German Façade Design Randall Ott, 2016-09-17 German architecture prior to the modern period has received less systemic analytical study than that of Italy France and Britain Scholarly discussion of broad traditions or continuities within Germanic or Central European facade design is even sparser Baroque era studies of the region mostly devote themselves to isolated architects monuments or movements Modernism's advent decisively changed this Germanic architecture enjoyed sudden ascendancy Yet even so study specifically of that region's facades still lagged nothing compares to the dozens of treatments of Le Corbusier's facade systems for example and how these juxtapose with French neoclassical or Italian Renaissance methods Given the paucity of multi period studies one can be forgiven for believing Germany's effervescence of radical modern works seems unprecedented This book takes up these multiple quandaries It identifies and documents a previously unrecognized compositional tradition characterized here as the screen facade and posits it as a counter narrative critiquing the essentialist authentic canon currently dominant in Western architectural history By crossing evenly over the dividing line between the historical and modern periods it offers valuable insights on indigenous roots underlying some aspects of Germany's invigorating early twentieth century architectural developments The book chronologically examines 400 years of closely related facades concentrated in Germany but also found in Austria the Czech Republic German speaking Switzerland and nearby areas of Central Europe While nearly 75 buildings are mentioned and illustrated a dozen are given extensive analysis and the book focuses on the works of three architects Schinkel Behrens and Mies Relationships between examples of these three architects' facades far transcend mere homage amongst masters Glimmers of the system they eventually codify are apparent as early as at Heidelberg Castle in 1559 and Nürnberg's Rathaus in 1622 The book argues that in Germany northern Gothic affinities for bisection intense repetition and rote aggregation intersected with southern Classical affinities for symmetry hierarchy and centrality thereby spawning a unique hybrid product the screen facade Instead of graphic formality this study is guided by on site perceptions propositional contrasts means of approach interpretive conflicts and emotion and it relates the design of these facades to concepts proposed by contemporary philosophers including Novalis Hegel Nietzsche Freud Adorno and most importantly Gadamer on hermeneutics Las Vegas in the Rearview Mirror Martino Stierli, 2013 An illustrated reevaluation of the seminal architectural manifesto Learning from Las Vegas It explores the significance of this controversial publication by situating it in the artistic architectural and urbanist discourse of the 1960s and 70s and by evaluating the book's enduring influence of visual studies and architectural research

Rethinking the Crit Patrick Flynn, Maureen O'Connor, Mark Price, Miriam Dunn, 2022-09-06 Assessment in architecture and creative arts schools has traditionally adopted a one size fits all approach by using the crit where students pin up their work make a presentation and receive verbal feedback in front of peers and academic staff In addition to increasing stress and inhibiting learning which may impact more depending on gender and ethnicity the adversarial structure of the crit reinforces power imbalances and thereby ultimately contributes to the reproduction of dominant cultural paradigms This book critically examines the pedagogical theory underlying this approach discusses recent critiques of this approach and the reality of the crit is examined through analysis of practice The book explores the challenges for education and describes how changes to feedback in education can shape the future of architecture and the creative arts Leading Collaborative Architectural Practice Erin Carraher,Ryan E.
