New Media, Old Regimes Lyombe S. Eko, 2012-07-30 New Media Old Regimes Case Studies in Comparative Communication Law and Policy by Lyombe S Eko is a collection of novel theoretical perspectives and case studies which illustrate how different communication law regimes conceptualize and apply universal ideals of human rights and freedom of expression to media controversies in real space and cyberspace Eko's investigation includes such controversial communication policy topics as North African regimes failed use of telecommunications to suppress the social change of the Arab Spring the Mohammad cartoon controversy in Denmark and France French and American policy of development and diffusion of the Minitel and the Internet American and Russian regulation of internet surveillance the problem of managing pedopornography in cyberspace and real space and other current communication policy cases This study will aid readers not only to understand different national and cultural perspectives of thorny communication issues but also show that though freedom of expression is a pluralistic concept the actions of all political regimes at the national transnational and international levels must be held up to the universal standards of freedom of expression set forth in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights New Media Old Regimes provides essential scholarship on comparative communication law and policy in a world of new media

Information, Power, and Politics Sarita Albagli, Maria Lucia Maciel, 2010-11-29 With the spread of information and communication technologies ICTs comes the potential both for new social and economic equalities and new forms of inequalities Information Power and Politics Technological and Institutional Mediations demonstrates that ICTs can act as an impetus for democratizing information and knowledge while at the same time new institutional frameworks can limit one's use of and access to strategic information and knowledge The volume's contributors address ways to strengthen and affirm the socially marginalized as well as suggest how best to incorporate semi peripheral countries and regions into the international system Information Power and Politics offers a refreshing and timely perspective on the ever evolving relationship between information knowledge and communication

Researching Internet Governance Laura Denardis, Derrick Cogburn, Nanette S. Levinson, Francesca Musiani, 2020-09-08 Scholars from a range of disciplines discuss research methods theories and conceptual approaches in the study of internet governance The design and governance of the internet has become one of the most pressing geopolitical issues of our era The stability of the economy democracy and the public sphere are wholly dependent on the stability and security of the internet Revelations about election hacking facial recognition technology and government surveillance have gotten the public's attention and made clear the need for scholarly research that examines internet governance both empirically and conceptually. In this volume, scholars from a range of disciplines consider research methods, theories, and conceptual approaches in the study of internet governance.

Communications Policy Stylianos Papathanassopoulos, Ralph M. Negrine, 2021-01-14 Culture, politics, economics, and technology all impact upon policy decisions. To investigate the factors that influence communications policy, however, one has to go beyond conventional views of media and communication studies and combine these with policy studies. Communications Policy: Theories and Issues utilizes new research to highlight key debates and developments and addresses a broad spectrum of contemporary concerns regarding the structure and the organization of communications systems in the past, present, and future. Combining theoretical analysis with empirical research findings, this comprehensive text explores the contemporary theories and issues in communications policy that affect all democratic societies as they seek to address the challenges of emerging information and communications technologies. Featuring contributions from distinguished authors across a range of media disciplines, Communications Policy introduces challenging ideas about how communications should be structured in the future and is essential reading for all policy makers, researchers, and students of communications policy. Editors: Stylianos Papathanassopoulos is Professor in Media Organization at the Faculty of Communication and Media Studies at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He is the author of Television in the 21st Century (2005), Media and Politics (2004), and European Television in the Digital Age: Issues, Dynamics, and Realities (2002). Ralph Negrine is Professor of Political Communication in the Journalism Studies Department at the University of Sheffield. His previous books include The Transformation of Political Communication (Palgrave, 2008), Television and the Press Since 1945 (1999), and The Communication of Politics (1996). Contributors: Bram Abramson, Johannes M. Bauer, Sandra Braman, Dom Caristi, Alistair Duff, Gisela Gil, Egui Alison Harcourt, Jackie Harrison, Robert W. McChesney, Serge Proulx, Marc Raboy, Concetta M. Stewart, Yan Tian, and Roxanne Walters.

Contemporary China Yongnian Zheng, 2013-01-29 Using new research and considering a multidisciplinary set of factors, Contemporary China offers a comprehensive exploration of the making of contemporary China. It provides a unique perspective on China, incorporating newly published materials from within and outside China, in English and Chinese. It discusses both the societal and economic aspects of China's development and how these factors have affected Chinese elite politics. Includes coverage of recent political scandals such as the dismissal of Bo Xilai and the intrigue surrounding the 18th National Congress elections in late 2012. Discusses the reasons for and ramifications of the gap that exists between western perceptions of China and China itself.

Managing Development in a Globalized World Habib Zafarullah, Ahmed Shafiqul Huque, 2017-09-25 Traditionally, development has been rooted in ideologies and assumptions prevalent in the developed world and in practices and strategies adopted by leading industrial nations. However, historically eclectic ideas and approaches often clash with existing long-established notions of progress and modes of realizing social and economic change.

