Arias, Carolina Sánchez-Páramo, María E. Dávalos, Indhira Santos, Erwin R. Tiongson, Carola Gruen, Natasha de Andrade Falcão, Gady Saiovici, Cesar A. Cancho, 2014-01-15 What can be done to create more and better jobs in Europe and Central Asia And should there be specific policies to help workers access those jobs The authors of this book examine these questions through the lens of two contextual factors the legacy of centralized planned economies and the mounting demographic pressures associated with rapid aging in some countries and soaring numbers of youth entering the workforce in others The authors find the following Market reforms pay off albeit with a lag in terms of jobs and productivity A small fraction of superstar high growth firms accounts for most of the new jobs created in the region Skills gaps hinder employment prospects especially of youth and older workers because of the inadequate response by the education and training systems to changes in the demand for skills Employment is hindered by high implicit taxes on formal work and barriers that affect especially women minorities youth and older workers Low internal labor mobility prevents labor relocation to places with greater job creation potential Back to Work Growing with Jobs in Europe and Central Asia asserts that to get more people back to work and to grow with jobs countries especially late reformers need to regain the momentum for economic and institutional reforms that existed before the economic crisis They should lay the fundamentals to create jobs for all workers by pushing reforms to create the enabling environment for existing firms to grow become more productive or exit the market and let new firms emerge and succeed or fail fast and cheap They should also implement policies to support workers so that those workers are prepared to take on the new jobs being created by having the right skills and incentives unhindered access to work and being ready to relocate Knowledge-Based Working Steve Ellis, 2005-06-30 Covers the priorities and challenges facing organisations who are increasingly focused on knowledge work it is written from a human relations rather than a technological perspective It uses real cases backed up by evidence and analysis from a detailed study into strategic knowledge based working KBW The content of the book draws on two chief sources the author s own expertise in KBW developed over five years of blue chip KBW consultancy and the results of a previously unpublished five year study The book offers clear step by step guidance to executives who need to understand
