Pride in Modesty Michelangelo Sabatino, 2010-01-01 Following Italy's unification in 1861 architects artists politicians and intellectuals engaged in volatile debates over the pursuit of national and regional identity Growing industrialization and urbanization across the country was changing the physical economic and cultural landscape Yet at the same time there emerged a rediscovery of traditionally built forms and objects created by the agrarian peasantry Pride in Modesty argues that these ordinary often anonymous everyday things inspired and transformed Italian art and architecture from the 1920s to the 1970s Through in depth examinations of texts drawings and buildings Michelangelo Sabatino finds that the folk traditions of the pre industrial countryside have provided formal practical and poetic inspiration for both design and construction practices over a period of sixty years and through a succession of political regimes Exploring this remarkable continuity Sabatino rejects the division of Italian architectural history into sharply delineated periods such as fascist interwar and democratic postwar and instead emphasizes the long gradual process that integrated pastoral and urban ideals into a new modernist Italy

Perspectives on Public Space in Rome, from Antiquity to the Present Day Jan

Gadeyne, 2016-04-22 This volume provides readers interested in urban history with a collection of essays on the evolution of public space in that paradigmatic western city which is Rome Scholars specialized in different historical periods contributed chapters in order to find common themes which weave their way through one of the most complex urban histories of western civilization Divided into five chronological sections Antiquity Middle Ages Renaissance Baroque Modern and Contemporary the volume opens with the issue of how public space was defined in classical Roman law and how ancient city managers organized the maintenance of these spaces before moving on to explore how this legacy was redefined and reinterpreted during the Middle Ages The third group of essays examines how the imposition of papal order on feuding families during the Renaissance helped introduce a new urban plan which could satisfy both functional and symbolic needs The fourth section shows how modern Rome continued to express strong interest in the control and management of public space the definition of which was necessarily selective in this vastly extensive city The collection ends with an essay on the contemporary debate for revitalizing Rome's eastern periphery Through this long term chronological approach the volume offers a truly unique insight into the urban development of one of Europe's most important cities and concludes with a discussion of the challenges public space faces today after having served for so many centuries as a driving force in urban history

Atrium Charles Rice, 2023-10-17 How the rise of the large scale atrium space in the 1970s and 80s changed the way buildings could be designed constructed regulated and occupied In the 1970s a void opened at the heart of architecture In hotels offices public buildings and commercial centers the atrium emerged globally to challenge the modernist legacies of form and function altering the pattern and experience of cities While often appearing at vast scale and to striking effect the atrium also became omnipresent and mundane In this lively critique Charles Rice charts the atrium's appearance in the 1970s and its development through the 1980s as it accompanied profound shifts in the discipline and practice of architecture During this period architectural practice especially in the United States and United Kingdom was changing rapidly due in part to the manifold effects of deregulation All aspects of the way buildings were designed developed regulated built managed and occupied were being reshaped A practice guided by the progressive tenets of modernism was being turned into a professional service fully integrated within neoliberal social and economic imperatives As Rice shows the atrium gives this story a distinct spatial and material figure one that offers an inside view of architecture in transformation

From Autos to Architecture David Gartman, 2012-04-17 One of the most interesting questions in architectural history is why modern architecture emerged from the war ravaged regions of central Europe and not the United States whose techniques of mass production and mechanical products so inspired the first generation of modern architects like Le Corbusier Mies van der Rohe and Walter Gropius In From Autos to Architecture sociologist David Gartman offers a critical social history that shows how Fordist mass production and industrial architecture in America influenced European designers to an extent previously not understood Drawing on Marxist economics the Frankfurt School and French sociologist Pierre Bourdieu From Autos to Architecture deftly illustrates the different class structures and struggles of America and Europe Examining architecture in the context of social conflicts From Autos to Architecture offers a critical alternative to standard architectural histories focused on aesthetics alone

Avery Index to Architectural Periodicals. 2d Ed., Rev. and Enl Avery Library,1997 The Seven Godly Keys Towards Perfection Luay K. Buni,2016-12-07 The history of human civilizations is lacking perfection One theory replaces another and no theory has ever been permanent in the worldview of all civilizations In philosophy the phenomenology philosophers admitted that all the history of philosophy included a meaningless conflict between two main attitudes the ideal and the natural standpoints They added that the truth should be based on an interrelation between those two standpoints to start a third new standpoint which is yet to have a lot of understanding to come There is no agreement on any permanent timeless and placeless absolute truths which are true keys toward perfection neither in philosophy nor in any other field in worldview
