Harvard Design School Guide To Shopping Project On The City:

Project on the city. Volume 2, Harvard design school guide to shopping Chuihua Judy Chung, 2001 SHOPPING is arguably the last remaining form of public activity Through a battery of increasingly predatory forms shopping has infiltrated colonized and even replaced almost every aspect of urban life Town centers suburbs streets and now airports train stations museums hospitals schools the Internet and the military are shaped by the mechanisms and spaces of shopping The voracity by which shopping pursues the public has in effect made it one of the principal if only modes by which we experience the city The Harvard Design School Guide to Shopping explores the spaces people techniques ideologies and inventions by which shopping has so dramatically refashioned the city Perhaps the beginning of the twenty first century will be remembered as the point where the urban could no longer be understood without shopping The PROJECT ON THE CITY formerly known as The Project for What Used to be the City is an ongoing research effort that examines the effects of modernization on the urban condition Each year the Project on the City investigates a specific urban region or a general urban condition undergoing virulent change It tries to capture and decipher ongoing mutations in order to develop a new conceptual framework and vocabulary for phenomena that can no longer be described within the traditional categories of architecture landscape and urban planning The first project Great Leap Forward focuses on the new forms and speeds of urbanization in the Pearl River Delta China The second project investigates the impact of shopping on the city The third project explores the urban condition of Lagos Nigeria The fourth project treats the invention and expansion of the systematic Roman city as an early version of modernization and a prototype for the current process of globalization Design and Crime (And Other Diatribes) Hal Foster, 2024-12-10 In these diatribes on the marketing of culture and the branding of identity the development of spectacle architecture and the rise of global cities Hal Foster surveys our new political economy of design Written in a lively style Design and Crime explores the historical relations of modern art and modern museum the conceptual vicissitudes of art history and visual studies the recent travails of art criticism and the double aftermath of modernism and postmodernism in an attempt to illuminate the conditions for critical culture in the present After-Images of the City Joan Ramon Resina, Dieter Ingenschay, 2018-08-06 Criticism on the textual and iconographic construction of the city is extensive yet the problem of historical change in representations of the urban has received little attention Believing traditional accounts are limited by their reflection of a specific historical moment Joan Ramon Resina and Dieter Ingenschay focus by contrast on transition In essays written for this volume scholars of literary and visual studies the history of architecture cultural theory and urban geography explore the ways perceptual or conceptual paradigms of the city supersede or replace others while at the same time retaining the after image of what went before The writers touch on a wide variety of issues related to contemporary urban cultures as they journey through cities including New York Barcelona Madrid Paris Tijuana Berlin and London Drawing on the work of Roland Barthes Walter Benjamin Camilo Jos Cela Honor de Balzac and

Alfred Stieglitz their approach is broadly cultural rather than technical After Images of the City takes into account the intrinsic instability of the image and reveals that representations of the modern metropolis cannot be fixed in time and history

Boutiques and Other Retail Spaces David Vernet, Leontine de Wit, 2007-08-17 Presenting a critical and theoretical dimension to retail design Boutiques and Other Retail Spaces links the ideas behind it to real practice in this innovative and important contribution to architectural interior theory literature Retail structure has been subject to a dramatic and ongoing transformation over the past thirty years materializing in the emergence of large scale out of town shopping centres and new specialized shops in city centres These specialized boutiques are highly designed involving well known architectural firms such as OMA Rem Koolhaas David Chipperfield Herzog de Meuron amongst others With case studies and over 100 black and white images Vernet and de Wit set forth original and well grounded theory to accompany this popular and lucrative area of work

Geographies of Modernism Peter Brooker, Andrew Thacker, 2007-05-07 One of the most pivotal developments in contemporary literary and cultural studies is the investigation of space and geography a trend which is proving particularly important for modernist studies This volume explores the interface between modernism and geography in a range of writers texts and artists across the twentieth century Cross disciplinary essays test and extend a variety of methodological approaches and reveal the reach of this topic into every corner of modernist scholarship From Imagist poetry and the Orient to teashops and modernism in London or from mapping and belonging in James Joyce or Joseph Conrad to the space of new media artists this remarkable volume offers fresh invigorating research that ranges across the field of modernism It also serves to identify the many exciting new directions that future studies may take With groundbreaking essays from an international team of highly regarded scholars Geographies of Modernism is an important step forward in literary and cultural studies