Managing Development in a Globalized World Concepts Processes Institutions explores this topic by incorporating ideas and interpretations that have previously been neglected or given inadequate attention in the discourse on developing countries It underscores development as a continuous process that must be supported by sound policies and efficient management supplying a wider understanding of the field The authors argue that the application of innovative development techniques and best practices is essential for obtaining optimum results in meeting the needs of society They examine the style of managing development with a new perspective that links the phenomenon with changing demands and the interplay of internal external actors and a host of stakeholders An exploration of key sectors in development provides clear comprehension of problems and solutions A careful synthesis of theoretical conceptual and empirical literature the book assesses real world situations and provides insight into the operational dynamics of development policies programs and institutions It focuses on goals values and dynamics of development management that are undergoing rapid changes and continue to be enhanced to alleviate poverty and improve living standards in an era of globalization and inter regional and inter institutional synergies It highlights best practices essential for the efficient and effective delivery of human development services that are designed and put in place to obtain optimum results in meeting the needs of society

Internet Governance and the Global South A. Bhuiyan, 2014-05-29 A welcome addition to Palgrave's Global Media Policy and Business series Internet Governance and the Global South documents the role of the global south in Internet policymaking and challenges the globalization theories that declared the death of the state in global decision making Abu Bhuiyan argues that the global Internet politics is primarily a conflict between the states the United States of America and the states of the global south because the former controls Internet policymaking The states of the global south have been both oppositional and acquiescing to the sponsored policies of the United States on Internet issues such as digital divide multilingualism intellectual property rights and cyber security They do not oppose the neoliberal underpinnings of the policies promoted by the United States but ask for an international framework to govern the Internet so that they can work as equal partners in setting norms for the global Internet

The Future of Journalism Bob Franklin, 2013-09-13 The future of journalism is hotly contested and highly uncertain reflecting developments in media technologies shifting business strategies for online news changing media organisational and regulatory structures the fragmentation of audiences and a growing public concern about some aspects of tabloid journalism practices and reporting as well as broader political sociological and cultural changes These developments have combined to impoverish the flow of existing revenues available to fund journalism impact radically on traditional journalism professional practices while simultaneously generating an increasingly frenzied search for sustainable and equivalent funding and from a wide range of sources to nurture and deliver quality journalism in the future This book brings together journalists and distinguished academic specialists from around the globe to present the findings from their research and to discuss the future of journalism the shifting quality of its products its wide ranging sources of finance as well as the economic and democratic consequences of the significant changes confronting Journalism The Future of Journalism details the challenges facing the press in contemporary societies and provides essential reading for everyone interested in the role of journalism in shaping and sustaining literate civil and democratic societies This book consists of special issues from Journalism Studies and Journalism Practice

The New Global Rulers Tim Büthe,Walter Mattli,2013-07-21 Global private regulations who wins who loses and why Over the past two decades governments have delegated extensive regulatory authority to international private sector organizations This internationalization and privatization of rule making has been motivated not only by the economic benefits of common rules for global markets but also by the realization that government regulators often lack the expertise and resources to deal with increasingly complex and urgent regulatory tasks The New Global Rulers examines who writes the rules in international private organizations as well as who wins who loses and why Tim B the and Walter Mattli examine three powerful global private regulators the International Accounting Standards Board which develops financial reporting rules used by corporations in more than a hundred countries and the International Organization for Standardization and the International Electrotechnical Commission which account for 85 percent of all international product standards B the and Mattli offer both a new framework for understanding global private regulation and detailed empirical analyses of such regulation based on multi country multi industry business surveys They find that global rule making by technical experts is highly political and that even though rule making has shifted to the international level domestic institutions remain crucial Influence in this form of global private governance is not a function of the economic power of states but of the ability of domestic standard setters to provide timely information and speak with a single voice B the and Mattli show how domestic institutions abilities differ particularly between the two main standardization players the United States and Europe

Regulating Telecommunications in South Africa Charley Lewis,2020-06-10 This book provides the first full account of the 20 year story of universal access and service in South Africa s ICT sector From 1994 the country s first democratic government set out to redress the deep digital divide afflicting the overwhelming majority of its citizens already poor and disenfranchised but likewise marginalised in access to telephone infrastructure and services By this time an incipient global policy regime was driving reforms in the telecomms sector and also developing good practice models for universal service Policy diffusion thus led South Africa to adopt adapt and implement a slew of these interventions In particular roll out obligations were imposed on licensees and a universal service fund was established But an agency with a universal service mandate was also created and licences in under serviced areas were awarded The book goes on to identify and analyse the policy success and failure of each of these interventions and suggests some lessons to be learned
