Altarpieces through the Eyes of Faith Donna L. Sadler,2018-03-06 In Touching the Passion Seeing Late Medieval Altarpieces through the Eyes of Faith Donna Sadler explores the manner in which worshipers responded to the carved and polychromed retables adorning the altars of their parish churches Framed by the symbolic death of Christ re enacted during the Mass the historical account of the Passion on the retable situated Christ s suffering and triumph over death in the present The dramatic gestures contemporary garb and wealth of anecdotal detail on the altarpiece invited the viewer s absorption in the narrative As in the Imitatio Christi the worshiper imaginatively projected himself into the story like a child before a dollhouse The five senses the sculptural medium the small scale and the rhetoric of memory foster this immersion The Crusades and Visual Culture LauraJ Whatley,2017-07-05 The crusades whether realized or merely planned had a profound impact on medieval and early modern societies Numerous scholars in the fields of history and literature have explored the influence of crusading ideas values aspirations and anxieties in both the Latin States and Europe However there have been few studies dedicated to investigating how the crusading movement influenced and was reflected in medieval visual cultures Written by scholars from around the world working in the domains of art history and history the essays in this volume examine the ways in which ideas of crusading were realized in a broad variety of media including manuscripts cartography sculpture mural paintings and metalwork Arguing implicitly for recognition of the conceptual frameworks of crusades that transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries the volume explores the pervasive influence and diverse expression of the crusading movement from the twelfth through the fifteenth centuries The Early Church at Work and Worship - Volume 2

humankind's creative impulse Fifty thousand years ago on an island in Indonesia an early human used red ochre pigment to capture the likeness of a pig on a limestone cave wall Around the same time in Europe another human retrieved a lump of charcoal from a fire and sketched four galloping horses It was like a light turning on in the human mind Our instinct to produce images in response to nature allowed the earliest Homo sapiens to understand the world around them and to thrive Now art historian John Paul Stonard has travelled across continents to take us on a panoramic journey through the history of art from ancient Anatolian standing stones to a Qing Dynasty ink handscroll from a drawing by a Kiowa artist on America's Great Plains to a post independence Congolese painting and on to Rachel Whiteread's House Brilliantly illustrated throughout with a mixture of black and white and full colour images Stonard's Creation is an ambitious thrilling and landmark work that leads us from Benin to Belgium China to Constantinople Mexico to Mesopotamia Journeying from pre history to the present day it explores the remarkable endurance of humankind's creative impulse and asks how and why we create

Façade as Spectacle: Ritual and Ideology at Wells Cathedral Carolyn Marino Malone, 2004-08-01 This interdisciplinary study interprets the façade of Wells Cathedral as an integral part of thirteenth century English Church liturgy and politics Carolyn Malone posits that architectural motifs as signs complemented not only the façade's sculptural program of the Church Triumphant but also its use during liturgical processions Interpreted as an ideological construct the façade's design is related to theological change liturgical innovation and political strategy as well as to the conjuncture of several major historical and cultural events of the 1220s As part of the Church's empowering ritual the façade expressed the reforming views of the Fourth Lateran Council promoted Wells as the seat of the diocese and proclaimed the covenant between Church and State in England following Magna Carta

Architecture and Affect in the Middle Ages Paul Binski, 2024-10-29 How did people living in the Middle Ages respond to spectacular buildings such as the Gothic cathedrals While contemporary scholarship places a large emphasis on the emotional content of Western medieval figurative art the emotion of architecture has largely gone undiscussed In a radical new approach Architecture and Affect in the Middle Ages explores the relationship between medieval buildings and the complexity of experience they engendered Paul Binski examines long standing misconceptions about the way viewers responded to medieval architecture across Western Europe and in Byzantine and Arabic culture between late antiquity and the end of the medieval period He emphasizes the importance of the experience itself within these built environments essentially places of action space and structure but also crucially of sound and emotion

