Nelson, 2000-01-30 There has been a dramatic resurgence of interest in early African American writing Since the accidental rediscovery and republication of Harriet Wilson's Our Nig in 1983 the works of dozens of 19th and early 20th century black writers have been recovered and reprinted There is now a significant revival of interest in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s and in the last decade alone several major assessments of 18th and 19th century African American literature have been published Early African American literature builds on a strong oral tradition of songs folktales and sermons Slave narratives began to appear during the late 18th and early 19th century and later writers began to engage a variety of themes in diverse genres A central objective of this reference book is to provide a wide ranging introduction to the first 200 years of African American literature Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 78 black writers active between 1745 and 1945 Among these writers are essayists novelists short story writers poets playwrights and autobiographers Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides a biography a discussion of major works and themes an overview of the author's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography

Religion without Ulterior Motive Borght, 2007-03-31 The awareness of the potential for abuse of religion has risen dramatically in the West since 9/11 We all seem to agree that the abuse of religion should be averted and condemnation of the abuse of religion is almost universal Bram van de Beek systematic theologian at Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam has radicalised this discourse by claiming that religion should not be allied to any cause not even to a good cause He illustrates this by the way theology has been instrumentalized within the Reformed tradition in e.g. apologetic theology liberation theology theocracy and pietism His thesis provokes fervent discussions Twelve prominent theologians react on issues such as public theology evangelical activism Christian life the relevance of reasons for faith the unity of the church and contextualization of religion in various parts of the world At stake is the assertion that precisely religion without ulterior motive is the best guarantee for relevant religion
