At Home with Pornography Jane Juffer, 1998-07-01 Twenty five years after the start of the feminist sex wars pornography remains a flashpoint issue with feminists locked in a familiar argument Are women victims or agents In At Home with Pornography Jane Juffer exposes the fruitlessness of this debate and suggests that it has prevented us from realizing women's changing relationship to erotica and porn Over the course of these same twenty five years there has been a proliferation of sexually explicit materials geared toward women made available in increasingly mainstream venues In asking what is the relationship of women to pornography Juffer maintains that we need to stop obsessing over pornography's transgressive aspects and start focusing on the place of porn and erotica in women's everyday lives Where she asks do women routinely find it for how much and how is it circulated and consumed within the home How is this circulation and consumption shaped by the different marketing categories that attempt to distinguish erotica from porn such as women's literary erotica and sexual self help videos for couples At Home with Pornography responds to these questions by viewing women's erotica within the context of governmental regulation that attempts to counterpose a dangerous pornography with the sanctity of the home Juffer explores how women's consumption of erotica and porn for their own pleasure can be empowering while still acting to reinforce conservative ideals She shows how for instance the Victoria's Secret catalog is able to function as a kind of pornography whose circulation is facilitated both by its reliance on Victorian themes of secrecy and privacy and on its appeals to the selfish pleasures of modern career women In her pursuit to understand what women like and how they get it Juffer delves into adult cable channels erotic literary anthologies sex therapy guides cyberporn masturbation and sex toys showing the varying degrees to which these materials have been domesticated for home consumption Representing the next generation of scholarship on pornography At Home with Pornography will transform our understanding of women's everyday sexuality

Consumer Sexualities Rachel Wood, 2017-08-03 Consumer Sexualities explores women's experiences of shopping in sex shops and using sexual commodities in their everyday lives This enlightening volume shows how women take up sexual consumer technologies of the self to work upon and understand themselves as confident and active sexual agents in postfeminist neoliberal culture In guiding the reader through the historical emergence of sexual commodities for women in feminism and postfeminism Wood points to the normalisation and regulation of sexual practices and identities in and through consumption Indeed women s accounts show the work involved in constructing the right knowledgeable tasteful and confident orientation to sexual consumption and by extension in becoming an intelligibly good sexual person At the same time the author draws upon de Certeau to show how the ordinary contexts in which sexual commodities are used can lead to unpredictable moments of adaptation discomfort playfulness and resistance A rich analysis of women s everyday strategies of making do with the kinds of femininity and female sexuality that sex shop culture represents Consumer Sexualities will appeal to scholars of sociology cultural studies and gender studies with interests in gender sexuality sex and consumption
