Jack London Earle Labor,2013-12-24 A revelatory look at the life of the great American author and how it shaped his most beloved works Jack London was born a working class fatherless Californian in 1876 In his youth he was a boundlessly energetic adventurer on the bustling West Coast an oyster pirate a hobo a sailor and a prospector by turns He spent his brief life rapidly accumulating the experiences that would inform his acclaimed bestselling books The Call of the Wild White Fang and The Sea Wolf The bare outlines of his story suggest a classic rags to riches tale but London the man was plagued by contradictions He chronicled nature at its most savage but wept helplessly at the deaths of his favorite animals At his peak the highest paid writer in the United States he was nevertheless forced to work under constant pressure for money An irrepressibly optimistic crusader for social justice and a lover of humanity he was also subject to spells of bitter invective especially as his health declined Branded by shortsighted critics as little more than a hack who produced a couple of memorable dog stories he left behind a voluminous literary legacy much of it ripe for rediscovery In Jack London: An American Life the noted Jack London scholar Earle Labor explores the brilliant and complicated novelist lost behind the myth at once a hard living globe trotter and a man alive with ideas whose passion for seeking new worlds to explore never waned until the day he died Returning London to his proper place in the American pantheon Labor resurrects a major American novelist in his full fire and glory The Hawaiian Journal of History, 1999 Jack London's Racial Lives Jeanne Campbell Reesman, 2011-03-15 Jack London 1876-1916 known for his naturalistic and mythic tales remains among the most popular and influential American writers in the world Jack London's Racial Lives offers the first full study of the enormously important issue of race in London's life and diverse works whether set in the Klondike Hawaii or the South Seas or during the Russo-Japanese War the Jack Johnson world heavyweight bouts or the Mexican Revolution Jeanne Campbell Reesman explores his choices of genre by analyzing racial content and purpose and judges his literary artistry against a standard of racial tolerance Although he promoted white superiority in novels and nonfiction London sharply satirized racism and meaningfully portrayed racial others most often as protagonists in his short fiction Why the disparity For London racial and class identity were intertwined his formation as an artist began with the mixed heritage of his family His mother taught him racism but he learned something different from his African American foster mother Virginia Prentiss Childhood poverty shifting racial allegiances and a psychology of want helped construct the many houses of race and identity he imagined Reesman also examines London's socialism his study of Darwin and Jung and the illnesses he suffered in the South Seas With new readings of The Call of the Wild Martin Eden and many other works such as the explosive Pacific stories Reesman reveals that London employed many of the same literary tropes of race used by African American writers of his period the slave narrative double consciousness the tragic mulatto and ethnic diaspora Hawaii seemed to inspire his most memorable visions of a common humanity Japan's Castles Oleg Benesch, Ran Zwigenberg, 2019-05-02 Considering Castles and Tenshu Modern Castles on the Margins Overview from Feudalism to the Edge of Space From Feudalism to Empire Castles and the Transition to the Imperial State Castles in the Global Early Modern World Castles and the Fall of the Tokugawa Useless Reminders of the Feudal Past Remilitarizing Castles in the Meiji Period Considering Heritage in Early Meiji Castles and the Imperial House The Discovery of Castles 1877-1912 Making Space Public Civilian Castles and Daimyo Buyback