Shaping the City Rodolphe El-Khoury, Edwards Robbins, 2015-06-23 Taking on the key issues in urban design Shaping the City examines the critical ideas that have driven these themes and debates through a study of particular cities at important periods in their development As well as retaining crucial discussions about cities such as Los Angeles Atlanta Chicago Detroit Philadelphia and Brasilia at particular moments in their history that exemplified the problems and themes at hand like the mega city the post colonial city and New Urbanism in this new edition the editors have introduced new case studies critical to any study of contemporary urbanism China Dubai Tijuana and the wider issues of informal cities in the Global South The book serves as both a textbook for classes in urban design planning and theory and is also attractive to the increasing interest in urbanism by scholars in other fields Shaping the City provides an essential overview of the range and variety of urbanisms and urban issues that are critical to an understanding of contemporary urbanism

Shopping as an Entertainment Experience Mark Howard Moss, 2007-01-01 Shopping as an Entertainment Experience explores the ways in which shopping has become a significant entertainment feature in our daily lives Dr Mark H Moss examines the department store the mall and the e store to demonstrate how shopping is often the most common leisure experience that people indulge in to occupy themselves This unique book focuses on the historical evolution of shopping environments into contemporary entertainment or cultural zones Through a phenomenological framework Moss analyzes the way stores outlets and restaurants in malls mingle and merge aspects of consumption and merchandising Shopping as an Entertainment Experience appeals to sociologists cultural theorists and those interested in popular culture Sprawl Robert Bruegmann, 2008-09-15 As anyone who has flown into Los Angeles at dusk or Houston at midday knows urban areas today defy traditional notions of what a city is Our old definitions of urban suburban and rural fail to capture the complexity of these vast regions with their superhighways subdivisions industrial areas office parks and resort areas pushing far out into the countryside Detractors call it sprawl and assert that it is economically inefficient socially inequitable environmentally irresponsible and aesthetically ugly Robert Bruegmann calls it a logical consequence of economic growth and the democratization of society with benefits that urban planners have failed to recognize In his incisive history of the expanded city Bruegmann overturns every assumption we have about sprawl Taking a long view of urban development he demonstrates that sprawl is neither recent nor particularly American but as old as cities themselves just as characteristic of ancient Rome and eighteenth century Paris as it is of Atlanta or Los Angeles Nor is sprawl the disaster claimed by many contemporary observers Although sprawl like any settlement pattern has undoubtedly produced problems that must be addressed it has also provided millions of people with the kinds of mobility privacy and choice that were once the exclusive prerogatives of the rich and powerful The first major book to strip urban sprawl of its pejorative connotations Sprawl offers a completely new vision of the city and its growth Bruegmann leads readers to the powerful conclusion that in its immense complexity and constant change the city whether dense and concentrated at its core looser and more sprawling in suburbia or in the vast tracts of exurban penumbra that extend dozens even hundreds of miles is the grandest and most marvelous work of mankind Largely missing from this debate over sprawl has been a sound and reasoned history of this pattern of living With Robert Bruegmann's Sprawl A Compact History we now have one What a pleasure it is well written accessible and eager to challenge the current cant about sprawl Joel Kotkin The Wall Street Journal There are scores of books offering solutions to sprawl Their authors would do well to read this book Witold Rybczynski Slate Sayable Space. Narrative Practices in Architecture Giovanni Corbellini, 2021-11-18 When a work reaches its maximum intensity wrote Le Corbusier a phenomenon of ineffable space occurs The ultimate quality of architecture would reside therefore in the resistance to its description However to tell us this and much more the Swiss master has published more than seventy books and his so compelling formula in supporting the ineffable also shows how words are able to grasp it This brief essay investigates the multiple intersections between discourse and design the way buildings try to talk with their own specific means how architects are trying to remain relevant without building the paradoxes of architecture description after its completion the modes of communication during the project processes the capacity of narrative to act before the project operations start and infiltrate

the collective perception making possible innovative approaches

Basics Urban Building Blocks Thorsten

Bürklin, Michael Peterek, 2017-05-22 Our cities and neighborhoods are composed of urban building blocks and a knowledge of these elementary components is part of the basic equipment of city planning. It is absolutely essential for urban design that one understands their form and structure, their functional conditions and the differentiation into private and public spheres as well as the ways they are networked into their surroundings. Study of these city building blocks represents a first step toward understanding and successfully developing the built structure of the city as a physical and social habitat. Themes are the row, the block, the courtyard, the block in reverse, the passageway, the line, the solitaire, the group, the shed.

