concerning Franklin Delano Rooseve President Roosevelt and the Coming of the War, 1941 Charles Beard,2017-09-29 Conceived by Charles Beard as a sequel to his provocative study of American Foreign Policy in the Making 1932 1940 President Roosevelt and the Coming of the War outraged a nation permanently damaging Beard s status as America s most influential historian Beard s main argument is that both Democratic and Republican leaders but Roosevelt above all worked quietly in 1940 and 1941 to insinuate the United States into the Second World War Basing his work on available congressional records and administrative reports Beard concludes that FDR s image as a neutral peace loving leader was a smokescreen behind which he planned for war against Germany and Japan even well before the attack on Pearl Harbor Beard contends that the distinction between aiding allies in Europe like Great Britain and maintaining strict neutrality with respect to nations like Germany and Japan was untenable. Beard does not argue that all nations were alike or that some did and others did not merit American support but rather that Roosevelt chose to aid Great Britain secretly and unconstitutionally rather than making the case to the American public. President Roosevelt shifted from a policy of neutrality to one of armed intervention but he did so without surrendering the appearance the fiction of neutrality. This core argument makes the work no less explosive in 2003 than it was when first issued in 1948.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Alden Hatch,

2007-03-01 FRAN ROOSEVELT An Informal Biography BY ALDEN HATCH NEW YORK HENRY HOLT AND COMPANY

Foreword THIS is a portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt a full length portrait drawn to scale but necessarily impressionistic. It is not a photograph least of all is it a definitive biography. There is no attempt to weigh or measure or to assess the effect of his actions in the light of history. The great historic events are described not objectively but as they may have looked to him in the heat of action or in his hardily bought moments of contemplation. But though the method of approach might be called novelized biography it is based on the most exhaustive research possible at this time. The facts are absolutely accurate the conversations except in the earlier part of the book are generally verbatim reports. In the case of the thoughts attributed to President Roosevelt the interpretation is based upon his public speeches private letters and intimate conversations. Often a man talking casually with a close friend will disclose more of what is in his mind by emphasis or expression than by the words themselves. In my talks with the Presidents intimates I have tried very hard to get their impression of what he was thinking the feeling as well as the substance of a particular conversation. For instance when the President ordered the Tuscaloosa to return to Washington on receipt of the news of the Russo German pact in August 1939 Admiral McIntire is convinced that he had accepted for the first time the probability that the United States would have to enter the approaching European war if the democratic way of life were to be saved. Roosevelt did not make the absolute statement but he implied it so strongly by what he did say and by his attitude that it becomes a reasonable assumption. I checked this opinion with a number of Roosevelt's other advisers of that period my question being When do you think that the President decided that the REWORD 0nifed SMte5lwp df jy Mfjly have to enter the war. In every case tliereply fixed tfie time witliin a few weeks of that day. This ip qfi has been followed in all the other attempts to probe the wordings of the Presidents mind and while there is a wide possibility of error in particular instances I believe that the over all picture of the man is more true to life than a coldly objective statement of provable fact could possibly be. In gathering the impressions on which this portrait is based I have had the enthusiastic cooperation of many men and women who took time from their vastly important tasks to help me in the work of presenting a description of the man they either loved devout edly or hated passionately according to their creeds. Mrs Roosevelt was most helpful first at the White House in the last glorious days and then in the time of grief that followed. She personally read considerable portions of the manuscript which con cerned her most intimately. James Roosevelt read the entire manuscript and checked it for matters of fact Others who contributed information and personal impressions were The President of the United States Harry S Truman Fleet Admiral William D Leahy Vice Admiral Ross T McIntire Stephen P Early Judge Samuel I Rosenman Irita Van Doren Mrs J M Helm Miss Laura Delano Miss Margaret Suckley Franklin D Roosevelt Jr Miss Malvina Thompson former Ambassador and Mrs William Phillips Justice Felix Frankfurter Raymond Moley Commander George C Elcey and Majors Ogden Kniffen and Henry Putnam of the White House Map Room Ralph Page Lieut Col John Stack Frederic B Adams Jr Mrs Price Collier Mrs Allan Ryan Arthur A Ballentine George Allen William M Chadbourne Edgar B Nixon Josephus Daniels Dr George Draper Charles Michelson Mr and Mrs Hambly and the Misses Catherine and Roulie Hambly Mrs Dwight D Eisenhower Judge and Mrs Clarence Norton Goodwin Gilbert Golden Francis B Sayre Captain Dashiell L Continued Investigation Into Fraud and Mismanagement in General Services Administration United States.
