

Creeping Phlox

- Only one I planted already grown
- Visciously expands, then when it gets disease it retreats back to a smaller size
- Barely survives the winter, but it doesn't get that cold here

The Mints

- Mint grows very aggressively and can kill other plants near it
- Made some tea once it got really big, it was nauseatingly minty
- Has taken over 80% of the gardens perimeter

The Columbines

- Planted red columbines as soon as I finished laying down stone barriers
- Over generations, they have consolidated into a tiny circular patch in the front
- Visciously opposing other plants in its own territory

The Strawberries

- ~80% of its starting area taken by Mints and Phlox
- Somehow, a strawberry plant grew on the other side of the yard
- Has taken a beating from aphids recently

The Rhodendron

- Was there before the Garden, I just built around it
- none of the ants or other animals DARE fuck with it
- kinda does its own thing
- Worried that the mint will take it over

The Oregano

- I know it's a sin to plant herbs with mint, but fuck it we ball
- Still doing pretty well, but over time it started to taste kinda minty
- It's down to its last few plants as the Phlox is on its doorstep

The Small Flowers

- I planted a bunch of small wildflowers in my garden
- Over generations, most of the flower species started growing in a cluster, like columbines
- I've noticed hybrids between flower species, but they only live for a few days at most

The Ants

- Annoying little fuckers that bite me whenever I get on my knees to garden
- The mints are the only real barrier holding them back
- Will soon genocide them to see how it affects the plants

Yarrows

- The first plants I planted
- Has decided against spreading too rapidly, really wants to be left alone
- Bees really like these flowers because of this they've been scattered across the garden
- I've made tea with it, tastes like shit

Garden Is Political:

Garden Plots Shelley Saguaro, 2017-05-15 Shelley Saguaro's unique book illustrates the persistent presence of gardens in literature. Gardens in fiction do not simply represent a familiar theme Saguaro contends but are bound up with wider aesthetic and ideological issues. As with literary forms so too are gardens subject to transformations. Encompassing a wide array of twentieth and twenty-first century authors including Virginia Woolf, Eudora Welty, Carol Shields, J. M. Coetzee, Toni Morrison, Leslie Marmon Silko, Jamaica Kincaid, Don DeLillo, and Philip K. Dick, this book's preoccupations are signalled in the evocatively titled chapters: Botanical Modernisms, Natural History, and Postmodern Grafting, Postcolonial Landscapes, How Does Your Cyber Garden Grow, and Coevolutionary Histories, the Poetics of a Paradox. Informed by postcolonial, feminist, and psychoanalytic theories, Garden Plots is a must-read for all those alive to the space gardens inhabit in the literary landscape.

Gardens in History Louise Wickham, 2012 Over the past 50 years the subject of garden history has been firmly established as an academic discipline. While many have explored what was created in gardens throughout history, the reasons as to why they were created has naturally been more diverse. Depending on the background of the author, the ideas have ranged from aesthetic values deriving from art, philosophical thoughts, and ideas, social, and even economic forces. Occasionally, some thought has been given to the influence of political ideology, such as the development of the English landscape garden in the first half of the 18th century. Gardens in History: A Political Perspective looks at the creation of gardens elsewhere through a similar political lens in order to move debate away from portraying the motivation behind garden making merely as painting a picture with plants and buildings. Gardens are looked at in relation to not only how they are influenced by the political ideas of their creators but also how the gardens themselves provide support and legitimacy to those in government, either covertly or directly. Each chapter explores in depth one particular garden that demonstrates the ideas put forward. Topics covered include ancient gardens as political expressions of power with the case study of Hadrian's Villa at Tivoli, Renaissance Italian gardens and political ideology demonstrated by Villa Pratolino, Florence, and absolutism and diplomacy in the French formal garden using Versailles, Paris. Other overseas gardens examined are Taj Mahal, Agra, and Katsura Rikyu, Kyoto. British gardens also reveal much about the effects of politics on their creation; case studies here are Stowe, Buckinghamshire, looking at the landscape garden as a political tool for Whig England; Hackfall, Yorkshire, and picturesque debate as a political metaphor; Birkenhead Park, Merseyside, and 19th-century public parks in British Reform politics; Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, and the politics of Empire; and moving into the 20th century, Painshill, Surrey, and socialist politics and conservation.

The Death of Jesus and the Politics of Place in the Gospel of John Peter Claver Ajer, 2016-09-01 This book's findings are rich and intriguing. In his death, Jesus, the chief architect in the production of space in the Christian realm, founds an alternative community that reorders space and creates a new reality for believers. This new community, which dwells in this radical new space, successfully resists the domination of oppressive regimes and mindsets.

such as the Roman Empire Suffering is transformed here Many recent biblical studies have utilized various methodologies and historical critical viewpoints which have been helpful However drawing on theories of space and postcolonial approaches Dr Ajer breaks new ground in Johannine studies a new terrain that will yield much fruit The new understandings of space provide a key with which we may unlock more of the mysteries of the Fourth Gospel as Ajer here demonstrates with powerful new discoveries and insights into John s Passion narrative

Renaissance Garden from Elizabeth I to Charles II Amy L. Tigner, 2016-05-13 Spanning the period from Elizabeth I's reign to Charles II's restoration this study argues the garden is a primary site evincing a progressive narrative of change a narrative that looks to the Edenic as obtainable ideal in court politics economic prosperity and national identity in early modern England In the first part of the study Amy L Tigner traces the conceptual forms that the paradise imaginary takes in works by Gascoigne Spenser and Shakespeare all of whom depict the garden as a space in which to imagine the national body of England and the gendered body of the monarch In the concluding chapters she discusses the function of gardens in the literary works by Jonson an anonymous masque playwright and Milton the herbals of John Gerard and John Parkinson and the tract writing of Ralph Austen Lawrence Beal and Walter Blithe In these texts the paradise imaginary is less about the body politic of the monarch and more about colonial pursuits and pressing environmental issues As Tigner identifies during this period literary representations of gardens become potent discursive models that both inspire constructions of their aesthetic principles and reflect innovations in horticulture and garden technology Further the development of the botanical garden ushers in a new world of science and exploration With the importation of a new world of plants the garden emerges as a locus of scientific study hybridization medical investigation and the proliferation of new ornamentals and aliments In this way the garden functions as a means to understand and possess the rapidly expanding globe impressionism During a time of increasing German nationalism his paintings and cultural politics sparked numerous aesthetic and political controversies His eminent career and his reputation intersected with the dramatic and violent events of modern German history from the Empire to the Third Reich The Nazis persecution of modern and Jewish artists led to the obliteration of Liebermann from the narratives of modern art but this volume contributes to the recent wave of scholarly literature that works to recover his role and his oeuvre from an international perspective The Garden City ,1904

an omnipotent king who is also angry at slight deviation We get glimpses of such powerful and angry God in Old Testament as well as in many other religious traditions of the world In such a discourse and portrayal of God we fail to realize that God is mercy rahim karuna and compassion God is our ever awakened nurturer and He and She is continuously walking and meditating with us with mercy as well as firm challenges for self development mutual realizations and responsible cosmic engagement and participation The vision and discourse of Kingdom of God has many a time been confined within a logic of power where we are prone to valorize God s power in order to valorize our own power on Earth especially the logic of sovereignty at the level of self and society rather than realize God s mercy This book strives to transform this to Gardens of God