Without and Within Mark Pimlott, 2007

Retailising Space

Mattias Karrholm, 2016-04-08 Over the past few years there has been a proliferation of new kinds of retail space. Retail space has cropped up just about everywhere in the urban landscape: in libraries, workplaces, churches, and museums. In short, retail is becoming a more and more manifest part of the public domain. The traditional spaces of retail, such as city centres and outlying shopping malls, are either increasing in size or disappearing, producing new urban types and whole environments totally dedicated to retail. The creation of these new retail spaces has brought about a re- and de-territorialisation of urban public space and has also led to transformations in urban design and type of materials used and even in the logic and ways through which these design amenities meet the needs of retailers and or consumers. This book describes how the retailisation of public domains affects our everyday life and our use of the built environment. Taking an architectural and territorial perspective on this issue, it looks specifically at how retail and consumption spaces have changed and territorialised urban life in different ways. It then develops a methodology and a set of concepts to describe and understand the role of architecture in these territorial transformations.

Corridor Kate

Kate Marshall, 2013-06-01 Corridor offers a series of conceptually provocative readings that illuminate a hidden and surprising relationship between architectural space and modern American fiction. By paying close attention to fictional descriptions of some of modernity's least remarkable structures, such as plumbing ductwork and airshafts, Kate Marshall discovers a rich network of connections between corridors and novels, one that also sheds new light on the nature of modern media. The corridor is the dominant organizational structure in modern architecture, yet its various functions are taken for granted and it tends to disappear from view. But as Marshall shows, even the most banal structures become strangely visible in the noisy communication systems of American fiction. By examining the link between modernist novels and corridors, Marshall demonstrates the ways architectural elements act as media. In a fresh look at the late naturalist fiction of the 1920s, 30s, and 40s, she leads the reader through the fetus-clogged sewers of Manhattan Transfer to the corpse-choked furnaces of Native Son and reveals how these invisible spaces have a fascinating history in organizing the structure of modern persons. Portraying media as not only objects but processes, Marshall develops a new idiom for Americanist literary criticism, one that explains how media studies can inform our understanding of modernist literature.

Urban Transformations and

Sustainability Frank D. van der Hoeven, H.J. Rosemann, 2006-04-15 The contributions presented are reflecting the ongoing efforts to redefine the discipline of urbanism under globally changing conditions. The conditions of urban development are changing rapidly: technological transformations, new transportation and distribution systems, communication technologies, globalisation, and environment problems all cause new challenges. The planning of the future can no longer be based on the certainty of programs and conditions. Instead, the planner is confronted with changing conditions and shifting programs. In this framework, more than before, design approaches will be pivotal. Exploratory research, the reflexive exploration of spatial potentials, and the integration of design methods in spatial research will become a key issue for the scientific development of the discipline. The Delft University of Technology intensified and enlarged the research in the field of urban transformation and sustainability, and new issues and methodological approaches were discussed in order to develop new research collaborations. With this publication, a broader public has the opportunity to deal with this debate. Valences of the

Dialectic Fredric Jameson, 2020-05-05 After half a century exploring dialectical thought, renowned cultural critic Fredric Jameson presents a comprehensive study of a misunderstood yet vital strain in Western philosophy. The dialectic, the concept of the evolution of an idea through conflicts arising from its inherent contradictions, transformed two centuries of Western philosophy. To Hegel, who dominated nineteenth-century thought, it was a metaphysical system. In the works of Marx, the dialectic became a tool for materialist historical analysis. Jameson brings a theoretical scrutiny to bear on the questions that have arisen in the history of this philosophical tradition, contextualizing the debate in terms of commodification and globalization, and with reference to thinkers such as Rousseau, Lukács, Heidegger, Sartre, Derrida, and Althusser. Through rigorous, erudite examination, Valences of the Dialectic charts a movement toward the innovation of a spatial dialectic. Jameson presents a new synthesis of thought that revitalizes dialectical thinking for the twenty-first century. Modernizing

