JEANSONNE,DAVID LUHRSEN,2014-10-01 Americans have been almost constantly at war since 1917 In addition to two world wars the United States has fought proxy wars propaganda wars and a war on terror among others But even with the constant presence of war in American life much of what Americans remember about those conflicts comes from Hollywood depictions In War on the Silver Screen Glen Jeansonne and David Luhrssen vividly demonstrate how war movies have burned the images and impressions of those wars onto the American psyche more concretely than has the reality of the wars themselves That is our feelings about wars are generated less by what we learn through study and discourse than by powerful cinematic images and dialogue Films are compressed intense and immediate and often a collective experience rather than a solitary one Actors and drama provide the visceral impact necessary to form perceptions of history that are much more enduring than those generated by other media or experiences War on the Silver Screen draws on more than a century of films and history including classics such as All Quiet on the Western Front Apocalypse Now and The Hurt Locker to examine the legacy of American cinema on twentieth and twenty first century attitudes about war      Hollywood and the Invention of England Jonathan Stubbs,2019-02-21 Drawing on new archival research into Hollywood production history and detailed analysis of individual films Hollywood and the Invention of England examines the surprising affinity for the English past in Hollywood cinema Stubbs asks why Hollywood filmmakers have so frequently drawn on images and narratives depicting English history and why films of this type have resonated with audiences in America Beginning with an overview of the cultural interaction between American film and English historical culture the book proceeds to chart the major filmmaking cycles which characterise Hollywood s engagement with the English past from the 1930s to the present assessing the value of English themed films in the American film industry while also placing them in a broader historical context

Ruskin, the Theatre and Victorian Visual Culture A. Heinrich,K. Newey,J. Richards,2009-04-08 This collection of essays sets out to challenge the dominant narrative about Victorian theatre by placing the practices and products of the Victorian theatre in relation to Victorian visual culture through the lens of the concept of Ruskinian theatre an approach to theatre which values its educative purpose as well as its aesthetic expression      Movie Greats Philip Gillett,2008-09-01 Why are some films regarded as classics worthy of entry into the canon of film history Which sorts of films make the cut and why Movie Greats questions how cinema is ranked and in doing so uncovers a history of critical conflict with different aesthetic positions battling for dominance The films examined range across the history of cinema The Battleship Potemkin The 39 Steps Modern Times Citizen Kane It s a Wonderful Life Black Narcissus The Night of the Hunter Lawrence of Arabia 8

2001 A Space Odyssey The Godfather Raging Bull The Piano and Kill Bill Vol 1 Each chapter opens with a brief summary of the film's plot and goes on to discuss the historical context the key individuals who made the film and initial and subsequent popular and critical responses Students studying the history of film canon formation or film aesthetics will find this book relevant provocative and absorbing Past and Present James Chapman, 2005-09-23 This ground breaking book takes as its focal point director Ken Loach's view that The only reason to make films that are a reflection on history is to talk about the present In the first book to take on this major genre in all its complexity James Chapman argues that historical films say as much about the times in which they are made as about the past they purport to portray Through in depth case studies of fourteen key films spanning the 1930s up to the turn of the twenty first century from The Private Life of Henry VIII and Zulu to Chariots of Fire and Elizabeth Chapman examines the place of historical films in British cinema history and film culture Looking closely at the issues that they present from gender class and ethnicity to militarism and imperialism he also discusses controversies over historical accuracy and the ways in which devices such as voice overs title captions and visual references to photographs and paintings assert a sense of historical verisimilitude Exploring throughout the book the dialectical relationship between past and present Chapman reveals how such films promote British achievements but also sometimes question them and how they project images of Britishness to audiences both in the UK and internationally

Arms and Disarmament in Diplomacy Keith Hamilton, Edward Johnson, 2008 Armaments their acquisition employment manufacture and supply have frequently in conjunction with initiatives aimed at avoiding and regulating conflict been the subject matter of diplomacy throughout much of the twentieth century This book through nine essays by historians with a specialist interest in this field presents a selection of case studies in which issues relating to armaments have figured large in diplomacy from the Hague Peace Conference of 1899 through the early years of the United Nations The essays draw upon the research of individual specialists to explore a theme which has otherwise been covered mainly by works which have confined themselves to narrower chronological periods The book will through a number of related contributions help to provide a fuller understanding of how since the end of the nineteenth century diplomacy has responded to and to some extent been shaped by problems posed by the perceived need to control and regulate armaments and war Guilty Jack G.

Shaheen, 2008 Shaheen shows that post 9 11 American cinema is still making the same old equation between Muslims and Arabs and violence using them as a shorthand for enemy He also addresses various cultural issues arguing that the War on Terror can only be won when centuries old stereotypes of Arabs are shattered Beyond the Epic Gene Phillips, 2006-11-24 Two time Academy Award winner Sir David Lean 1908 1991 was one of the most prominent directors of the twentieth century responsible for the classics The Bridge on the River Kwai 1957 Lawrence of Arabia 1962 and Doctor Zhivago 1965 British born Lean asserted himself in Hollywood as a major filmmaker with his epic storytelling and panoramic visions of history but he started out as a talented film editor and director in Great Britain As a result he brought an art house mentality
