FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY COLLOQUIUM

INTRODUCTION

The Fiftieth Anniversary of Boston College Law School was the occasion for multiple celebrations. The school has developed well in this short period and its quality and distinction are nationally recognized. During this year we looked backward and prepared a history of the Law School, which gave us valuable insights into its rise and progress. We celebrated with a major luncheon for over 2000 guests, at which Senator Edward M. Kennedy was the principal speaker. The Alumni Association, under the leadership of the Honorable Joseph P. Wampler, conducted an important professional seminar on criminal practice and ethics and, later, a seminar featuring Robert J. Kasak and members of his American Bar Association Commission discussing the proposed Model Rules of Professional Conduct. At its annual Law Day Dinner the Alumni Association recognized 25 representative alumni and faculty members whose careers have particularly distinguished the Law School.

Remembering what we have been and what we have become constituted a vital part of our celebration. The Law School will not, however, continue its growth without viewing the future as its important challenge. The Fiftieth Anniversary Committee, headed by Rev. Francis J. Nicholson, S.J., determined that one day during the year should be devoted to a Colloquium for the presentation and discussion of scholarly papers. A symposium chaired by Professor Sanford N. Katz and Professor Mary Ann Glendon Brown: The Colloquium on General Issues of the Family and Children, since the school's celebratory year occurred in part in each of the Year of the Child and the Year of the Family. It is also an area in which this Law School is particularly rich in its scholarship and professional influence. The program was designed to give insights into the scholarship in the field from disciplines other than law.

We are particularly grateful to the Travel Foundation and its member Foundations that allow us to retain appointments for their support of this program. The program both provided the superb room, recognized the particularly fine work of the participating scholars and, moreover, it possible to distribute these papers widely within the academic and professional world. The presentations were exciting, informative, challenging and often passionate. Without these very generous grants these presentations could not influence the legal profession and the larger society. We hope that the wide dissemination of these ideas vital to our society will positively influence how this society progresses. We also thank Butterworth & Co. of Canada Inc. a grant that supported various social functions in the Colloquium.
