Introduction to Handbook of American Indian Languages Franz Boas, 1966 Two major anthropological works study the roots structure and classification of Indian languages Introduction to Handbook of American Indian Languages and Indian Linguistic Families of America North of Mexico Franz Boas, J. W. Powell, Preston Holder, 2017 As Michael Silverstein discusses in his introduction to this new edition the two foundational essays presented here are culminating moments in the scholarly history of North American indigenous peoples languages and cultures Franz Boas's Introduction essay 1911 initiates readers into the collection of grammatical sketches contained in the multiple volumes of the Handbook of American Indian Languages underscoring critical issues of language in human cognition and its role in sociocultural variation Twenty years earlier J W Powell published Indian Linguistic Families of America North of Mexico to accompany his Seventh Annual Report of the Bureau of American Ethnology BAE of the Smithsonian Institution Powell interpreted the BAE's vast collection of vocabularies through a classificatory perspective like those of geology geography and biology thus organizing understanding of the hundreds of attested languages as members of linguistic families Originally published in the same volume in 1966 these two essays form a cornerstone of modern indigenous language studies Franz Boas 1858 1942 is indigenous North America's most significant non Native anthropologist J W Powell 1834 1902 was the first director of the Bureau of American Ethnology at the Smithsonian Institution and a strong supporter of linguistic research Michael Silverstein is the Charles F Grey Distinguished Service Professor of Anthropology of Linguistics and of Psychology at the University of Chicago Among many publications in Native American studies are his chapters in several volumes of the Handbook of North American Indians of the Smithsonian Institution Introduction to Handbook of American Indian Languages [by] Franz Boas Franz Boas, 1971 Handbook of American Indian Languages: Introduction, by Franz Boas. Athapascan (Hupa) by P. E. Goddard. Tlingit, by J. R. Swanton. Haida, by J. R. Swanton. Tsimshian, by Franz Boas. Kwakiutl, by Franz Boas. Chinook, by Franz Boas. Maidu, by R. B. Dixon. Algonquian (Fox) by William Jones, rev. by Truman Michelson Siouan (Dakota) by Franz Boas and J. R. Swanton. Eskimo, by William Thalbitzer Franz Boas, 1911 Includes chapters on Athapascan Tlingit Haida Tsimshian Kwakiutl Eskimo and Chukchee AB1739 The Limits of Structuralism James McElvenny, 2023-03-08 Based around seven primary texts spanning 130 years this volume explores the conceptual boundaries of structuralism a scholarly movement and associated body of doctrines foundational to modern linguistics and many other humanities and social sciences Each chapter in the volume presents a classic and yet today underappreciated text that addresses questions crucial to the evolution of structuralism The texts are made accessible to present day English speaking readers through translation and extensive critical notes each text is also accompanied by a detailed introduction that places it in its intellectual and historical context and outlines the insights that it contains The volume reveals the complex genealogy of our ideas and enriches our understanding of their contemporary form and use General Linguistics

Pierre Swiggers, 2008-10-23 Volume I of Edward Sapir's Collected Works contains the reedition of Sapir's papers and reviews in general linguistics in the philosophy of language and linguistics the origin of language general semantics the construction of an international auxiliary language as well as his articles on language and dialect written for the Encyclopedia of Social Sciences The texts have been reedited and supplied with an introductory study and notes The introductory studies assess Sapir's contribution to the linguistic study of the various topics dealt with Volume I also contains a reprint of retrospective appraisals of Sapir's work in general linguistics written by Zellig Harris and Stanley Newman The Unnaming of Kroeber Hall Andrew Garrett, 2023-12-12 A critical examination of the complex legacies of early Californian anthropology and linguistics for twenty first century communities In January 2021 at a time when many institutions were reevaluating fraught histories the University of California removed anthropologist and linguist Alfred Kroeber's name from a building on its Berkeley campus Critics accused Kroeber of racist and dehumanizing practices that harmed Indigenous people university leaders repudiated his values In The Unnaming of Kroeber Hall Andrew Garrett examines Kroeber's work in the early twentieth century and his legacy today asking how a vigorous opponent of racism and advocate for Indigenous rights in his own era became a symbol of his university's failed relationships with Native communities Garrett argues that Kroeber's most important work has been overlooked his collaborations with Indigenous people throughout California to record their languages and stories The Unnaming of Kroeber Hall offers new perspectives on the early practice of anthropology and linguistics and on its significance today and in the future Kroeber's documentation was broader and more collaborative and multifaceted than is usually recognized As a result the records Indigenous people created while working with him are relevant throughout California as communities revive languages names songs and stories Garrett asks readers to consider these legacies arguing that the University of California chose to reject critical self examination when it unnamed Kroeber Hall Catching Language Felix K. Ameka, Alan Dench, Nicholas Evans, 2008-08-22 Descriptive grammars are our main vehicle for documenting and analysing the linguistic structure of the world's 6 000 languages They bring together in one place a coherent treatment of how the whole language works and therefore form the primary source of information on a given language consulted by a wide range of users areal specialists typologists theoreticians of any part of language syntax morphology phonology historical linguistics etc and members of the speech communities concerned The writing of a descriptive grammar is a major intellectual challenge that calls on the grammarian to balance a respect for the language's distinctive genius with an awareness of how other languages work to combine rigour with readability to depict structural regularities while respecting a corpus of real material and to represent something of the native speaker's competence while recognising the variation inherent in any speech community Despite a recent surge of awareness of the need to document little known languages there is no book that focusses on the manifold issues that face the author of a descriptive grammar This volume brings together contributors who approach the problem from a range of angles Most have written descriptive grammars themselves but others represent different types of reader Among the topics they address are overall issues of grammar design the complementary roles of outsider and native speaker grammarians the balance between grammar and lexicon cross linguistic comparability the role of explanation in grammatical description the interplay of theory and a range of fieldwork methods in language description the challenges of describing languages in their cultural and historical context and the tensions between linguistic particularity established practice of particular schools of linguistic description and the need for a universally commensurable analytic framework This book will renew the field of grammaticography addressing a multiple readership of descriptive linguists typologists and formal linguists by bringing together a range of distinguished practitioners from around the world to address these questions

Jews, Catholics, and the Burden of History Eli Lederhendler, 2006-03-02 Volume XXI of the distinguished annual Studies in Contemporary Jewry marks sixty years since the end of the Second World War and forty years since the Second Vatican Council's efforts to revamp Church relations with the Jewish people and the Jewish faith Jews Catholics and the Burden of History offers a collection of new scholarship on the nature of the Jewish Catholic encounter between 1945 and 2005 with an emphasis on how this relationship has emerged from the shadow of the Holocaust

Essays in the History of Linguistic Anthropology Dell H. Hymes, 1983-01-01 Anthropology and linguistics as historically developing disciplines have had partly separate roots and traditions In particular settings and in general the two disciplines have partly shared partly differed in the nature of their materials their favorite types of problem the personalities of their dominant figures their relations with other disciplines and intellectual current The two disciplines have also varied in their interrelation with each other and the society about them Institutional arrangements have reflected the varying degrees of kinship kithship and separation Such relationships themselves form a topic that is central to a history of linguistic anthropology yet marginal to a self contained history of linguistics or anthropology as either would be conceived by most authors There exists not only a subject matter for a history of linguistic anthropology but also a definite need
