Johnson, Deborah Koetzle, 2020-06-08 What Works and Doesn't in Reducing Recidivism offers criminologists and students an evidence based discussion of the latest trends in corrections Experts Latessa Johnson and Koetzle translate the research and findings about what works and doesn't work in reducing recidivism into understandable concepts and terms presenting them in a way that illustrates the value of research to practice Over the last several decades research has clearly shown that rehabilitation efforts can be effective in reducing recidivism among criminal offenders but it is clear that treatment is not a one size fits all approach Offenders vary by gender age crime type and or addictions to name but a few ways and these individual needs must be addressed by providers Finally issues such as leadership quality of staff and evaluation efforts affect the quality and delivery of treatment services While other texts have addressed issues regarding treatment in corrections this text is unique in that it not only

Welsh,David P. Farrington,2007-08-09 Crime prevention should be rational and should be based on the best possible evidence Decision makers should weigh heavily any available evidence on what works best How can a program that has produced no discernable evidence of effectiveness as shown through numerous evaluations be considered for implementation Unfortunately this happens all the time Evidence based crime prevention attempts to overcome this and other obstacles by ensuring that the best available evidence is considered in any decision to implement a program designed to prevent crime This book is about evidence based crime prevention A project of the Campbell Collaboration Crime and Justice Group Preventing Crime brings together the leading scientific evidence on what works best for a wide range of interventions organized around four important domains in criminology at risk children
