The Nature of the Japanese State Brian J. McVeigh, 2013-09-13 Brian J McVeigh uses a unique anthropological approach to step outside flawed stereotypes of Japanese society and really engage in the current debate over the role of bureaucracy in Japanese politics To many in the West Japan appears as a paradox a rational high tech economic superpower and yet at the same time a deeply ritualistic and ceremonial society This adventurous new study demonstrates how these nominally conflicting impressions of Japan can be reconciled and a greater understanding of the state achieved

Living in Worlds of Music Minette Mans, 2009-09-22 Informed by her in depth ethnomusical knowledge the result of detailed fieldwork Mans's book is about musical worlds and how we as people inhabit them The book asserts that an understanding of our musical worlds can be a transformative educational tool that could have a significant role to play in multicultural music and arts education She explores the way in which musical expression with its myriad cultural variations reveals much about identity and cultural norms and shows how particular musical sounds are aesthetically related to these norms The author goes further to suggest that similar systems can be detected across cultures while each world remains colored by a distinctive soundscape Mans also looks at the way each cultural soundscape is a symbolic manifestation of a society's collective cognition sorting musical behavior and sounds into clusters and patterns that fulfill each society's requirements She probes the fact that in today's globalized and mobile world as people move from one society to another cross cultural acts and hybrids result in a number of new aesthetics Finally in addition to three personal narratives by musicians from different continents the author has invited scholars from diverse specializations and locations to comment on different sections of the book opening up a critical dialogue with voices from different parts of the globe Musical categorization identity values aesthetic evaluation creativity curriculum assessment and teacher education are some of the issues tackled in this manner

Riding the Black Ship Aviad E. Raz, 2020-03-23 In 1996 over 16 million people visited Tokyo Disneyland making it the most popular of the many theme parks in Japan Since it opened in 1983 Tokyo Disneyland has been analyzed mainly as an example of the globalization of the American leisure industry and its organizational culture particularly the company manual By looking at how Tokyo Disneyland is experienced by employees management and visitors Aviad Raz shows that it is much more an example of successful importation adaptation and domestication and that it has succeeded precisely because it has become Japanese even while marketing itself as foreign Rather than being an agent of Americanization Tokyo Disneyland is a simulated America showcased by and for the Japanese It is an America with a Japanese meaning

Divided Fates Kazuko Suzuki, 2016-05-12 Winner ASA Book Award on Asia Transnational 2017 This book compares the Korean diasporic groups in Japan and the United States It highlights the contrasting adaptation of Koreans in Japan and the United States and illuminates how the destinies of immigrants who originally belonged to the same ethnic national collectivity diverge depending upon destinations and how they are received in a certain state and society within particular historical contexts The author finds that the mode of incorporation a specific combination of contextual factors rather than ethnic culture and race plays a decisive role in determining the fates of these Korean immigrant groups In other words what matters most for immigrants integration is not their particular cultural background or racial similarity to the dominant group but the way they are received by the host state and other institutions Thus this book is not just about Korean immigrants it is also about how contexts of reception including different conceptualizations of race in relation to nationhood affect the adaptation of immigrants from the same ethnic national origin
