Handbook on Student Development Mark E. Ware, Richard J. Millard, 1987 First Published in 1986 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Handbook on Student Development Mark E. Ware, Richard J. Millard, 2013-02-01 Because this book's main objective is to foster and promote student development it should appeal to those who advise counsel and teach undergraduate and graduate students particularly those in psychology education and other social sciences Along with a plethora of stimulating ideas for practice and research the book contains the results of research having immediate applications to students educational and career direction needs Readers will find more than 90 articles in this book distributed across three significant challenges to students development the academic occupational and personal Further the material presented has been organized around three distinct approaches to these challenges advising career development and field placement activities The source for these articles is the official journal Teaching of Psychology of Division Two of the American Psychological Association Teaching Psychology James Hartley, Wilbert James McKeachie, 1990 This publication is the first to cover the entire field of teaching psychology and includes teaching methods advising and curriculum planning as well as special problems in teaching laboratory and statistics courses The articles selected provide thought provoking reading for an international readership Each of twelve subject oriented sections contains a brief introduction five articles and suggested further readings for those wishing to pursue a particular topic in more detail

The Complete Guide to Graduate School Admission Patricia Keith-Spiegel, Michael W. Wiederman, 2000-03-01 Should I go to graduate school How do I choose where to apply Are my grades and accomplishments good enough to get in Who should I ask to write recommendation letters for me and how should I approach these people How do I write my personal statement When will I hear my fate and how should I make my final decision These are just a few of the many questions to which this well researched thorough and extremely user friendly book offers answers Students who are contemplating graduate training in psychology counseling and related fields are often apprehensive and confused about applying to graduate school but this book takes the guesswork and anxiety out of the process The tone and features such as the Q A format timeline for application related tasks and activities and special advice for special populations that made the first edition so successful eliciting hundreds of thank you notes and e mail messages to the author are just as evident in this new edition The book has been thoroughly updated to include coverage of new topics such as use of the internet and e mail as well as changing trends in the professions The most obvious difference is that the book is now significantly shorter as a result of meticulous rewriting making it even easier to use There have been attempts since the publication of the first edition to copy the format of this book but none of the others have successfully duplicated the depth of research based advice and the supportive style that make this book the guide of choice for thousands of graduate school bound students and their advisors Best Practices for Teaching Beginnings and Endings in the Psychology Major Dana Dunn, 2010-01-12 Introductory and capstone experiences in the undergraduate psychology program are crucial ways to engage students in their major and psychology department impart realistic expectations and prepare them for life beyond college Providing the right orientation and capstone courses in psychology education is increasingly a concern of instructors department chairs program directors and deans and both types of courses have become important sources for gathering pre and post coursework assessment data for degree learning outcomes The strategies presented here have been designed to help educators examine issues around teaching the introductory or careers course and developing a psychology specific orientation program The authors also provide concrete suggestions for building capstone experiences designed to fit the needs of a department its pedagogical philosophy or the educational agenda of the college or university Undergraduate psychology curriculum designers and instructors can benefit from learning innovative and effective strategies for introducing the major to first year students and at graduation for bringing closure reinforcing the overall departmental learning outcomes and helping students apply their disciplinary knowledge in capstone experiences and post graduate life In this collection of articles psychology instructors involved in the improvement of teaching and learning review the research and share their own successes and challenges in the classroom Discussions include effective practices for helping students become acclimated to and engaged in the psychology major application of developmental knowledge and learning communities to course design and use of quality benchmarks to improve introductory and capstone courses Other chapters describe innovations in the design of stand alone courses and offer concrete advice on counseling psychology graduates about how to use what they have learned beyond their higher education experiences

Stalnaker-Shofner,Tanisha N. Sapp,2025-02-06 This book prepares doctoral learners and new counselor educators to enter into the profession of counselor education and supervision The work outlines the total experience of teaching in counselor education by providing a practical guide for navigating higher education using best practices grounded in research and based on the lived experiences of seasoned counselor educator contributors Using case scenarios points of reflection as well as the professional and personal accounts of current educators this book serves as a soup to nuts guide outlining current best practices in counselor education. Written from a social justice perspective with efforts to emphasize diversity, equity, inclusion, accessibility, and belonging, more than 70% of the textbook contributors identify as Black, Indigenous, or People of Color (BIPOC). Additionally, all contributors identify as female with varying sexual identities, physical body sizes, and abilities, thus disrupting the dominant narrative. The chapters range in scope and cover topics such as best practices and strategies for teaching, praxis, curriculum development, and strategies to develop CACREP specialization programs based on the 2024 CACREP standards and extant research. The book also provides chapters addressing recommendations for navigating higher education, such as finding and landing the job, the first year as a counselor educator, the promotion and tenure process, and concludes with a section on personal and professional development for new and experienced counselor educators. A bonus feature of this book is the inclusion of a technological component offering a companion website with a repository of activities, exercises, and resources.
