Gas And Oil In Northeast Asia Policies Projects And Prospects:

Gas and Oil in Northeast Asia Keun Wook Paik, 1995 This study examines the political economic and industrial issues underpinning efforts to develop Northeast Asia's major energy resources focusing on the frontier projects of Sakhalin the Tarim Basin and Yakutsk It argues that the scale and interrelated nature of the projects means that solutions must be developed not through bilateral deals but through a regional framework including government led efforts to develop a regional gas grid in tandem with government industry collaboration to develop the major reserves Energy Policy and Regulation in the People's Republic of China C. P. Andrews-Speed, 2004-01-01 China is the world's second largest consumer of commercial energy and is therefore a significant contributor to atmospheric pollution It is becoming a major player in global and regional markets for energy products services and investment This book provides an overview of the formulation and implementation of energy policy in China Part One provides background information on China's energy sector Part Two examines the nature of China's energy policy and of the policy making process with examples drawn from the coal and natural gas sectors as well as from the government's drive to promote energy conservation and energy efficiency Part Three focuses on recent efforts to reform the energy sector in China and to regulate it more effectively paying particular attention to the electrical power sector and to small scale coal mines Part Four evaluates from the perspective of the citizen policy relating to the electrical power sector and to the closure of small scale coal mines Part Five addresses the international dimensions of China's energy policy with accounts of both inward and outward investment and of the international political implications About the author Dr Philip Andrews Speed is Director of the Centre for Energy Petroleum and Mineral Law and Policy at the University of Dundee Scotland He spent fourteen years as a geologist in the international mining and petroleum industries before coming to the Centre in 1994 gaining an LLM in Energy Law and Policy and joining the academic staff The Oil and Gas Service Industry in Asia T. Yi, 2010-05-13 This book investigates the business strategies chosen by oil and gas service companies operating in China Singapore and Malaysia It provides an analytical view of the reliability of strategic theoretical frameworks based on Western business practice but applied in a non Western business environment like Asia Policing Northeast Asia Se Hyun Ahn, 2020-06-02 This book explores the progress in and the obstacles surrounding developing comprehensive security cooperation between Russia and South Korea since diplomatic relations were established in 1991 within the framework of economic security The book focuses on oil and natural gas projects linking the Trans Siberian and Trans Korean Railroads industrial development in the Nakhodka Free Economic Zone fishery cooperation and the arms trade and examines whether these five aspects of cooperation serve to contribute to building Russian South Korean bilateral and regional economic security The author argues that these five aspects of cooperation all have the potential to enhance comprehensive bilateral security and further regional economic security in Northeast Asia However Russian South Korean economic cooperation has been hampered by a number of obstacles including domestic factors as well as external factors and prevented Russia and South Korea from fulfilling their potential for creating a cooperative comprehensive security relationship The author concludes with an assessment on the utility of the concept of multi dimensional security cooperation as a framework for studying and improving the prospects for Russian South Korean bilateral relations The Russian Far East and Pacific Asia M. J. Bradshaw,2013-07-04 This major study assesses prospects for economic recovery in the Russian Far East evaluating foreign trade and investment political and economic forces patterns of resource supply and needs in Pacific Asia and potential competitors It concludes that this unfulfilled potential has as much to do with conditions in Russia as the downturn caused by the Asian crisis China and the Global Energy Crisis T. Kambara,Tatsu Kambara,Christopher Howe,2007-01-01 a very detailed and fascinating description of the development of China s oil and natural gas industry and an assessment of its prospects certainly a recommended read Anthony D Owen Asia Pacific Journal of Economics and Business this book should be a part of the library of anyone interested in the Chinese energy system New Zealand Journal of Asian Studies This is a timely and important book to help enhance understanding of China s petroleum industry and to assess China s energy policy in a more sensible way Janet Xuanli Liao The China Journal This is a timely volume Understanding the oil and gas industry that China has at home is an essential prerequisite to understanding Chinese foreign policy and the future role of China in world oil and gas markets It is certain to be a major one From the preface by Ron Oxburgh Lord Oxburgh of Liverpool Climate Change Capital China s rapid economic development is having profound implications for energy resources China has always been exceptionally reliant on its abundant coal but consumption of oil and gas have grown rapidly since reform began in the 1980s In spite of vigorous domestic development most recently in the Tarim Basin China is now consuming approximately 8 per cent of the world s oil output but producing only 4 per cent China s emergence as an energy importer has given rise to concerns that it is a major contributor to recent turmoil in energy markets This book examines China s record of oil and gas development its refining capacity and energy prospects The authors conclude that there are no fundamental reasons for anxiety about China s demands on the world energy economy but they emphasize that its energy future will depend critically on a continuation of reform and internationalization China and the Global Energy Crisis is a concise but detailed study of these issues This book will appeal not only to readers concerned with China and energy issues but also to a wider readership seeking to understand China s development and its global meaning The Strategic Implications of China's Energy Needs Philip Andrews-Speed,Xuanli Liao,Roland Dannreuther,2014-08-27 China is frequently described as a threat to regional and global stability and its rapidly rising demand for imported energy is seen as one cause of this threat This book shows that domestic politics and foreign policy have both played a part in China s recent major energy policy decisions However China s increasing involvement in the global energy markets can be seen as an opportunity to enhance cooperation and interdependence rather than as a threat India and the Global Game of Gas Pipelines Gulshan Dietl,2016-11-03 Gas pipelines constitute an important yet unexplored aspect of strategic geography As one of the fastest growing economies in the world India's need for energy is paramount Though surrounded by gas rich regions Myanmar and Bangladesh to the east the Gulf to the west and Central Asia to the north India does not have a single gas pipeline coming in going out or traversing through its territory to date This book highlights the global competition over gas pipelines and its implications for India's energy security in a comprehensive manner The author leads us through a labyrinthine world comprising numerous actors the states energy firms scientists engineers investors and bankers engaged in competition over these pipelines leading to a continuous game of checkmating rivals instigating conflicts causing damage and destruction and threatening military action to persuade or dissuade states from joining specific projects Pulsating rigorous grounded in hard facts and solid research this book will be indispensable for scholars and researchers of international relations strategic affairs defence studies and politics as well as think tanks government agencies and the informed general reader Natural Gas and Geopolitics David G. Victor, Amy M. Jaffe, Mark H. Hayes, 2006-06-29 By most estimates global consumption of natural gas a cleaner burning alternative to coal and oil will double by 2030 However in North America Europe China and South and East Asia which are the areas of highest expected demand the projected consumption of gas is expected to far outstrip indigenous supplies Delivering gas from the world's major reserves to the future demand centres will require a major expansion of inter regional cross border gas transport infrastructures This book investigates the implications of this shift utilizing historical case studies as well as advanced economic modelling to examine the interplay between economic and political factors in the development of natural gas resources The contributors aim to shed light on the political challenges which may accompany a shift to a gas fed world