Main Street Gabrielle Esperdy, 2010-07-15 An important part of the New Deal, the Modernization Credit Plan, helped transform urban business districts and small-town commercial strips across 1930s America, but it has since been almost completely forgotten. In Modernizing Main Street, Gabrielle Esperdy uncovers the cultural history of the hundreds of thousands of modernized storefronts that resulted from the little-known federal provision that made billions of dollars available to shop owners who wanted to update their facades. Esperdy argues that these updated storefronts served a range of complex purposes, such as stimulating public consumption, extending the New Deal's influence, reviving a stagnant construction industry, and introducing European modernist design to the everyday landscape. She goes on to show that these diverse roles are inseparably woven together, not only by the crisis of the Depression but also by the pressures of burgeoning consumerism. As the decade's two major cultural forces, Esperdy concludes, consumerism and the Depression transformed the storefront from a seemingly insignificant element of the built environment into a potent site for the physical and rhetorical staging of recovery and progress. Junkware Thierry Bardini, 2011 The essential junkiness of our culture and biology      Architecture and the Image at the Turn of the 21st Century Sanja Rodeš, 2024-06-28 This book examines architecture image and media relationships as productive for architecture and architectural discourses By arguing that the relationships between architecture and media cannot be dismissed via linear criticism of architecture and media or image these relations are instead seen as a part of a sphere a mediasphere of complex relationships In lieu of anything like a consensus on the contemporary condition of architecture referring to the late twentieth and the twenty first centuries the starting point of this book is that the relationships between architecture media and images continue to multiply owing to continuous technological advancements Contemporary architecture considered in this book is related to the selected circumstances of high visibility where architectural images are propelled into visibility and conflated with non architectural images This takes architecture outside of architectural only discourse and into the public realm By granting higher visibility to both the architectural images and architecture in the public realm architecture can also be influenced by the various perceptions of the general public and can enter public consciousness via non architectural media With increased visibility architecture s far reaching presence calls for more structured analysis of its nature and potential As the analysed architecture in this book is associated with the discourses outside of architecture some of which relate to terrorism natural disaster and branding and consumption the limits of contemporary architectural discipline are questioned and extended This book is written for academics and students in architectural history theory and criticism particularly those interested in visual and media studies      Consuming Architecture Daniel Maudlin, Marcel Vellinga, 2014-03-05 Projecting forward in time from the processes of design and construction that are so often the focus of architectural discourse Consuming Architecture examines the variety of ways in which buildings are consumed after they have been produced focusing in particular on processes of occupation appropriation and interpretation Drawing on contributions by architects historians anthropologists literary critics artists film makers photographers and journalists it shows how the consumption of architecture is a dynamic and creative act that involves the creation and negotiation of meanings and values by different stakeholders and that can be expressed in different voices In so doing it challenges ideas of what constitutes architecture architectural discourse and architectural education how we understand and think about it and who can claim ownership of it Consuming Architecture is aimed at students in architectural education and will also be of interest to students and researchers from disciplines that deal with architecture in terms of consumption and material culture      New Cultural Studies Gary Hall, 2006-11-10 What should or could cultural studies look like in the 21st Century New Cultural Studies is both an introductory reference work and an original study which explores some of the most exciting new directions currently being opened up in cultural studies A new generation has begun to emerge from the shadow of the Birmingham School a generation who have turned to theory as a means to think through some of the crucial problems and issues in contemporary culture New Cultural Studies Adventures in Theory collects for the first time the ideas of this generation and explains just why theory continues to be crucial for cultural studies The book explores theory's past present and most especially future role in cultural studies It does so by providing an authoritative and accessible guide for students and researchers alike to some of the most interesting members of this post Birmingham school generation the thinkers and theories currently influencing new work in cultural studies Agamben Badiou Deleuze Derrida Hardt and Negri Kittler Laclau Levinas Žižek the new territories being mapped out across the intersections of cultural studies and cultural theory anti capitalism ethics the posthumanities post Marxism new media technologies the transnational
