Furthermore it provides a valuable case study that can be compared and contrasted with other countries who are likewise still grappling with the legacy of a centralised economy and in the process of adopting a more market orientated approach in order to gain EU membership As such this study will be of interest not only to historians and economists but anyone with an interest in the expansion of the European Union Forest Concession Policies and Revenue Systems John Andrew Gray,2002-01-01 Forest concessions have been an important element of forestry and forest management in many countries including developing countries However if sustainable management of tropical forests is to be achieved and deforestation brought under control the allocation management and supervision of forest concessions will need to be strengthened This study examines the failures of forest concessions over the last 20 years and highlights the potential gains resulting from concentrating on improving procedures introducing performance incentives and monitoring key performance elements
