Struminger, 1988 Flora Tristan began life as the pampered daughter of the aristocracy she knew poverty and disappointment as a youth and experienced abuse and discrimination as an adult Her personal struggle to regain a position in society was eclipsed by a growing commitment to lead the struggle of the oppressed for freedom and equality She traveled extensively read widely and met many of the important social thinkers of the 1830 s Gradually she formed a vision of an egalitarian society in which men and women young and old had access to education and jobs She died trying to rally workers to an international egalitarian Worker s Union

Fire in the Minds of Men James H. Billington, 2011-12-31 This book traces the origins of a faith perhaps the faith of the century Modern revolutionaries are believers no less committed and intense than were Christians or Muslims of an earlier era What is new is the belief that a perfect secular order will emerge from forcible overthrow of traditional authority This inherently implausible idea energized Europe in the nineteenth century and became the most pronounced ideological export of the West to the rest of the world in the twentieth century Billington is interested in revolutionaries the innovative creators of a new tradition His historical frame extends from the waning of the French Revolution in the late eighteenth century to the beginnings of the Russian Revolution in the early twentieth century The theater was Europe of the industrial era the main stage was the journalistic offices within great cities such as Paris Berlin London and St Petersburg Billington claims with considerable evidence that revolutionary ideologies were shaped as much by the occultism and proto romanticism of Germany as the critical rationalism of the French Enlightenment The conversion of social theory to political practice was essentially the work of three Russian revolutions in 1905 March 1917 and November 1917 Events in the outer rim of the European world brought discussions about revolution out of the school rooms and press rooms of Paris and Berlin into the halls of power Despite his hard realism about the adverse practical consequences of revolutionary dogma Billington appreciates the identity of its best sponsors people who preached social justice transcending traditional national ethnic and gender boundaries When this book originally appeared The New Republic hailed it as remarkable learned and lively while The New Yorker noted that Billington pays great attention to the lives and emotions of individuals and this makes his book absorbing It is an invaluable work of history and contribution to our understanding of political life

Encyclopedia of Women Social Reformers Helen Rappaport, 2001-12-06 The first comprehensive guide to women activists from every part of the world illuminating the broad range of women's struggles to reform society from the 18th century to the present. Despite being marginalized, disenfranchised, impoverished and oppressed, women have always stepped forward in disproportionate numbers to lead movements for social change. This two-volume encyclopedia documents the visions, struggles and lives of women who have changed the world. This encyclopedia celebrates the lives and achievements of nearly 300 women from around the globe, women who have bravely insisted that the way things are is not the way they have to be. Nadeshda Krupskaya, the wife of Lenin, spearheaded the drive against illiteracy in post-revolutionary Russia. American Dorothy Day founded the Catholic worker movement. Begum Rokeya Hossain organized a girls' school in Calcutta in 1911. Rachel Carson launched the modern environmental movement with her book Silent Spring. The stories of these women and the hundreds of others collected here will restore missing pages to our history and inspire a new generation of women to change the world.

The Origins of Modern Feminism Jane Rendall, 1985-01-24. This comparative study analyses the emergence of feminist movements and their differing characters in Britain, France and the United States. Jane Rendall examines the social, economic and cultural factors which affected women's status in society and led some women to act individually and collectively to seek to change it. The Enlightenment emphasis on women's nature and the evangelical stress on the moral potential of women contributed to a framework of ideas which could be used by conservatives and by feminists. Among the middle classes, discussion focused on the need to improve women's education and on the strengths and limitations of domesticity. Patterns of paid employment for women were shifting and Jane Rendall suggests that the weak position of women in the labor market during the early stages of industrialisation restricted their ability to associate together. Yet involvement in religious, political and philanthropic movements could provide a means by which women might come together to identify their common concerns and learn the necessary political skills. Jane Rendall places the origins of feminism in the broader context of social and political change in the nineteenth century, looking both at the changing relationship between paid work and domestic life and at the links between feminism and class and political conflict in three different societies.

The Macmillan Dictionary of Women's Biography Jennifer S. Uglow, 1998. Women, Resistance and Revolution Sheila Rowbotham, 2014-01-14. This classic book provides a historical overview of feminist strands among the modern revolutionary movements of Russia, China and the Third World. Sheila Rowbotham shows how women rose against the dual challenges of an unjust state system and social sexual prejudice. Women, Resistance and Revolution is an invaluable historical study as well as a trove of anecdote and example fit to inspire today's generation of feminist thinkers and activists.
