McIntosh,2017-09-29 In a world where trust in politicians corporations and the processes that determine our lives continues to dwindle this innovative book brings together research case studies and stories that begin to answer a central question for society How we can create organisations institutions groups and societies that can nurture trusting relationships with one another and among individuals Something to Believe In provides a fresh take on the corporate responsibility debate based as it is on the work of key global thinkers on corporate social responsibility along with a raft of work developed from collaborations between the New Academy of Business and the United Nations Volunteers UK Department for International Development and TERI Europe in countries such as Brazil Nicaragua Ghana India Sri Lanka Bangladesh Lebanon Nigeria the Philippines and South Africa The focus is on business and particularly how deeper more systemic changes to current ways of understanding and undertaking business can and have been enacted in both developed countries and in nations where the Western concept of CSR means nothing The market based model of economic thinking the increasingly distrusted

globalisation project which threatens to sweep all before it is challenged by many of the contributions to this book The book tells stories such as the mobilization of civil society in Ghana to bring business to account the reorientation of a business school to focus on values the life cycle of ethical chocolate the accountability of the diamond business in a war zone the need to reinvent codes of conduct for women workers in the plantations and factories of Nicaragua a Philippine initiative to economically empower former Moslem liberation fighters and the development of local governance practices in a South African eco village The book is split into four sections Through Some Looking Glasses contains short thought provoking pieces about the issues of trust belief and change from writers including Thabo Mbeki Malcolm McIntosh and a reprinted piece from E M Forster Section Two asks how it will be possible to believe in our corporations and provides new approaches from around the world on how space is being opened up to found businesses that are able to create trust Section Three examines the role of auditing in fostering trust Corporations continue to attempt to engender trust through their activities in philanthropy reporting and voluntary programmes But post Enron et al even the most highly praised corporate mission statements are tarnished Can social and environmental audits of corporate reports codes and practices assuage our doubts about boardroom democracy Section Four examines alternative forms of accountability transparency and governance from around the world and offers some different ways of thinking about the practice of creating trust in society Something to Believe In provides a host of fascinating suggestions about redefining and renewing the underlying deal between society and its organizations It will become a key text for students thinkers and practitioners in the field of corporate responsibility

Energy Capitol Arthur Mason, 2024-11-04 Energy Capitol explores the waning of regulatory politics surrounding large scale energy systems in the United States at the turn of the millennium Throughout the twentieth century large scale energy systems in North America and Europe were highly regulated by a national political community whose decision making authority relied on positions of bureaucratic and capitalist led industry organization After restructuring in energy markets such as natural gas and electricity during the 1980s the culture of power surrounding political decision making began to decline Against this backdrop Arthur Mason examines the struggle by oil companies and federal state agencies to deliver natural gas from Alaska and Canada's Mackenzie Valley to markets in midcontinental United States highlighting regulatory collusion to advance their plans Mason employs perspectives from anthropology political science sociology and science and technology studies to analyze ethnographic data gathered at the Alaska State Legislature and in the Office of the Alaska Governor in Washington D C The focus is primarily on plans for building an estimated 20 billion 3 500 mile pipeline to transport natural gas from the North American Arctic to midcontinental pipeline infrastructure in the United States By illuminating key aspects of federal state political decision making processes on energy transportation infrastructure Mason highlights the activities of economists lawyers and other regulatory intellectuals whose accumulated work impedes Arctic proposals through a reliance on judgments that no longer reflect the conditions in which large scale projects are increasingly determined Written by a leading expert in the field this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of energy policy environmental politics governance and regulation and risk It will also be relevant to industry professionals working in environmental NGOs and government departments in energy and climate forecasting Financial Reporting and Global Capital Markets Kees Camfferman, Stephen A. Zeff, 2007-03-08 Publisher description Canada in Afghanistan Owen Schalk, 2023-08-29 How and why Canada went to war in Afghanistan what Canadians were doing on the ground and why the effort failed to achieve any of its aims military humanitarian or diplomatic Canadian leaders then and now claim great success for Canada's role in Afghanistan from 2003 to 2014 and beyond Though 151 Canadians were killed in combat the Canadian military played a key role in fighting the Taliban Canada built schools restored a major dam and advised a government on elections and economic development Yet within hours of the final withdrawal by US troops in 2021 the government collapsed The Taliban returned to power Why did Canada send our military to fight the Taliban and occupy Afghanistan Why was the mission a failure And why have Canadian governments failed to analyze the reasons for this failure In this book independent scholar Owen Schalk offers a history of Canada's role in Afghanistan He discusses why Canada's efforts and those of the US and others failed And he shows how the Canadian media did not report accurately on the war and misinformed the public during the war and afterwards Owen Schalk provides an incisive illuminating account of Canadian involvement in a war that cost lives and many billions It's a story that Canadian officials would prefer not be told

Continuous Auditing David Y. Chan, Victoria Chiu, Miklos A. Vasarhelyi, 2018-03-21 Continuous Auditing provides academics and practitioners with a compilation of select continuous auditing design science research and it provides readers with an understanding of the underlying theoretical concepts of a continuous audit ideas on how continuous audit can be applied in practice and what has and has not worked in research Money Laundering in Canada Margaret E. Beare, 2007-06-09 Money laundering is the process of converting or transferring cash or other assets generated from illegal activity in order to conceal or disguise their origins In recent years the international community has decided that focusing on money laundering is an efficient strategy in policing organized crime and now terrorism To this end countries are encouraged to harmonize their policies and legislation and to some extent their policing strategies Before adopting these new strategies however it is important to understand the extent of money laundering in different jurisdictions as well as the likelihood of success and the costs involved in these anti laundering strategies This new work by Margaret E Beare and

Stephen Schneider brings empirical evidence to the study of money laundering in Canada a topic that has recently assumed an international profile They challenge the seemingly common sense notion fueled by political posturing and policing rhetoric that taking the profits away from criminals is a rational law enforcement strategy Using data from police cases the inner working of financial institutions and the successful claims of privilege from our legal profession the final picture that the authors paint is of a good enforcement strategy run amuch amid conflicting interests and agendas an overly ambitious set of expectations and an ambiguous body of evidence as to the strategy s overall merits
