Filming Works Like This:

Filming Margins Ching Yau, 2004-09-01 This book studies the work of filmmaker Tang Shu Shuen in Hong Kong in the 1960s and 1970s It raises issues regarding the applicability of paradigms of Western auteurism and feminist authorship in studying Tang's work and also examines the reasons why Tang Shu Shuen's work has been so underrecognised and underdiscussed historically Through examining the production and reception structures of Tang Shu Shuen's work this publication attempts to shed light on the development of Hong Kong's film industry and the evolution and problems of Hong Kong's cultural identity in the 1960s and 1970s Yau Ching is currently Assistant Professor at the School of Design of the Hong Kong Polytechnic University She teaches courses in areas including media production cinema studies and cultural studies She is also a filmmaker media artist and writer Her publications include Building a New Stove Stripping Pants and Skirts The Impossible Home and Ho Yuk Her films and videos include Flow The Ideal Na rra tion Video Letters 1 3

Diasporama Dead Air Finding Oneself and Ho Yuk Let's Love Hong Kong Working Like a Homosexual Matthew Tinkcom, 2002-03-18 Rather than seeing camp as a mode of reception a way of reading straight popular culture Tinkcom sees it as an intentional product of gay men within the film industry Metanarrative Functions of Film Genre in Kenneth Branagh's Shakespeare Films Jessica M. Maerz, 2017-05-11 Kenneth Branagh is the most important contemporary figure in the production of filmed Shakespeare His five feature length Shakespeare films Henry V 1989 Much Ado About Nothing 1993 Hamlet 1996 Love's Labour's Lost 2000 and As You Like It 2007 both created and represented the explosion of filmed Shakespeare adaptations that began in the 1990s This book demonstrates Branagh's appeal to classical film genres in order to meta narrate for a popular audience the unfamiliar terrain of the Shakespearean original it examines the debts Branagh owes stylistically and structurally to classically defined generic modes The generic appeal in Branagh's films is one that grows progressively becoming incrementally more critical to his Shakespearean adaptations as Branagh's career progresses Thus his debut film Henry V is the least classically generic of all his films relying primarily on intertextual and generic references to more contemporary styles like the action genre and the Vietnam War film Much Ado About Nothing represents a transitional moment in Branagh's generic development while the film closely accords to the norms of the screwball comedy this generic correspondence derives primarily from the Shakespearean text With Hamlet Branagh begins to experiment with genre as a conceptual conceit although the film owes much to classical domestic melodrama particularly in Hamlet's relationships with Gertrude and Ophelia Branagh frames his domestic story with devices drawn from the classical Hollywood historical epic Branagh's spectacular failure Love's Labour's Lost demonstrates a unique subordination of the logic and authority of the Shakespearean source text to the demands of the classical musical form Finally Branagh's most recent film As You Like It reveals a new approach towards working with filmed Shakespeare while simultaneously re working the generic structures and practices that characterize his earlier more successful films The Works of Theodore Roosevelt: Hunting trips of a ranchman ; Game shooting in the West ; Good hunting Theodore Roosevelt, 1923 Filming History from Below Efrén Cuevas, 2022-01-11 Traditional historical documentaries strive to project a sense of objectivity producing a top down view of history that focuses on public events and personalities In recent decades in line with historiographical trends advocating history from below a different type of historical documentary has emerged focusing on tightly circumscribed subjects personal archives and first person perspectives Efrén Cuevas categorizes these films as microhistorical documentaries and examines how they push cinema's capacity as a producer of historical knowledge in new directions Cuevas pinpoints the key features of these documentaries identifying their parallels with written microhistory a reduced scale of observation a central role given to human agency a conjectural approach to the use of archival sources and a reliance on narrative structures Microhistorical documentaries also use tools specific to film to underscore the affective dimension of historical narratives often incorporating autobiographical and essayistic perspectives and highlighting the role of the protagonists' personal memories in the reconstruction of the past These films generally draw from family archives with an emphasis on snapshots and home movies Filming History from Below examines works including Peter Forgács's films dealing with the Holocaust such as The Maelstrom and Free Fall documentaries about the Israeli-Palestinian conflict Rithy Panh's work on the Cambodian genocide films about the internment of Japanese Americans during the Second World War such as A Family Gathering and History and Memory and Jonas Mekas's chronicle of migration in his diary film Lost Lost Lost
