Financial Management For Human Service Administrators:

Financial Management for Human Service Administrators Lawrence L. Martin, 2021-04-05 The second edition of Martin's practical text continues to provide a solid grounding of financial management for human services and social work students and professionals while maintaining a concise and approachable style. Starting with a foundation of the basics of financial management, a comprehensive overview includes topics such as budgeting systems, financial accounting, and the interpretation and analysis of financial statements, performance measures, forecasting of revenues, expenses, and caseloads, fee setting, government contracts and grants, fund development, risk management, and auditing. Readers apply the concepts, principles, and tools introduced in each chapter through case studies and exercises that encourage mastery of the content in real-world situations. Financial Management for Human Service Administrators Lawrence Martin, 2013

Financial Management in Human Services Marvin D. Feit, 1998 Financial Management in Human Services discusses key issues in administering a social service program to help you run your program more efficiently and effectively. You'll find information on issues such as program goals and objectives, the limited role a program plays in clients' lives, the expectations placed upon social programs to alleviate social ills, and the differences in productivity measurement as perceived by a program's funders and by the service providers whom the program employs. Chapters in Financial Management in Human Services cover the differences between profit and not-for-profit organizations that impact financial management, guidelines for developing a financial management framework, ways in which financial management is used in program planning, in service monitoring, in estimating service costs and unit costs, and in setting service priorities. In years to come, four major administrative subsystems: details of the computerization of financial management issues in computer implementation related to each of the four administrative subsystems. Handbook on Human Service Administration Jack Rabin, 1988-05-27 Introducing theories and concepts essential for human services administration, this book covers organization theory and management, budgeting and financial management, personnel administration and labor relations, laws and regulations, innovation and change, and data administration and information systems. The author explores bioethics and managing babies, the legal right to refuse treatment, nursing home payments, and more. He applies important general concepts to specific concerns such as organizational structure and service delivery arrangements internal financial planning innovations in drug services delivery and implementing medical information systems

Financial Management in Human Services Marvin D Feit, Peter K Li, 2013-10-08 Rather than treating financial management as an independent administrative practice Financial Management in Human Services provides students and social service administrators with a conceptual framework in which financial management is the major responsibility of an administration not just a separate practice This text describes how the integration of administrative practice with fiscal responsibility and accountability will help you plan better programs account for all fiscal transactions and coordinate and evaluate services more effectively Containing many different approaches on how to determine costs obtain information and collect data this text will help you clearly evaluate your organization's progress and determine if your program goals are being reached Financial Management in Human Services also discusses other topics related to efficient management including applying financial management techniques to the areas of program planning service monitoring estimating service and unit costs and setting future service priorities in order to make better business decisions utilizing the information generated from the Financial Management System FMS to improve administrative functions such as forecasting and goal determination activity flow and service provision monitoring and service planning according to program policy examining the importance of the four administrative subsystems budgeting and accounting service coordination program planning and program evaluation choosing a FMS with consideration to certain factors such as availability of information and identifying informational needs of the administration listing of reactive and proactive types of financial reports that help administrators evaluate the costs of services provided and identify problems in balancing the fiscal budget using methods such as a line item analysis to accurately compute the costs of staff involvement in a program This organized straightforward text will help you evaluate all costs from salaries travel time and office supplies to direct costs to make your office more organized and productive Complete with questions and answers about starting and maintaining a FMS Financial Management in Human Services will enable you to manage finances more efficiently making it easier for you to reach and set goals that better serve your clients
