The Hats of Mr. Zenobe Robert Astle, Jim Jackson, Agnes Limbos, 1997 Playwright Robert Astle says I first became aware of the story of Vahan Poladian the inspiration for Mr Zenobe through my colleague Agn s Limbos to whom I had sent some rough notes on the new piece I was working on One day I received a phone call from Agn s who was on tour in Switzerland She had just visited the Mus e de L Art Brut Outsider Art Museum in Lausanne and seen Vahan Poladian s remarkable collection housed there Strangely enough his story dovetailed with many of the ideas that I had sent to Agn s just months earlier I travelled to Lausanne myself and spent an incredible day looking at Poladian s creations and screening the short film Monsieur Poladian St Raphael I was shocked and astonished by his story of exile crumbled spirit then spectacular transformation of creative ardour verve and passion Vahan Poladian was born in Kayseri Turkey in 1902 The Turks began systematically killing the Armenians in 1915 with a death toll that reached 1 5 million Poladian s family fled the country With the assistance of relatives Poladian attempted to immigrate to the USA but he was refused entry He went instead to Cuba where he worked as a travelling salesman But this did not last long Poladian was able to return to Europe when France accepted him as an immigrant He settled in Paris where he made contact with the expatriate Armenian community Poladian married an Armenian woman who bore him a daughter Viviane With the onset of the Second World War however Poladian was conscripted by the French Army and forced to leave his family His unit was captured by the Germans and Poladian was sent to a POW camp Upon his release at the end of the war Poladian made his way back to Paris only to discover that his wife and child had disappeared For several years he searched in vain for them His mother had also immigrated to France and he was briefly reunited with her after the war She died soon after however and her death and the loss of his wife and child was a devastating shock for Poladian Poladian became socially autistic closing off the world In 1966 at the age of 64 he entered the Armenian Home in St Raphael France He would spend his remaining years there The Home gave Poladian a stipend of one franc a day which he used to create an amazing phantasmagoria of hats and costumes Twice daily he paraded through the streets of St Raphael showing his collection of Ancient Terrors and Glories always with the hope to change the world with laughter Vahan Poladian died quietly in the Armenian Home in 1982 after refusing to eat Part of his enormous collection of hats and costumes was donated to the Mus e de L Art Brut in Lausanne Switzerland International Books in Print, 1986
