O'Rourke, Jeffrey G. Williamson, 2017 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Ever since the Industrial Revolution of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries industrialization has been the key to modern economic growth The fact that modern industry originated in Britain and spread initially to north western Europe and North America implied a dramatic divergence in living standards between the industrial North or West and a non industrial or even de industrializing South or Rest This nineteenth century divergence which had profound economic military and geopolitical implications has been studied in great detail by many economists and historians Today this divergence between the West and the Rest is visibly unraveling as economies in Asia Latin America and even sub Saharan Africa converge on the rich economies of Europe and North America This phenomenon which is set to define the twenty first century both economically and politically has also been the subject of a considerable amount of research. Less appreciated however are the deep historical roots of this convergence process and in particular of the spread of modern industry to the global periphery. This volume fills this gap by providing a systematic comparative historical account of the spread of modern manufacturing beyond its traditional heartland to Southern and Eastern Europe, the Middle East, Asia, Africa, and Latin America, or what we call the poor periphery. It identifies the timing of this convergence, finding that this was fastest in the interwar and post World War II years, not the more recent miracle growth years. It also identifies which driving forces were common to all periphery countries and which were not.

Egypt's Culture Wars Samia Mehrez, 2008-04-01 This ground-breaking work presents original research on cultural politics and battles in Egypt at the turn of the twenty-first century. It deconstructs the boundaries between high and low culture, drawing on conceptual tools in cultural studies, translation studies, and gender studies to analyze debates in the fields of literature, cinema, mass media, and the plastic arts. Anchored in the Egyptian historical and social contexts and inspired by the influential work of Pierre Bourdieu, it rigorously places these debates and battles within the larger framework of a set of questions about the relationship between the cultural and political fields in Egypt.

Marginality and Exclusion in Egypt Ray Bush, Habib Ayeb, 2012-06-14 What does it mean to be marginalized? Is it a passive condition that the disadvantaged simply have to endure? Or is it a manufactured label reproduced and by its nature transitory? In the wake of the new uprising in Egypt, this insightful collection explores issues of power, politics, and inequality in Egypt and the Middle East. It argues that the notion of marginality tends to mask the true power relations that perpetuate poverty and exclusion. It is these dynamic processes of political and economic transformation that need explanation. The book provides a revealing analysis of key areas of Egyptian political economy, such as labour, urbanization, and the creation of slums, disability, refugees, street children, and agrarian livelihoods reaching the impactful conclusion that marginalization does not mean total exclusion What is marginalized can be called upon to play a dynamic part in the future as is the case with the revolution that toppled President Mubarak

Between Preservation and Exploitation Kemi Fuentes-George, 2016-03-25 A study of biodiversity governance analyzes the factors that determine the effectiveness of transnational advocacy networks and the importance of justice claims to conservation In the late 2000s ordinary citizens in Jamaica and Mexico demanded that government put a stop to lucrative but environmentally harmful economic development activities bauxite mining in Jamaica and large scale tourism and overfishing on the eastern coast of the Yucatán Peninsula In each case the catalyst for the campaign was information gathered and disseminated by transnational advocacy networks TANs of researchers academics and activists Both campaigns were successful despite opposition from industry supporters Meanwhile simultaneous campaigns to manage land in another part of the Yucatán and to conserve migratory birds in Egypt had far less success In this book Kemi Fuentes George uses these four cases to analyze factors that determine the success or failure of efforts by TANs to persuade policymakers and private sector actors in developing countries to change environmental behavior Fuentes George argues that in order to influence the design and implementation of policy TANs must generate a scientific consensus create social relationships with local actors and advocate for biodiversity in a way that promotes local environmental justice Environmentally just policies would allow local populations access to their lands provided they use natural resources sustainably Justice claims are also more likely to generate needed support among local groups for conservation projects In their conservation efforts Jamaica Mexico and Egypt were attempting to meet their obligations under the UN Convention on Biological Diversity and other regional agreements Fuentes George's innovative analysis shows the importance of local environmental justice for the implementation of international environmental treaties