Saint-Martin in Candes Sara Lutan-Hassner, 2007

Italian Medieval Sculpture in the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Cloisters Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), Lisbeth Castelnovo-Tedesco, Jack Soltanian, 2010 The collection of Italian medieval sculpture in The Metropolitan Museum of Art and The Cloisters began with the acquisition in 1908 of a Romanesque column statue today the Museum's holdings comprise more than seventy works dating from the ninth to the late fifteenth century The birthplaces of these works range from Sicily to Venice some typify local styles others illustrate the intense artistic exchanges taking place within Italy and between Italy and the wider world Technological advances of the last decades have made it possible to determine more precisely the materials and techniques from which works of art are made the history of their alteration and the mechanisms of their deterioration Using such techniques scholars have been able to ascertain for example that sculptures previously thought to be modern works carved in the medieval manner were in fact completely authentic This innovative volume represents a watershed in the study of sculpture a collaborative dialogue between an art historian and a conservator between art history and art science that deepens our understanding of the object we see while illuminating its elusive enigmatic history From publisher's description

Christ among Us Joseph Antenucci Becherer, Henry Martin Luttikhuisen, 2022-09-27 No single figure has been more often featured in Western art than Jesus Christ Sculptures particularly though they have received less notice than paintings provide some of the most moving representations in their capacity to show Christ alongside us in three dimensional space In this catalog for an imagined exhibition two prominent art historians one from the Roman Catholic tradition one from the Protestant tradition offer a guided tour of fifty two sculptures of Jesus Christ from throughout the Western world The chronological scope of the selection ranges from the third century to the present with the work of well known sculptors featured alongside the work of less familiar artists who deserve more attention Along with lush high resolution photographs each piece is accompanied by an essay that places it in context and brings it to life so readers can experience the sculpture almost as vividly as they would in person Those interested in devotional as well as artistic significance will find inspiration in the striking representations of Christ in his many forms healer sage sovereign and savior from his humble yet majestic birth to his harrowing death and miraculous resurrection

Visualising a Sacred City Ben Quash, Aaron Rosen, Chloe Reddaway, 2016-11-25 William Blake famously imagined Jerusalem builded here in London But Blake was not the first or the last to visualise a shimmering new metropolis on the banks of the River Thames For example the Romans erected a temple to Mithras in their ancient city of Londinium medieval Londoners created Temple Church in memory of the Holy Sepulchre in which Jesus was buried and Christopher Wren reshaped the skyline of the entire city with his visionary dome and spires after the Great Fire of London in 1666 In the modern period the fabric of London has been rewoven in the image of its many immigrants from the Caribbean South Asia Eastern Europe and elsewhere While previous books have examined literary depictions of the city this is the first examination of the religious imaginary of the metropolis through the prism of the visual arts Adopting a broad multicultural and multi faith perspective and making space for practitioners as well as scholars its topics range from ancient archaeological remains and Victorian murals and cemeteries to contemporary documentaries and political cartoons

Seals and their Context in the Middle Ages Phillipp R. Schofield, 2015-01-08 Seals and their Context in the Middle Ages offers an extensive overview of approaches to and the potential of sigillography as well as introducing a wider readership to the range interest and artistry of medieval seals Seals were used throughout medieval society in a wide range of contexts royal governmental ecclesiastical legal in trade and commerce and on an individual and personal level The fourteen papers presented here which originate from a conference held in Aberystwyth in April 2012 focus primarily on British material but there is also useful reference to continental Europe The volume is divided into three sections looking at the history and use of seals as symbols and representations of power and prestige in a variety of institutional dynastic and individual contexts their role in law and legal practice and aspects of their manufacture sources and artistic attributes Importantly and distinctively the volume moves beyond the study of high status seals to consider such themes as the social and economic status of seal makers the nature and meaning including reflections of deliberate wit and boastfulness of specific motifs employed at various levels of society and the distribution of seals in relation to the location of for instance religious institutions and along major routeways In so doing it sets out ways in which sigillography can open new pathways into the study of non elites and their cultures in medieval society
