Managing Teams in Secondary Schools Les Bell, 2002-02-07 The Education Reform Act of 1988 had enormous implications for the management of secondary schools In particular the Act brought about changes for those responsible for departmental year or cross curricular teams Managing Teams in Secondary Schools gives practical guidance to teachers who carry out such responsibilities Based on the premise that all teachers in secondary schools have direct and developing part to play in the management of the school at some level the book examines the changes the Act entails and locates the work of team leaders and their colleagues within that framework it provides an accessible and detailed discussion both of the nature of teamwork underlying the role of planning and the need for effective communication and of the skills required of the successful team leader Les Bell looks in particular at team building in the context of planning decision making and problem solving as part of the process of change management and at staff development and appraisal programmes The key focus is on the management of staff and relationships within staff and the relationships within staff groups Primarily directed at those in middle management positions in secondary schools the book's emphasis on teamwork means that it will be of interest to anybody involved in secondary school teaching

Improving Opportunities to Engage in Learning Nalita James, Hugh Busher, 2018-05-20 Improving Opportunities to Engage in Learning investigates the experiences of mature adult learners returning to formal education The book challenges the policy discourses in which Access to Higher Education survives by suggesting that continuing education is more about determination by students to alter their identities and career opportunities than meeting narrow performative criteria of financial targets Chapters explore students' struggles with institutional and social structures in the current political and socio economic climate before identifying how the transformation of their learner identities is facilitated in the courses by collaborative cultures and supportive tutors The book addresses a research gap in knowledge about students and tutors' experiences of Access to Higher Education courses presenting a broad perspective on the importance and difficulties of such courses through listening to the voices of students and tutors undertaking a variety of Access to HE pathways The authors argue that despite success on their courses benefiting the national economy as well as students individually the social and financial costs of continuing education is almost entirely shifted onto students' shoulders by policymakers Despite the costs students can still see Access to HE as a chance to improve their lives reflecting the neoliberal discourse of personal responsibility and risk embedded in broader national social and policy discourses Improving Opportunities to Engage in Learning will be of great interest to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of further and higher education widening participation social justice and sociology of education and education policy and politics

Learning outcomes in science education Sascha Bernholt, Knut Neumann, Peter Nentwig, 2012 One of the central features in current educational reforms is a focus on learning outcomes Many countries have established or revised standards to describe what teachers are supposed to teach and students are expected to learn More recently the emphasis has shifted to considerations of how standards can be operationalized in order to make the outcomes of educational efforts more tangible This book is the result of a symposium held in Kiel that was arranged by two science education groups one at the IPN Leibniz Institute for Science and Mathematics Education at the University of Kiel in Germany and the other at the University of York UK The seminar brought together renowned experts from 12 countries with different notions of the nature and quality of learning outcomes The aim was to clarify central conceptions and approaches for a better understanding among the international science education community The book is divided into five parts In Part A the organizers set the scene describing the rationale for arranging the symposium Part B provides a broad overview about different approaches challenges and pitfalls on the road to the clarification of meaningful and fruitful learning outcomes The set of papers in Part C provides deep insights into different although comparable approaches which aim to frame to assess and to promote learning and learning outcomes in science education Smaller projects are presented as well as broad coordinated national programs The papers in Part D outline the individual historical development from different national perspectives reflecting the deficits and problems that led to current reforms Finally a summary of the organizers analyses the conclusions from different vantage points
