Employability Skills In Nonprofessional Occupations A Four Country Comparative Research Project:

Employability Skills in Non-professional Occupations Gerður G. Óskarsdóttir, 2000 This volume gives the results of a comparative study on developments and skill requirements in 20 non professional job fields in four European countries Iceland Italy France and Greece The project which received support from the European Community as part of the Leonardo da Vinci Programme is based on an earlier study in Iceland designed by Gerður G Óskarsdóttir of 100 non professional occupations Three main questions are addressed in this study first whether there is an upskilling or a deskilling trend in non professional occupations in these countries second whether general employability skills are demanded in all of the jobs and finally whether there are differences to be found among occupations and or countries in these respects Mindful

Co-Working Clark Baim, 2013-11-21 Do you worry that you aren't making the most of your co working relationships Most of us work with others every day and it's important these relationships run smoothly Mindful co working removes the pressure and stress from working relationships by helping workers become more attuned to their colleagues Knowledge

Resources in Education, 2001-04 Generational Diversity at Work Emma Parry, 2017-09-29 Over the past decade much attention has been paid to the apparent differences in consumption preferences or workplace attitudes and behaviours across generations Within Western economies such as the USA UK and Australia it is commonly assumed that there are now four generations in the workplace namely Veterans born 1925 1942 Baby Boomers 1943 1960 Generation X 1961 1981 and Generation Y 1982 2000 The concept of generational differences at work is one that has recently been adopted by practitioners as a basis on which to design human resource management and career management practices However there has been some concern in academic circles about the validity of the notion of generations and the evidence base that supports it There is therefore a need for new perspectives and methodological approaches to investigating generational differences at work in order to establish the validity and value of generations as an axis of diversity Generational Diversity at Work New Research Perspectives will address this need by presenting and discussing research into generational diversity that adopts a range of new theoretical perspectives or methodological approaches This book is designed as a first step in addressing the need to critically examine the theoretical and empirical basis for generational differences and to provide some new empirical data in this area Icelandic National Bibliography, 2000 Research in Education, 1974 Resources in Education, 1997 Manpower Research Projects Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Labor, Manpower Administration United States.
