Fischer,2000-04-30 Professor Fischer presents a comprehensive overview of global trade at the start of a new century from a national regional and international viewpoint He looks closely at the four dominant and competing economic systems the United States the European Union Japan and China and argues that the traditional we win you lose national trade paradigm has been replaced by one that is more collaborative one that is leaning toward de facto world governance He compares foreigners attitudes toward trade and markets with our own using four economic models that typify world trade today He examines the interface between national regional and international trading systems and between business and government then at the prospect of global trade management in different trade sectors under the GATT WTO and other organizations The result is a provocative discussion of global trade today Professor Fischer makes it clear that the United States needs allies Though its influence in the world trade arena will continue America s hegemony has ended The European Union is America s most obvious ally but it has many problems and ambitions of its own The North American Free Trade Agreement has solidified the North American market but it may isolate and lose South America while Japan China Russia and others are left to develop alliances of their own All these factors raise important global questions among them Can American capitalism prevail Should the United States proceed unilaterally as it has so often Or are regional and multinational arrangements preferable If there is further globalization as seems inevitable and if American influence is on the wane what group or organization will lead To explore these questions and provide the beginnings of answers Professor Fischer uses his four competing economic systems and handicaps the process country by country sector by sector with particular attention to transatlantic relations Journalism and Human Rights John C. Pollock,2017-10-02 This book is the first collection of original research to explore links between demographics and media coverage of emerging human rights issues It covers cross national reporting on human trafficking HIV AIDS water contamination and child labour and same sex

Understanding to Action Marco Keiner, Christopher Zegras, Willy A. Schmid, Diego Salmerón, 2013-03-09 Hans van Ginkel Rector United Nations University The challenges of the world's future are linked to the growing share of the global population that will reside in urban areas UN projections indicate that by 2030 the world's urban population share will rise to 60 percent Of the two billion added to the global population 99 percent will be added to the urban areas of the world Of this number 95 percent will be in countries of the developing world As most people will live in urban areas we had better work to build and organize them as both attractive and less resource consuming places That is to promote sustainable urban development is to promote the creation of dense human settlements that are livable and have reduced their impacts on larger scale ecosystems While much attention has been focused on the mega cities those with a population of over 10 million the amount of people living in these places will remain almost constant while the smaller and medium size cities will be the great absorbers of the world's urban population Indeed it is predicted that while the absolute number of people that will live in urban centers of 10 million or more will increase from approximately 263 to 375 million between 2000 and 2015 their share of the total urban population will only increase from 9.2 percent to 9.8 percent a 6.34 percent increase The Mandrill Alan F. Democracy James Bau Graves, 2010-10-01 Cultural Democracy explores the crisis of our national cultural vitality as access to the arts becomes increasingly mediated by a handful of corporations and the narrow tastes of wealthy elites Graves offers the concept of cultural democracy as corrective an idea with important historic and contemporary validation and an alternative pathway toward ethical cultural development that is part of a global shift in values Drawing upon a range of scholarship and illustrative anecdotes from his own experiences with cultural programs in ethnically diverse communities Graves explains in convincing detail the dynamics of how traditional and grassroots cultures may survive and thrive or not and what we can do to provide them opportunities equal to those of mainstream Eurocentric culture Peoples and

Cultures of the Middle East Nicola Barber, 2006-12-15 Describes the family life food literature social life and customs of the peoples of the Middle East The United Nations and Democracy in Africa Zoë Wilson, 2007-11-21 This book explores UN bureaucracy and the development dysfunction it sows in four most different African countries Angola Botswana Namibia and Tanzania Wilson's original purpose for researching this book was to uncover new solutions to some of the United Nations most vexing implementation problems Yet as research unfolded it became clear that the reasons for those problems lay tangled up in bureaucratic and philosophical quagmires of a much more fundamental nature The United Nations and Democracy in Africa is the documentation not only of these bureaucratic and philosophical absurdities that find expression through development practice but also the journey of the author from ardent defender of the UN to profound sceptic

Ghana: an Incomplete Independence or a Dysfunctional Democracy? Kwame Insaadoo, 2012-12-20 Can anybody tell us why profound poverty continues to plague our nation of barely 25 million people in this modern era of globalization in 2012 Why do you think the vast majority of our beloved people live on less than a dollar a day and struggle from cradle to grave living in near squalor and eking out near subsistence existence Ask yourself why is it that in the midst of this profound abject poverty less than ten percent of our fellow countrymen and women live in opulence and wallow in untold riches with their mansions encased with six foot walls seek medical attention in luxurious medical facilities abroad Are the vast majority of our people in poverty ignorant and stupid while the few wealthy ones are perceived as more intelligent and wiser than all of us
