and research on British cinema has burgeoned over the last fifteen years there has been a continued lack of single authored books providing a coherent overview to this fascinating and elusive national cinema Amy Sargeant's personal and entertaining history of British cinema aims to fill this gap With its insightful decade by decade analysis British Cinema is brought alive for a new generation of British cinema students and the general reader alike Sargeant challenges Rachel Low's premise that few of the films made in England during the twenties were any good by covering subjects as diverse as the art of intertitling the narrative complexities of Shooting Stars and Brunel's burlesques Sargeant goes on to examine among other things the differing acting styles of Dietrich and Donat in the seminal Knight Without Armour to early promotional campaigns in the 1930s whereas subjects ranging from product endorsement by stars to the character of the suburban wife are covered in the 1940s The 1950s includes topics such as the effect of post war government intervention to Free Cinema and Lindsay Anderson's infuriating lapses of rigour together with a much needed overview of Michael Balcon's contribution to British cinema For Sargeant the 1960s provides an overview of the tentative relationship between film and advertising and the rise of young Turks such as Tony Richardson Ken Loach Donald Cammell and Nicolas Roeg

The Tenth Muse Laura Marcus, 2010-08-12 The Tenth Muse explores writings on the cinema in the first decades of the twentieth century Laura Marcus examines the impact of cinema on early twentieth century literary and more broadly aesthetic and cultural consciousness by bringing together the study of the terms and strategies of early writings about film with literary engagement with cinema in the same period She gives a new understanding of the ways in which early writers about film reviewers critics theorists developed aesthetic categories to define and accommodate what was called the seventh art or the tenth muse and found discursive strategies adequate to the representation of the new art and technology of cinema with its unprecedented powers of movement In examining the writings of early film critics and commentators in tandem with those of more specifically literary figures including H G Wells and Virginia Woolf and in bringing literary texts into this field Laura Marcus provides a new account of relationships between cinema and literature Intertwining two major strands of research the exploration of early film criticism and theory and cinema's presence in literary texts The Tenth Muse shows how issues central to an understanding of cinema including questions of time repetition movement vision sound and silence are threaded through both kinds of writing and the ways in which discursive and fictional writings overlapped The movement that defined cinema was also perceived as a more fragile and unstable ephemerality that inhered at every level from the fleeting nature of the projected images to the vagaries of cinematic exhibition It was the anxiety over the mutability of the medium and its exhibition which from the 1920s onwards led to the establishment of such institutional spaces for cinema as the London based Film Society the new film journals and in the 1930s the first film archives The Tenth Muse explores the continuities between these sites of cinematic culture and the conceptual literary and philosophical understandings of the filmic medium

Dynamic Form Cara L. Lewis, 2020-07-15 Dynamic Form traces how intermedial experiments shape modernist texts from 1900 to 1950 Considering literature alongside painting sculpture photography and film Cara Lewis examines how these arts inflect narrative movement contribute to plot events and configure poetry and memoir As forms and formal theories cross from one artistic realm to another and back again modernism shows its obsession with form and even at times becomes a formalism itself but as Lewis writes that form is far more dynamic than we have given it credit for Form fulfills such various functions that we cannot characterize it as a mere container for content or matter nor can we consign it to ignominy opposite historicism or political commitment As a structure or scheme that enables action form in modernism can be plastic protean or even fragile and works by Henry James Virginia Woolf Mina Loy Evelyn Waugh and Gertrude Stein demonstrate the range of form's operations Revising three major formal paradigms spatial form pure form and formlessness and recasting the history of modernist form this book proposes an understanding of form as a verbal category as a kind of doing Dynamic Form thus opens new possibilities for conversation between modernist studies and formalist studies and simultaneously promotes a capacious rethinking of the convergence between literary modernism and creative work in other media

