The Clinical Psychology of Aging Martha Storandt, Ilene C. Siegler, Merrill F. Elias, 2012-12-06 It has been estimated that there are at least 2 500 000 adults 10% of the population above age 65 who are currently in need of some sort of mental health services Kramer Taube and Redick 1973 Other estimates are even higher e g Pfeiffer 1977 It is expected that this number will increase as the number of older adults increases over the next 40 years Probably less than 400 clinical psychologists are now providing services to this age group The number of elderly patients actually seen by these psychologists is very very small One national survey found that of 353 psychologists who reported that they had older clients only 495 individuals were seen for psychological testing and 1423 for psychotherapy in the one month just prior to the response Dye in press Assuming that the same individuals were not seen for both testing and therapy within the one month period a questionable assumption approximately 08% of the at least two and one half million older adults in need of psychological services are now being supplied with these services in some form or another Thus the need for increased involvement of clinical psychology with the aged is undeniable However few resources currently exist which will serve to increase the number of clinical psychologists trained to meet this need Probably less than 100 clinical psychologists living today have received any kind of formal graduate training in the clinical psychology of the aging Storandt 1977 Handbook of the Psychology of Aging James E. Birren, K. Warner Schaie, 1977-01-01

J. E. Lindsay, 1994 The Handbook of Clinical Adult Psychology provides a comprehensive and thorough practical guide to modern clinical psychology Clinical psychology is no longer devoted just to the traditional areas of neuropsychology and mental health but is now contributing to many other areas such as health promotion behavioural medicine issues of professional management and the presentation and management of forensic evidence The Handbook covers all these areas which are of critical concern to clinical psychologists and related professions Clinical psychologists are called upon not only to treat mental illness and problems associated with medical afflictions but are also required to investigate screen and advice on the treatment of clients referred to them by medical practitioners social workers nurses and others In addition one of the strengths of clinical psychology has been that careful investigation contributes to successful treatment Therefore investigation and treatment are clearly differentiated in separate chapters for most topics in this book with each chapter written by a specialist in the area Many of the practices developed by clinical psychologists are now conducted by other professions in the course of their work The Handbook of Clinical Adult Psychology will be immensely valuable for all professionals in training such as clinical psychologists nurses psychiatrists counsellors and social workers It will also be a valuable reference work for members of those professions in practice
