

An aerial photograph of a meticulously designed garden. A light-colored gravel path winds through the landscape, connecting various circular and semi-circular planters. These planters are filled with a variety of green shrubs and flowering plants, including purple-flowered perennials. In the center of the garden, there is a small, dark, irregularly shaped pond. To the right, a series of concentric circular paths lead towards a more open area with larger trees. The background shows a dense forest of tall trees under a soft, overcast sky.