The Camera-Eye Metaphor in Cinema Christian Quendler, 2016-11-18 This book explores the cultural intellectual and artistic fascination with camera eye metaphors in film culture of the twentieth century By studying the very metaphor that cinema lives by it provides a rich and insightful map of our understanding of cinema and film styles and shows how cinema shapes our understanding of the arts and media As current new media technologies are attempting to shift the identity of cinema and moving imagery it is hard to overstate the importance of this metaphor for our understanding of the modalities of vision In what guises does the camera eye continue to survive in media that is called new Re-Viewing the Past Sean D. O'Reilly, 2018-08-23 Re-Viewing the Past: The Uses of History in the Cinema of Imperial Japan analyzes the complicated relationship between history films audiences reviewers and censors in Japan for the critically important years from 1925 to 1945 First contextualizing the history of the popular Bakumatsu period 1853-1868 the moment of Japan's emergence as a modern nation Sean O'Reilly paves the way for a reinterpretation of Japanese pre and postwar cinema Setting a film in the Bakumatsu period offered cultural breathing room to both filmmakers and viewers offering a cinematic space where apolitical entertainment and now forbidden themes like romance still reigned Some filmmakers and viewers even conceived of these films as being a form of resistance against Japan's growing militarism As comparisons between the popularity of such films versus that of state sponsored propaganda films show audiences responded enthusiastically to these glimmers of resistance O'Reilly argues that we should turn our attention to the much more popular films of the time that were major hits with audiences in order to understand what resonated with wartime spectators and to speculate about why this might have been the case Including clips of these rare films a so far neglected area of Japanese film history is now firmly situated in context to offer a thought provoking multidisciplinary approach linguistic narrative and the spatiality of visual spectacle a dynamic that has played an important role in much of Japanese film The tension between the controlling order of words and the liberating fragmentation of images has been an important force that has shaped modern culture in Japan and that has also determined the evolution of its cinema In exploring the rift between word and image the essays in this volume clarify the cultural imperatives that Japanese cinema reflects as well as the ways in which the dialectic of word and image has informed the understanding and critical reception of Japanese cinema in the West

Transnational Zombie Cinema, 2010 to 2020 John R. Ziegler, 2023-10-02 Transnational Zombie Cinema 2010 to 2020 Readings in a Mutating Tradition examines selected films produced outside the United States in the second decade of the millennial zombie renaissance following the global effects of the Great Recession These readings analyze how the films adapt the zombie myth to localized anxieties pertaining to neoliberal capitalism globalization gender and sexuality national identity history and trauma and self definition within and without culture and social institutions In tracing these variations John R Ziegler investigates not only better known films such as South Korea's Train to Busan 2016 and Cuba's Juan of the Dead 2011 but also lesser known examples such as Malaysia's KL24 Zombies 2017 Italy's The End 2017 and India's Rise of the Zombie 2010 These films Ziegler argues demonstrate the continued significance of the zombie as a flexible powerful tool for thinking about contemporary concerns across the globe and suggest that the zombie myth still has plenty of undead life in it as it continues to mutate and circulate in transnational cinema

Screening the Face P. Coates, 2012-05-11 Coates presents the face in film as a place where transformations begin reflecting both the experience of modernity and such influential myths as that of Medusa This is exemplified by a wide range of European and American films including Ingmar Bergman's Persona      Resisting Invisibility Diana Aramburu, 2019-05-09

Engaging with pre feminist and male authored crime literature Resisting Invisibility offers a comparative reading of women's bodies as represented in Spanish crime literature from the mid nineteenth century to the present Utilizing the twin concepts of visibility and invisibility the book establishes a genealogy of differing viewpoints regarding women's positions in these narratives before and after the birth of the modern Spanish female detective This examination of the politics of female visibility expands our understanding of the aesthetic regimes that have governed the female body from the early phases of the genre's evolution While most scholars understand the feminization of the crime genre as a response to second wave feminism Resisting Invisibility demonstrates that even in the earliest representations of delinquent women the politics surrounding the female body are problematized and are more complex than previously conceptualized Drawing on gender and queer studies Resisting Invisibility investigates the gendering of crime fiction forcing us to reconsider the literary history of female visibility and prompting us to establish an alternative genealogy for Spanish crime literature
