Final Acts:

Final Acts Nan Bauer-Maglin, Donna Perry, 2009-12-07 Today most people die gradually from incremental illnesses rather than from the heart attacks or fast moving diseases that killed earlier generations Given this new reality the essays in Final Acts explore how we can make informed and caring end of life choices for ourselves and for those we love and what can happen without such planning Contributors include patients caretakers physicians journalists lawyers social workers educators hospital administrators academics psychologists and a poet and among them are ethicists religious believers and nonbelievers Some write moving personal accounts of good or bad deaths others examine the ethical social and political implications of slow dying Essays consider death from natural causes suicide and aid in dying assisted suicide Writing in a style free of technical jargon the contributors discuss documents that should be prepared health proxy do not resuscitate order living will power of attorney decision making over medical interventions life support hospice and palliative care aid in dying treatment location speaking for those who can no longer express their will and the roles played by religion custom family friends caretakers money the medical establishment and the government For those who yearn for some measure of control over death the essayists in Final Acts from very different backgrounds and with different personal and professional experiences around death and dying offer insight and hope
