Social Security Bulletin, 2012 Counseling Across the Lifespan Cindy L Juntunen, Donald R Atkinson, 2002

Counseling Across the Lifespan expands the parameters of counseling with its emphasis on preventive techniques for adjustment problems in the lifespan of a normal individual. This cogent work focuses on counseling intervention strategies from the unique perspective of an individual's lifespan, placing techniques in the proper development context. By concentrating on life stages from childhood through old age, the authors identify the nature and origin of various psychological issues such as self-identity and healthy lifestyle development in adolescents, family violence in young adults, or retirement transitions for older adults. The intervention tools needed to confront these issues are presented through succinct pedagogical features including case examples, checklists for evaluating clients, and exercises.

Prudent Decision Making in an Imprudent World Patrick Gould, 2009-07-08

A practical guide to making better decisions in all aspects of life based on extensive research and a wide range of historic and current examples. Combining clearly communicated research-based principles, a wealth of practical advice, and dozens of historic and contemporary examples of decision making good and bad, Patrick Gould's Prudent Decision Making in an Imprudent World: Better Decisions at Home and Work gives readers a fresh new way to look at the way we make choices. What makes Gould's book both authoritative and compelling is its distinctive foundation in prospect theory derived from Amos Tversky and Nobel laureate Daniel Kahneman's landmark research on neuro-economic decision making. Through the prism of prospect theory, which explains why people make conservative decisions in some instances and reckless decisions in others, Gould provides practical pathways to sound, timely judgments about relationships, family matters, careers, finances, and more. Time and again throughout this concise but richly rewarding book, Gould demonstrates that understanding how and why people make choices is the first step toward making the best possible choices for ourselves.
