Ecocriticism of the Global South Scott Slovic, Swarnalatha Rangarajan, Vidya Sarveswaran, 2015-03-24 The vast majority of existing ecocritical studies even those which espouse the postcolonial ecocritical perspective operate within a first world sensibility speaking on behalf of subalternized human communities and degraded landscapes without actually eliciting the voices of the impacted communities Ecocriticism of the Global South seeks to allow scholars from or intimately familiar with underrepresented regions to write back to the world's centers of political and military and economic power expressing views of the intersections of nature and culture from the perspective of developing countries This approach highlights what activist and writer Vandana Shiva has described as the relationship between ecology and the politics of survival showing both commonalities and local idiosyncrasies by juxtaposing such countries as China and Northern Ireland New Zealand and Cameroon Much like Ecoambiguity Community and Development this new book is devoted to representing diverse and innovative ecocritical voices from throughout the world particularly from developing nations The two volumes complement each other by pointing out the need for further cultivation of the environmental humanities in regions of the world that are essentially the front line of the human struggle to invent sustainable and just civilizations on an imperiled planet

Teaching Adolescents Religious Literacy in a Post-9/11 World Robert Nash, Penny A. Bishop, 2009-11-01 For thousands of years religion has been a key element of human societies Whenever we as educators exclude or minimize religion's vast role in society we leave out a large part of our world's shared history This is a serious act of educational omission even neglect on the part of our nation's public middle and secondary schools particularly when adolescents are so ready to engage in meaningful conversation about the world that surrounds them Our book's central purpose is to provide middle level and high school teachers with the necessary background knowledge and pedagogical skills necessary to help adolescents become religiously literate learners and citizens Currently there is no text like ours on the market that both covers a number of world religions and presents concrete recommendations for teaching and learning this material Our book is meant to educate the following audiences teacher educators middle level and high school teachers in all content areas administrators school boards and parents For us educating for religious literacy is all about bringing adolescents into the 21st century of teeming religious and spiritual diversity a long neglected component of the multicultural curriculum in public schools In a post 9 11 world religious literacy requires that students understand the whats and whys of differing religious beliefs both in their own country and elsewhere It means looking for commonalities as well as differences between and among the great wisdom traditions both nationally and internationally It is about understanding how all of us might live peacefully in a religiously diverse world Our book accomplishes these goals by being informative practical experiential case based and above all accessible to beginners

Textures of Place Paul C. Adams, Steven D. Hoelscher, Karen E. Till, 2001 Annotation A fresh and far ranging interpretation of the concept of place this volume begins with a fundamental tension of our day as communications technologies help create a truly global economy the very political economic processes that would seem to homogenize place actually increase the importance of individual localities which are exposed to global flows of investment population goods and pollution Place no less today than in the past is fundamental to how the world works The contributors to this volume distinguished scholars from geography art history philosophy anthropology and American and English literature investigate the ways in which place is embedded in everyday experience its crucial role in the formation of group and individual identity and its ability to reflect and reinforce power relations Their essays draw from a wide array of methodologies and perspectives including feminism ethnography poststructuralism ecocriticism and landscape ichnography to examine themes as diverse as morality and imagination attention and absence personal and group identity social structure home nature and cosmos

Speaking with Nature Norman Wirzba, 2024-10-29 From one of the world's leading historians comes the first substantial study of environmentalism set in any country outside the Euro American world By the canons of orthodox social science countries like India are not supposed to have an environmental consciousness They are as it were too poor to be green In this deeply researched book Ramachandra Guha challenges this narrative by revealing a virtually unknown prehistory of the global movement set far outside Europe or America Long before the publication of Rachel Carson's Silent Spring and well before climate change ten remarkable individuals wrote with deep insight about the dangers of environmental abuse from within an Indian context In strikingly contemporary language Rabindranath Tagore Radhakamal Mukerjee J C Kumarappa Patrick Geddes Albert and Gabrielle Howard Mira Verrier Elwin K M Munshi and M Krishnan wrote about the forest and the wild soil and water urbanization and industrialization Positing the idea of what Guha calls livelihood environmentalism in contrast to the full stomach environmentalism of the affluent world these writers activists and scientists played a pioneering role in shaping global conversations about humanity's relationship with nature Spanning more than a century of Indian history and decidedly transnational in reference this book offers rich resources for considering the threat of climate change today
