This report includes a list of books and Internet sources that may help locate student financial aid information for prospective current or graduating college and university students. This list includes both general and comprehensive works as well as ones targeted toward specific types of aid and circumstances e.g. non need based scholarships, female and minority students, students studying abroad or veterans, military personnel and their dependents. When possible, the summer release dates for 2012 publications are included as a tool for those doing early planning. Many of the websites listed enable a student to conduct and save general and individualized scholarship grant and loan searches on a variety of issues including intended area of study. Some of these listed resources also contain information on repaying, forgiving, decreasing or discharging incurred educational financial debt through a variety of options such as employment in certain professions or localities. Grants Jean M. Fromm, 2007. Grants are available from thousands of sources both private and public. To the grantseeker, however, this wealth of sources appears like an impenetrable jungle. Where are the grants I need and what do I need to do to submit my ideas and proposals? This book is designed to answer these questions by aiming the grantseeker to both the grant givers and by providing a bibliography of books for further research.      Financial Aid for Study and Training Abroad Gail A. Resources in Education, 1999-10      Financial Aid for Study and Training Abroad, 2006-2008 Gail A. Schlachter, R. David Weber, 2005-06      Changing Perspectives on International Education Patrick O'Meara, Howard D. Mehlinger, Roxana Ma Newman, 2001. More than 40 years ago recognizing that higher education would have to take responsibility for educating Americans about other world cultures and societies, Congress passed the National Defense Education Act, later known as the Higher Education Act. Title VI of this act has provided extensive support for foreign languages and area studies development in the nation's universities and colleges. As a result, millions of Americans have been able to acquire knowledge about other parts of the world. Today there are new issues, demands, and perspectives. Americans are more likely than ever to encounter different cultures, business practices, histories, ideologies, and ways of life. In addition, the United States is increasingly called upon to intervene or mediate in regional and local crises far beyond its borders. U.S. educational institutions must continue to help citizens to have informed opinions about complex international problems. Changing Perspectives on International Education is designed to be used by administrators and planners in U.S. education. It covers the field of international studies as it has developed in the United States from its beginnings and accomplishments under Title VI to the current paradigmatic shifts taking place in research, teaching, and outreach. A major section is devoted to internationalizing the curriculum of K-12 schools. It concludes with a look at future trends and how they may affect international scholarship and training in the new century It also provides an extensive bibliography of international resources IIE Passport, Short-term Study Abroad, 2008 Provides detailed listings of more than 4 100 programs sponsored by U S and foreign universities language schools and a wide variety of other organizations Impacts of Study Abroad on Higher Education Development Nobuko Kayashima, Miki Sugimura, Kazuo Kuroda, Yuto Kitamura, 2024-08-10 This open access book is an exceptional contribution to the burgeoning fields of higher education development and higher education internationalization as it empirically examines the impact of the study abroad experiences of faculty members on individual and institutional development The research and its outcomes presented here utilize results from a large scale survey and interviews of faculty at ten leading universities in Malaysia Indonesia Vietnam and Cambodia The analyses show that the study abroad experiences of faculty members impact not only improvements in research quality and development of educational programs but also serve as the foundation for international activities at the university crucially important in today s higher education landscape On the other hand the research reveals the rapid development of higher education at the local and regional levels including the development of graduate programs for faculty training in the home country leading to increasing rates of study abroad within Southeast Asia Through the analyses presented this book offers a new understanding of higher education development and internationalization in Southeast Asia by examining the impact of study abroad on the academic profession higher education institutions and the higher education sector
