ABSTRACT

Objective: This article aims to analyze and compare the various models of higher education financing across the globe, focusing on their impact on access, quality, and equity in higher education.

Method: In this narrative review, we systematically explore global higher education financing models through a comprehensive literature search in academic databases, focusing on publications from the past 15 years. This approach synthesizes diverse sources to identify key themes and trends in financing methods. The analysis contrasts these models across different geographic and economic contexts, aiming to provide insightful comparisons and a broad understanding of the global higher education financing landscape.

Findings: The research reveals that each financing model presents unique advantages and challenges. Public funding typically enhances access and equity but may face resource limitations. Private investment often improves quality and innovation at the risk of increasing educational inequity. Tuition fees can lead to quality enhancement but also raise concerns about student debt and access. Policy implications in each context are significant, with a need for balancing efficiency, equity, and quality.

Conclusion: The study concludes that financing higher education is a complex endeavor, requiring nuanced and context-specific policy interventions. It underscores the need for balanced and sustainable financing models that cater to the evolving educational landscape. The research highlights the pivotal role of higher education financing in shaping inclusive, knowledgeable, and innovative societies, suggesting future research directions focused on innovative financing mechanisms and adaptive policy solutions.

Keywords: Financing, Higher Education, Comparative Analysis.

Globalization and Education

Nelly P. Stromquist, Karen Monkman, 2014-03-04 We offer in this book a collection of chapters that reflect a broad range of issues linking globalization to education in an accessible yet theoretically grounded and detailed form The authors analyze phenomena on the global plane in local spaces and in the connections between the global and the local New developments such as the growing impact of technology on education the emergence of new policy actors the growing expansion and segmentation of higher education the salience of human rights among others are emerging as powerful agendas shaping all levels of education In fundamental ways the forces of globalization challenge the previous approaches and theories of national development Recognizing the areas of convergence dissonance and conflict should help us grasp with greater clarity the implications of globalization for education and knowledge in the XXI century The contributors to this book include both well known scholars in the field of comparative education as well as young scholars The chapters present a balanced geographical coverage in terms of authors and the countries regions examined The second edition has been thoroughly updated throughout and contains seven new chapters The expanding interest in the intersection of education and globalization has brought up several new topics including the salience of global education policies notably EFA the expansion and differentiation of higher education the emphasis on work related training the increasing role of non state actors such as the transnational corporations and greater attention to human rights Also in this new edition is a chapter on qualitative methodologies especially suitable to the understanding of the intersection of globalization and education

Resources in Education

, 1998 Higher Education in Southeast Asia Anthony Welch, 2011-03-31 This is the first book to systematically chart and comparatively assess the trend towards private higher education in South East Asia Caught between conflicting imperatives of spiralling demand and limited resources the balance between public and private higher education systems in South East South and East Asia has shifted markedly The author s detailed case studies of Indonesia Malaysia Thailand the Philippines and Viet Nam discuss and analyse significant policy issues and touch on key debates surrounding globalisation including economic globalisation and structural adjustment and the pressures of cultural globalisation particularly the role of the English language Debates surrounding the role of higher education in the knowledge economy GATS and cross border trade in educational services are also treated including the rise of offshore campuses in countries such as Malaysia and Viet Nam What is argued is that we are witnessing not merely a changing balance between public and private sectors but a blurring of borders between them with public HEIs now often behaving more like private for profit institutions The book charts and illustrates these trends posing questions about their meaning including issues of transparency equity and what the reforms might mean for traditional conceptions of public good in higher education

