Wasylyk, 1984 Handwriting Jean Alston, Jane Taylor dec'd, 2024-11-01 First Published in 1987 Handwriting reviews theory and research on handwriting and on children who have handwriting problems and draws out principles and recommendations for practitioners The practitioners will include teachers educational advisors psychologists and occupational and physical therapists There has been a revival in the teaching of the basic school skills of reading writing and number Surprisingly however there are very few books concerning the manipulative skills of handwriting and this book seeks to fill this major gap While much of the book is concerned with the development and teaching of handwriting skills in ordinary children it also gives detailed consideration to the problems encountered by children with physical disabilities This is an interesting read for students of education Motor Development in Early and Later Childhood Alex Fedde Kalverboer, Brian Hopkins, Reint Geuze, 1993-02-25 Motor development is an integral part of the developmental process Understanding the organization of the sensory motor system and its adaptations in response to environmental factors is a vital part of understanding individual development as a whole This volume describes and discusses human motor development using longitudinal study methods and from an interdisciplinary perspective The World's Writing Systems Peter T. Daniels, William Bright, 1996 Ranging from cuneiform to shorthand from archaic Greek to modern Chinese from Old Persian to modern Cherokee this is the only available work in English to cover all of the world's writing systems from ancient times to the present Describing scores of scripts in use now or in the past around the world this unusually comprehensive reference offers a detailed exploration of the history and typology of writing systems More than eighty articles by scholars from over a dozen countries explain and document how a vast array of writing systems work how alphabets ideograms pictographs and hieroglyphics convey meaning in graphic form The work is organized in thirteen parts each dealing with a particular group of writing systems defined historically geographically or conceptually Arranged according to the chronological development of writing systems and their historical relationships within geographical areas the scripts are divided into the following sections the ancient Near East East Asia Europe South Asia Southeast Asia and the Middle East Additional parts address the ongoing process of decipherment of ancient writing systems the adaptation of traditional scripts to new languages new scripts invented in modern times and graphic symbols for numerical music and movement notation Each part begins with an introductory article providing the social and cultural context in which the group of writing systems was developed Articles on individual scripts detail the historical origin of the writing system its structure with tables showing the forms of the written symbols and its relationship to the phonology of the corresponding spoken language Each writing system is illustrated by a passage of text and accompanied by a romanized version a phonetic transcription and a modern English translation A bibliography suggesting further reading concludes each entry Matched by no other work in English The
