Gas Attack:

The Nerve Gas Attack on the Tokyo Subway J. Poolos, 2002-12-15 An account of the gas attack on Tokyo focusing on the events leading up to the act of terrorism the impact on people involved and the investigation into this crime Gas Warfare Army War College (U.S.), 1918 Gas Warfare Bulletin United States. Army. Corps of Engineers, 1918 Defense Against Chemical Attack United States. Army. Chemical Warfare Service, 1946 "GAS!" — The Story of the Special Brigade Major-General C. H. Foulkes, 2012-01-31 The author of this book was a junior major in the Royal Engineers stationed at the Depot in Chatham when war broke out He went to France in October 1914 to 3 Base Boulogne but some three weeks later 8th November he was sent forward to 2nd Division where he took over 11 Fd Coy RE at Zillebeke The C in C has therefore appointed Major Foulkes RE for this duty He has no pretence to technical knowledge as far as I know and it is not considered that he need have very much But he has had much experience at the front and can explain generally what we need and how we can perhaps best use it In this fashion did Charles Howard Foulkes a complete novice in the science of chemical warfare become GHQ's Gas Guru responsible for the conduct of gas operations of the British Army in France and for planning organising raising and training what came to be known as the Special Brigade part of the RE He certainly didn't have much time to create a new unit and train it in a new aspect of warfare the Battle of Loos in which the British would first use gas was only four months away Volunteers with a knowledge of chemistry were sought among universities and colleges at home as well as from the ranks of the BEF with immediate promotion to corporal chemist corporal A suitable base was found at Helfaut a village four or five miles due south of St Omer where GHQ was located at the time where it remained as the depot for the rest of the war At first two Special Companies were formed but they had been increased to four by the time the Loos offensive opened on 25 September 1915 In 1916 the four companies were expanded into the Special Brigade consisting of 16 Cylinder companies one Projector company flame thrower and four Mortar companies some 6 000 officers and men This organisation remained unchanged to the end of the war All this is described in detail as are all the operations involving the use of gas the various inventions such as the gas shell the Stokes mortar and the flame projector as well as the new types of gases especially the deadly phosgene which proved to be our main battle gas for the remainder of the war and mustard gas According to Foulkes the total British casualties due to gas amounted to 181 053 of which 6 109 were fatal but of course many lingered on after the war till they succumbed to the effects of gas poisoning He remarks that the true total of German gas casualties was unlikely to be made known to my knowledge no figure has been published Notes on Gas as a Weapon in Modern Warfare, 1917 Operations Letter United States. Office of Civilian Defense, 1942 Army Extension Courses United States. Army, 1935 Army Extension Courses: Special Text No.18, Military Discipline, Courtesies and Customs of the Service, 1931 Ed United States. Adjutant-General's Office, 1931 Behind the Gas Mask Thomas I Faith, 2014-10-15 In Behind the Gas Mask Thomas Faith offers an institutional history of the Chemical Warfare Service the department tasked with improving the Army's ability to use and defend against chemical weapons during and after World War One Taking the CWS's story from the trenches to peacetime he explores how the CWS's work on chemical warfare continued through the 1920s despite deep opposition to the weapons in both military and civilian circles As Faith shows the believers in chemical weapons staffing the CWS allied with supporters in the military government and private industry to lobby to add chemical warfare to the country's permanent arsenal Their argument poison gas represented an advanced and even humane tool in modern war while its applications for pest control and crowd control made a chemical capacity relevant in peacetime But conflict with those aligned against chemical warfare forced the CWS to fight for its institutional life and ultimately led to the U.S. military's rejection of battlefield chemical weapons Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry ,1918 Popular Science Monthly ,1917 The Medical Department of the United States Army in the World War: Medical aspects of gas warfare, by W. D. Bancroft, H. C. Bradley [and fifteen others] 1926 United States.
