World War I David Culbert,1990 Film and Propaganda in America: World War II Richard E. Wood,1990 Film and Politics in America Brian Neve,2004-08-02 In A Social Cinema Film making and Politics in America Brian Neve presents a study of the social and political nature of American film by concentrating on a generation of writers from the thirties who directed films in Hollywood in the 1940 s He discusses how they negotiated their roles in relation to the studio system itself undergoing change and to what extent their experience in the political and theatre movements of thirties New York was to be reflected in their later films Focusing in particular on Orson Welles Elia Kazan Jules Dassin Abraham Polonsky Nicholas Ray Robert Rossen and Joseph Losey Neve relates the work of these writers and directors to the broader industrial bureaucratic social and political developments of the period 1935 1970 With special emphasis on the post war decade bringing together archive and secondary sources Neve explores a lost tradition of social filmmaking in America American History/American Film John E. O'Connor,Martin A. Jackson,2016-10-06 In this pioneering work sixteen historians analyse individual films for deeper insight into US institutions values and lifestyles Linking all of the essays is the belief that film holds much of value for the historian seeking to understand and interpret American history and culture This title will be equally valuable for students and scholars in history using film for analysis as well as film students and scholars exploring the way social and historical circumstances are reflected and represented in film

The Documentary Film Reader Jonathan Kahana,2016 Bringing together an expansive range of writing by scholars critics historians and filmmakers The Documentary Film Reader presents an international perspective on the most significant developments and debates from several decades of critical writing about documentary Each of the book s seven sections covers a distinct period in the history of documentary collecting both contemporary and retrospective views of filmmaking in the era And each section is prefaced by an introductory essay that explains its design and provides critical context Painstakingly selected from the archives of more than a hundred years of cinema practice and theory the essays reviews interviews manifestos and ephemera gathered in this volume suit the needs and interests of the beginning student the advanced scholar the casual reader and the working documentarian Film and Propaganda in America David Holbrook Culbert,Richard E. Wood,Lawrence H. Suid,1990 In the twentieth century every technologically advanced country has used propaganda to sell policies and programs to its citizens In this five volume 6000 page series David Culbert brings together documents that reflect the richness of American archives and suggest the central role film played in American wartime instruction as well as attempts to explain the meaning of the war to American soldiers and citizens Emphasis is on unpublished material rather than actual film scripts or review of popular feature films of the era available elsewhere Much of Volume III is devoted to Frank Capra s seven part Why We Fight series the most significant statement of war aims made by the American government in World War II Documents in Volume III help reveal precisely how the Why We Fight series explains official war aims Volume III also contains documentation about John Huston's San Pietro and Let There Be Light with information that makes untenable statements by Huston that have misled scholars for nearly forty years Film and Propaganda in America the largest collection of archival government documents on the subject ever published includes letters legal documents and memoranda for the war years Citations at the head of each document supply name of the author recipient date sent and the collection from which the document is taken providing a valuable guide to further research The volume is indexed by film title name and subject This series should appeal to anyone interested in the history of filmmaking propaganda and the war effort or American government history A Dictionary of Film Studies Annette Kuhn, Guy Westwell, 2012-06-21 This volume covers all aspects of film studies including critical terms concepts movements national and international cinemas film history genres organizations practices and key technical terms and concepts It is an ideal reference for students and teachers of film studies and anyone with an interest in film studies and criticism Film and Propaganda in America Richard Wood, 1990 The American Marshall Plan Film Campaign and the Europeans Maria Fritzsche, 2018-02-08 The US government launched the European Recovery Programme otherwise known as the Marshall Plan in order to save war torn Europe from collapse in 1948 Yet while much is known about the economic side of the Marshall Plan the extensive film campaign that accompanied it has been largely overlooked until now The American Marshall Plan Film Campaign and the Europeans is the first book to explore the use of the Marshall Plan films and importantly their distribution and reception across Europe The study examines every available film the 170 that remain from the 200 estimated to have been made and looks at how they were designed to instil hope argue the case for economic restructuring and persuade the Europeans of the superiority of the liberal capitalist system The book goes on to reason that the films served as a powerful weapon in the cultural Cold War but that the European audiences were by no means passive victims of the US propaganda effort Maria Fritzsche discusses the Marshall Plan films in the context of countries across Western Northern and Southern Europe covering the majority of the 17 European countries that participated in the Plan in the process The book incorporates 70 images and utilises a vast number of archival sources to explore the strategies the US adopted to sway the minds of the Europeans the problems they encountered in the process and not least the varied responses of the European audiences It is a vital study for any scholar or student keen to know more about postwar recovery in Europe the legacy of the Second World War or America's relationship with Europe in the 20th century Reelpolitik Ideologies in American Political Film Beverly Merrill Kelley, 2012-03-22 In Reelpolitik Ideologies in American Political Film Beverly Merrill Kelley examines more than a century of political movie history providing a thorough historical background for diametrically opposed political ideologies in order to facilitate debate and dialectical learning Kelley explores 185 American political movies categorized by ideological themes and presented in chronological order in order to illustrate the history of film as well as the history of the specific political ideology Each chapter includes a case study which provides an in depth analysis of the single film that best illustrates the ideology at hand including The Candidate populism Wall Street elitism The Godfather fascism All the President's Men anti fascism Patton interventionism and M A S H isolationism Reelpolitik Ideologies in American Political Film establishes a paradigmatic analysis of political films that details the cyclical nature of ideological dialectic throughout American history and identifies the values attitudes and beliefs of the voters who choose not to affiliate with Republicans and Democrats and who often determine the outcomes of elections The text also includes an extensive ideological filmology spanning more than 100 years of American cinema This study represents a bold investigation of the political and social values of American film and is an essential text in the study of the relationship between culture and politics
