Harvest Of The Moor:

Harvest of the Moor, 1938 Harvest of the Moor Margaret Leigh, 1937 Harvest of the Moor Margaret Mary Leigh, 1937 The Moor and the Loch John Colquhoun, 1880 Statistics with Applications in Biology and Geology Preben Blaesild, Jorgen Granfeldt, 2018-10-03

The use of statistics is fundamental to many endeavors in biology and geology. For students and professionals in these fields there is no better way to build a statistical background than to present the concepts and techniques in a context relevant to their interests. Statistics with Applications in Biology and Geology provides a practical introduction to using fundamental parametric statistical models frequently applied to data analysis in biology and geology. Based on material developed for an introductory statistics course and classroom tested for nearly 10 years, this treatment establishes a firm basis in models, the likelihood method, and numeracy. The models addressed include one sample, two samples, one and two way analysis of variance, and linear regression for normal data, and similar models for binomial, multinomial, and Poisson data. Building on the familiarity developed with those models, the generalized linear models are introduced, making it possible for readers to handle fairly complicated models for both continuous and discrete data. Models for directional data are treated as well. The emphasis is on parametric models, but the book also includes a chapter on the most important nonparametric tests. This presentation incorporates the use of the SAS statistical software package, which authors use to illustrate all of the statistical tools described. However, to reinforce understanding of the basic concepts, calculations for the simplest models are also worked through by hand. SAS programs and the data used in the examples and exercises are available on the Internet.

The Moor And Loch John Colquhoun, 2013-06-10. John Colquhoun was an expert; he was a sporting naturalist, which basically meant that if something interested him enough, he shot it and would have it stuffed. Colquhoun tells of his experiences fishing salmon, trout, and sea loch fishing, and of his days out shooting partridge, grouse, and black game over pointers, as well as hares, seals, ducks, kites, hawks, pigeons, crossbills, foxes, wild cats, sea birds, and wild goats.

Schiller's Poems and Plays Friedrich Schiller, 1889 The Cambridge University Magazine, 1843

Old Country and Farming Words: Gleaned from Agricultural Books James Britten, 1880 The Harvest of the Hills Angus J. L. Winchester, 2000. This illustrated environmental history of rural life in Northern England and the Scottish Borders in the late medieval and early modern periods explores the relationship between society and the environment, the ways in which humans responded to and used the environment in which they lived. The author uses the orders and byelaws made by manorial courts to build up a picture of how pastoral society in the Pennine Lake District and Border hills husbanded the resources of the uplands. It offers an upland pastoral paradigm of land use, the management of common land, and the transition from medieval to early modern farming systems, to balance the extensive literature on the agrarian history of the lowlands. The geographical scope of the book includes the Lake District, Yorkshire Dales, the Border hills, the North Pennines, and the Forest of Bowland. Through a lively text and carefully selected illustrations, the author captures the distinctive local culture of traditional pastoral communities in these much visited areas of Britain Old Country & Farming Words James Britten,1880 Mauritania Oasis Development Project United States. Agency for International Development,1980

The Moor William Atkins,2014-05-13 In this deeply personal journey across our nation s most forbidding and most mysterious terrain William Atkins takes the reader from south to north in search of the heart of this elusive landscape His account is both travelogue and natural history and an exploration of moorland s uniquely captivating position in our literature history and psyche Atkins may be a solitary wanderer across these vast expanses but his journey is full of encounters busy with the voices of the moors past and present murderers and monks smugglers and priests gamekeepers and ramblers miners and poets developers and environmentalists As he travels he shows us that the fierce landscapes we associate with Wuthering Heights and The Hound of the Baskervilles are far from being untouched wildernesses Daunting and defiant the moors echo with tales of a country and the people who live in it a mighty age old landscape standing steadfast against the passage of time The Works of Thomas Carlyle: Critical and miscellaneous essays Thomas Carlyle,1899
