departure affords us equally the opportunity to consider and probe the implications of the nihil as the medium of both threat and Promise Is this a promising threat Or a threatening Promise Ultimately Promise is delineated from within hermeneutical origins the christological function of Scripture the text and developed through to its diverse expression as the body of Promise translated into christological existence Within this context categories of classical Lutheran Christology begin to express new vitality Along the way the Word of Promise as developed within the trajectory of Luther's theology of the cross and his radical delineation of the two natures of Jesus Christ receives further sharpening within the context of discussion with such theological voices as John Caputo and Jacques Derrida Hans Holbein the Younger Albert Schweitzer Matthias Grunewald Carl Braaten Karl Barth Michael Welker and Samuel Terrien Ultimately we are permitted to confess There is one Crucified And he is plural
