especially brutal form of warfare within a sturdily analytical and often critical framework The Economist A marvelously complete and detailed study of World War II submarine warfare an interesting serious and timely book Houston Chronicle A brilliant submarine warfare study Military Review The Statesman's Year-Book S. Steinberg,2016-12-26 The classic reference work that provides annually updated information on the countries of the world The Art of War in the Age of Peace Michael O'Hanlon,1992-08-24 This study begins with a set of strategic assumptions most notably that the risks of U S Russian war are and will remain extremely low and that the U S military remains a stabilizing influence in many geographic theaters O'Hanlon then shows that the United States interests in the Third World while nowhere truly vital are sufficiently important to justify a measured degree of global military presence and engagement Historical political and military analysis suggests that these interests can be protected efficiently and effectively with a U S military reduced in size by roughly 40 to 50 percent in most types of major combat forces and by 95 percent in nuclear forces In the realm of conventional forces these cuts would be about twice as deep as those planned by Secretary of Defense Richard Cheney in the nuclear realm they would be much deeper than those approved by the Bush administration By contrast analysis suggests that U S capabilities should be largely held constant or in some cases even expanded in logistics intelligence and communications R D and special forces The resulting force posture would cost about 200 billion in 1991 dollars through the early years of the next century and perhaps 230 billion annually thereafter O'Hanlon's is one of the first in depth studies of how the U S military might be reconfigured for the post Cold War world This study will prove useful for defense policy makers at the specialized levels and for students of the guns vs butter policy issues and debates Dictionary of American Naval Fighting Ships ,1968
