The Practice of International Development Jerrold Keilson, Michael Gubser, 2017-09-22 Development analysts tend to give short shrift to the seemingly minor bureaucratic hitches faced by practitioners those who design manage implement and evaluate aid projects Often critical of foreign aid either for its apparent ineffectiveness at alleviating poverty or its purported neocolonial implications the academic literature rarely acknowledges the experiences and pressures faced by practitioners themselves as they implement aid funded development projects the meetings paperwork negotiations site visits financial transactions logistical arrangements interviews program activities and beneficiary interactions that keep projects running And yet the impact of aid projects and indeed the impact of development itself often grows out of the daily activities and personal interactions of development practitioners This unique book considers challenges from the perspective of development practitioners who confront technical managerial political theoretical and moral quandaries on a daily basis With chapters written by expert practitioners on different aspects of design and management of international development activities this book examines real issues and navigates the often contradictory demands of local development needs including international donor imperatives limited financial resources time information and assurance of results the competing pulls of administrative efficiency and the desire to alleviate suffering It also gives readers access to the crucial but little heard voices of those who spend their professional lives designing and managing foreign aid projects offering insight into what did or did not work on projects they have managed implemented or evaluated These insights do not seek to identify universally right or wrong ways of doing development instead they highlight pros and cons associated with various approaches and decisions This book provides valuable insights for students and others interested in a development career encourages practitioners to engage in reflection and persuades researchers to further consider the influence of practice on project success or failure

Economics of the Reversal in Gender Disparities in Education and Development Masayoshi Okabe, 2025-09-30 This book examines the background and consequences of the reversal in gender disparities in education through the case of the Philippines While global education and development discourse has long emphasized girls disadvantage a reversal where boys are falling behind in education has also recently emerged in a number of countries in developing contexts This book critically investigates this issue in the Philippines hailed as the top runner of gender equality in Asia and the Pacific where boys especially those from poorer households and in rural areas are increasingly falling behind Drawing on data from three provinces across the archipelago's main regions Luzon Visayas and Mindanao the book empirically traces the background and consequences of the reversal in family dynamics and school environments amid poverty and uneven development It reveals that boys' educational disengagement cannot be understood independently of broader socioeconomic structures While girls may outperform boys in education labor market and familial systems often continue to disadvantage women recursively shaping boys' educational disengagement Through the lens of intergroup heterogeneity this book offers an in depth examination of the nature of the reversal The economics of reversal is thus used not merely to describe but to rigorously interrogate surface level shifts that may obscure deeper enduring asymmetries The book adopts an interdisciplinary approach combining development economics education and area studies aiming to bridge econometric rigor and field based contextual sensitivity It is intended for scholars educators policymakers and students interested in evolving patterns of education and development This volume presents an expanded and refined development of the author's earlier research which was awarded the Main Prize at the 19th Asia Pacific Research Prize Iue Prize conferred by the Asia Pacific Forum Awaji Conference Japan

International Handbook of Comparative Education Robert Cowen, Andreas M. Kazamias, 2009-08-22 A big project like this Handbook means that you incur debts and not only to your authors and your publisher As editors we along with our colleague Elaine Unterhalter who edited the section on postcolonialism would like to thank most warmly those authors who delivered on time and who did not fuss but just got on and did a r rate job We would also like to thank all authors who did deliver which was almost everyone we asked We know that some of our authors worked in very dif cult private circumstances as they were nishing their chapters and we hope the publication of the Volumes will later be for them a happy reminder of dif culties and disasters overcome The only sad theme is that some very close colleagues with whom we were wo ing and for whom we had the greatest respect and liking became very ill and died while the volumes were being prepared We decided to ask for copyright permissions to publish something of theirs These permissions were graciously given by two major journals and with the agreement also of our publishers Springer Rolland Paulston and Terry McLaughlin have examples of their writing in this Handbook

Economic Development Michael P. Todaro, Stephen C. Smith, 2006 This text maintains a problem and policy oriented approach to development economics It focuses on people and government in developing countries
