I. Hayes, 2001 JACK IRBY HAYES JR revisits the South Carolina of the 1930s to determine the impact of federal programs on the state s economy politics culture and citizenry He traces the waxing and waning of support for programs such as Works Progress Administration WPA Civilian Conservation Corps CCC and the Federal Emergency Relief Administration FERA and concludes that the modernization of South Carolina would have been delayed without their intervention Suggesting that the New Deal hastened the end of one party political domination Hayes proposes that it also initiated a new era of modernized agriculture and banking practices rural electrical service labor restrictions relief programs and cultural resurgence Hayes finds that Franklin Delano Roosevelt s initiatives enjoyed widespread support among South Carolinians He documents the welcoming of agricultural and erosion controls welfare relief child labor laws minimum wage requirements public construction state parks and massive hydroelectric projects He also credits the New Deal with sparking an intellectual reawakening and a restoration of faith in capitalism democracy and progress But Hayes demonstrates that

Sounds of the New Deal Peter Gough, 2015-02-28 At its peak the Federal Music Project FMP employed nearly 16 000 people who reached millions of Americans through performances composing teaching and folksong collection and transcription In Sounds of the New Deal Peter Gough explores how the FMP s activities in the West shaped a new national appreciation for the diversity of American musical expression From the onset administrators and artists debated whether to represent highbrow popular or folk music in FMP activities Though the administration privileged using good music to educate the public in the West local preferences regularly trumped national priorities and allowed diverse vernacular musics

to be heard African American and Hispanic music found unprecedented popularity while the cultural mosaic illuminated by American folksong exemplified the spirit of the Popular Front movement These new musical expressions combined the radical sensibilities of an invigorated Left with nationalistic impulses At the same time they blended traditional patriotic themes with an awareness of the country's varied ethnic musical heritage and vast but endangered store of grassroots music

Bold Relief Edwin Amenta, 2021-03-09 According to conventional wisdom American social policy has always been exceptional exceptionally stingy and backwards But Edwin Amenta reminds us here that sixty years ago the United States led the world in spending on social provision He combines history and political theory to account for this surprising fact and to explain why the country's leading role was short lived The orthodox view is that American social policy began in the 1930s as a two track system of miserly welfare for the unemployed and generous social security for the elderly However Amenta shows that the New Deal was in fact a bold program of relief committed to providing jobs and income support for the unemployed Social security was by comparison a policy afterthought By the late 1930s he shows the U S pledged more of its gross national product to relief programs than did any other major industrial country Amenta develops and uses an institutional politics theory to explain how social policy expansion was driven by northern Democrats state based reformers and political outsiders And he shows that retrenchment in the 1940s was led by politicians from areas where beneficiaries of relief were barred from voting He also considers why some programs were nationalized why some states had far reaching little New Deals and why Britain otherwise so similar to the United States adopted more generous social programs Bold Relief will transform our understanding of the roots of American social policy and of the institutional and political dynamics that will shape its future

International and future perspectives on social policy Museums and Public Art? Cher Krause Knight, Harriet F. Senie, 2018-06-11 While many museums have ignored public art as a distinct arena of art production and display others have either grudgingly or enthusiastically embraced it Some institutions have partnered with public art agencies to expand the scope of special exhibitions other museums have attempted to establish in house public art programs This is the first book to contextualize the collaborations between museums and public art through a range of essays marked by their coherence of topical focus written by leading and emerging scholars and artists Organized into three sections it represents a major contribution to the field of art history in general and to those of public art and museum studies in particular It includes essays by art historians critics curators arts administrators and artists all of whom help to finally codify the largely unwritten history of how museums and public art have and continue to intersect Key questions are both addressed and offered as topics for further discussion Who originates such public art initiatives funds them and most importantly establishes the philosophy behind them Is the efficacy of these initiatives evaluated in the same way as other museum exhibitions and programs Can public art ever be a permanent feature in any museum And finally are the museum and public art ultimately at odds or able to mutually benefit one another Window Shopping with Helen Keller David Serlin, 2025-01-16 A particular history of how encounters between architects and people with disabilities transformed modern culture Window Shopping with Helen Keller recovers a series of influential moments when architects and designers engaged the embodied experiences of people with disabilities David Serlin reveals how people with sensory and physical impairments navigated urban spaces and helped to shape modern culture Through four case studies the lives of Joseph Merrick aka The Elephant Man and Helen Keller the projects of the Works Progress Administration and the design of the Illinois Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped Serlin offers a new history of modernity's entanglements with disability America Recovered Chad Ress, Jordan H. Carver, 2021-03-25 America Recovered reveals the point where abstract political processes manifest themselves in the physical world thus providing an alternate means of experiencing the contemporary American landscape Collectively the images and essays show what aspects of our everyday lives are being assigned value in the promise of a recovered America America Recovered collects forty images that mark one of the only efforts to document the breadth of projects funded by the 2009 American Recovery and Reinvestment Act Unlike the New Deal and other programs designed for employment and infrastructural development the Recovery Act was passed without any funds dedicated for photographic documentation Using an official government website as his guide Chad Ress took photographs of projects across the country The publication of America Recovered at this moment allows for a critical reassessment of the Act and its lasting impact on the American landscape The two essays by architectural writer Jordan H Carver and photography historian Miriam Paeslack situate Ress's photographs within broader discourses of urbanism infrastructure and politics The question of what role the government should play in everyday life remains one of the touchstone issues in American politics The photographs and essays ask a different set of questions not whether government spending is good or bad whether it worked or didn't but what exactly does government spending look like And importantly America Recovered asks how government spending and civic identity are constructed around place Long-range Public Investment Robert D.