China, the United States, and South-East Asia Sheldon W. Simon, Evelyn Goh, 2007-08-09 This volume with its wide range of perspectives makes a valuable contribution to the ongoing policy and academic dialogue on a rising China It examines a range of perspectives on the nature of China's rise and its implications for Southeast Asian states as well as US interests in the region China's Approach to Energy Security Shaofeng Chen, 2023-07-15 This book aims to analyze how and why China takes a state managed marketization approach SMMA to energy security against the backdrop of global efforts of decarbonization and intensified strategic competition between China and the United States How and why does China's SMMA work Taking an evolving historical perspective this book explores China's perception of energy security the policy process institutional restructuring in China's petroleum industry China's foreign energy quest and the ramifications of the Chinese approach on the international energy market and on world decarbonization To demonstrate to what extent China's SMMA differs from other countries it also makes a comparative analyses of the approaches by China the US and India This book will keenly interest scholars of the Chinese political economy climate change and geopolitics China's Quest for Energy Security Erica Strecker Downs, Richard Mesic, Charles T. Jr. Kelley, Christopher J. Bowie, Glenn Buchan, Hugh P. Levaux, 2000-12-05 China's two decades of rapid economic growth have fueled a demand for energy that has outstripped domestic sources of supply China became a net oil importer in 1993 and the country's dependence on energy imports is expected to continue to grow over the next 20 years when it is likely to import some 60 percent of its oil and at least 30 percent of its natural gas. China thus is having to abandon its traditional goal of energy self-sufficiency brought about by a fear of strategic vulnerability and look abroad for resources. This study looks at the measures that China is taking to achieve energy security and the motivations behind those measures. It considers China's investment in overseas oil exploration and development projects, interest in transnational oil pipelines, plans for a strategic petroleum reserve, expansion of refineries to process crude supplies from the Middle East, development of the natural gas industry and gradual opening of onshore drilling areas to foreign oil companies. The author concludes that these activities are designed in part to reduce the vulnerability of China's energy supply to U.S. power. China's international oil and gas investments, however, are unlikely to bring China the energy security it desires. China is likely to remain reliant on U.S. protection of the sea lanes that bring the country most of its energy imports.

The Global Game of Oil Pipelines Gulshan Dietl, 2021-11-29 Oil has long been and will continue to be at the centre of the global economy. This book explores the oil trade, energy geopolitics and new trends in regionalising or globalising the oil industry in the new era of international relations and economic competition. Energy pipelines carrying oil and gas from the well head to the market generally run through two or more states and often from one continent to the other. This book maps the oil flowing through international and intercontinental pipelines and unravels the political, commercial and technological considerations behind the mapping of oil routes and forging of trade ties between nation states. Through case studies from the major oil exporting regions like Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Iran, the USA, Canada and Russia, it analyses the changing trends in their policies around oil trade, bilateral relations, energy and security. It also considers the environmental protests around the continued dependency on oil, the teapot refineries under the Islamic State, investments, oil lobbies and insurrections to understand the broad picture of shifting regional and geopolitical realities and the scramble for vital resources. This comprehensive book will be of interest to students of the geopolitics of energy, international relations, security and strategic studies, energy studies as well as the media and with policymakers.

Power Struggles Se Hyun Ahn, 2022-10-03 This book explores East Asia's and the Asia Pacific's energy security, exploring key issues including major trans-border energy projects, major country's energy mix, policy, trans-border pipelines, LNG transfer between nations, balance of power, relations between major powers, the North Korean energy situation, energy alliances, Belt and Road Initiative, Indo-Pacific Strategy, World Choke point and more. In particular, this book provides the detailed analysis of the current problems of energy security and diplomacy among various countries as well as policy implications. It will clearly serve as a manual to enhance energy security in the region and boost energy transaction as well as the pioneering step to conceptualize the notion of energy security among political circles in the diplomatic community and energy industry as well as international relations academics.