Higher Education, Stratification, and Workforce Development Sheila Slaughter, Barrett Jay Taylor, 2015-11-17 This work analyses how political economic shifts contribute to competition within higher education systems in the US EU and Canada The authors highlight competition for prestige and public and private subsidies exploring the consequences of these processes through theoretical and empirical analyses Accordingly the work highlights topics that will be of interest to a wide range of audiences Concepts addressed include stratification privatization of formerly public subsidies preference for high tech academic fields and the vocationalization of the curriculum i e Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics STEM fields selected professions and business rather than the liberal arts or the Humboldtian vision of the university Across national contexts and analytic methods authors analyze the growth of national policies that see universities as a sub set of economic development casting universities as corporate research laboratories and education as central to job creation Throughout the volume the authors make the case that national and regional approaches to politics and markets result in different experiences of consequences of academic capitalism While these shifts serve the interests of some institutions others find themselves struggling to meet ever greater expectations with stagnant or shrinking resource bases Higher Education in the Developing World David W. Chapman, Ann E. Austin, 2002-04-30 Identifies five critical issues with which higher education institutions in the developing world must grapple as they respond to changing external contexts offers examples of institutional responses to these issues and considers these within a systems perspective which recognizes that each response impacts how institutions handle other critical issues Half of the students enrolled in higher education worldwide live in developing countries Yet in many developing countries government and education leaders express serious concerns about the ability of their colleges and universities to effectively respond to the pressures posed by changing demographics new communication technologies shifts in national political environments and the increasing interconnectedness of national economies This book identifies five critical issues with which higher education institutions in the developing world must grapple as they respond to these changing contexts seeking a new balance in government university relationships coping with autonomy managing expansion while preserving equity raising quality and controlling costs addressing new pressures for accountability and supporting academic staff in new roles These papers offer examples of institutional responses and consider these within a systems perspective that recognizes that each response has a rippling effect impacting institutions responses to other critical issues Only as government and education leaders understand the interwoven nature of the problems now facing colleges and universities and the interconnections among the intended solutions they seek to implement can they offer effective leadership that strengthens the quality and improves the relevance of higher education in their countries Performance-Based Funding in Higher Education Angelo Letizia, 2015-12-30 Performance Based Funding in Higher Education examines the touted aims of higher education policies over the past thirty years The focus on job creation and increased graduation rates has distracted educators students and surrounding communities from an educator's traditional and valued role as the promoter of democracy and critical citizenship Letizia contends that institutions of higher education must redirect and promote their policies so that this aim is achieved and acknowledged Recommended for scholars of education sociology political science and philosophy A Comparative Analysis of Higher Education Systems, 2014-01-01 This is a well crafted timely book that comes at a time when so much is happening in higher education contexts across the world Clearly it is in response to these global and selectively local trends that Kariwo Gounko and Nungu bring together an impressive lineup of both established and emerging scholars who achieve a comprehensive and critically constructed perspective on tertiary education systems Collectively the chapters in this work shall expand the epistemic boundaries of the area and its affiliated disciplines and the book as a whole will greatly benefit interested scholars students education policy makers and the public at large Ali A Abdi Professor University of Alberta This book is a valuable contribution to knowledge on higher education and provides an international perspective on issues challenges and dilemmas resulting from the rapid expansion of higher education The volume is an excellent text that integrates theoretical and analytical studies as well as empirical regional studies It gives some insights on how different countries and regions have been responding to massification and accessing of higher education It will appeal to researchers graduate students and faculty in Higher or Post Secondary Education as well as International and Comparative Education Edward Shizha Associate Professor Wilfrid Laurier University Brantford Campus International Perspectives on Financing Higher Education Josef C. Brada, Wojciech Bienkowski, Masaaki Kuboniwa, 2015-10-05 Higher education is increasingly important to the labor market success of individuals and the prosperity of nations yet as this book shows public funding for higher education is declining It presents innovative approaches to increasing funding for universities through closer ties with business and through privatization of universities Fairness in Access to Higher Education in a Global Perspective Heinz-Dieter Meyer, Edward P. St. John, Maia Chankseliani, Lina Uribe, 2013-04-20 The purpose of this volume is to help jump start an urgently needed conversation about fairness and justice in access to higher education to counteract the ubiquitous mantras of neoliberal globalization and managerialism The book seeks to carve out a strong moral and normative basis for opposing mainstream developments that engender increasing inequality and market dependency in higher education The book's chapters consider how different national communities channel access to higher education what their implicit social contracts are and what outcomes are produced by different policies and methods The book is essential reading for scholars of higher education and students concerned with increasing inequality in a globalizing educational marketplace
