Jones, 2000-04-21 This remarkable study of the constructive and Marietta Chicorel, 1975 ultimately canon forming relationship between satiric and Romantic modes of writing from 1760 to 1832 provides us with a new understanding of the historical development of Romanticism as a literary movement Romantic poetry is conventionally seen as inward turning sentimental sublime and transcendent whereas satire with its public profane and topical rhetoric is commonly cast in the role of generic other as the un Romantic mode This book argues instead that the two modes mutually defined each other and were subtly interwoven during the Romantic period By rearranging reputations changing aesthetic assumptions and re distributing cultural capital the interaction of satiric and Romantic modes helped make possible the Victorian and modern construction of English Romanticism Library of Congress Catalog Library of Congress, 1960 A cumulative list of works represented by Library of Congress printed cards A History of English Literature William Vaughn Moody, Robert Morss Lovett, Fred Benjamin Millett, 1956 Throwing the Scabbard Away Robinson Blann, 1991 Throwing the Scabbard Away is an intriguing study of the writing of Don Juan 1818 1824 by self exiled Lord Byron and particularly his managing to get the provocative masterpiece into print despite the forces determined to censor its satiric truth telling Thoroughly researched the book explains historically why the publication of Don Juan was so controversial and why it met with such fervid resistance Chronologically following the 6 part publication of the 16 completed cantos the author investigates the material that was considered for censorship and Byron s fiery epistolary responses to those structures In its broadest context this work shows that Byron s battle with the censors was not just so much braggadocio from the world famous poet but an integral part of his lifelong struggle for freedom
