Alexander Blum, 2016 The publication of Thomas S Kuhn's Structure of Scientific Revolutions in 1962 stands for a turning point in the history and philosophy of science The repercussions of this work have rearticulated the theoretical framework of history and philosophy of science and have also generated discussions that contributed to the formation of the communities of historians as well as philosophers of science in many parts of the world Different approaches to history of science have since emerged and most of them have the Structure as their reference point In October 2012 a conference at the Max Planck Institute for the History of Science brought together some of the historians of science whose work has played a decisive role in the ways history of science has evolved as a field of research in the past 50 years both intellectually and institutionally This volume gathers reflections by many of these historians on the history of the history of science based on the presentations and discussions at the conference The topics covered range from personal recollections of working with Thomas Kuhn to broad overviews of the historical development of the history of science as a discipline in the past half century The series Proceedings of the Max Planck Research Library for the History and Development of Knowledge presents the results of scientific meetings on current issues and supports further cooperation on these issues via an electronic platform The volumes are available both as print on demand books and as open access publications on the Internet The material is freely accessible online at www.edition-open-access.de Writing Otherwise Jeanette Gaudet, 2023-07-17 Essentially a comparative and contrastive analysis Writing Otherwise examines the prose of five French women authors Liliane Atlan Marguerite Duras Liliane Giraudon Marie Redonnet and Monique Wittig Through close readings of texts published after 1985 this book explores the broad concerns and preoccupations infusing the ontological enterprise that is critique While maintaining a sensitivity to the diversity of styles and themes as well as the unique qualities of the poetic voice evident in the five texts under consideration this study seeks to highlight in very general terms what is common to them The intertextual ground that informs the works the construction of subjectivity and the ambivalence and tension inherent to the practice writing constitute significant and important areas of convergence These features form the ground of each chapter while specific areas of divergence complete the discussion of individual aesthetics Inspired by feminist literary theory Writing Otherwise is also concerned with how these five women writers negotiate their relationship to writing the Environment in Nineteenth Century American Literature The Ecological Awareness of Early Scribes of Nature brings together numerous explorations of environmentally aware writing across the genres of nineteenth century literature Like Lawrence Buell the authors of this collection find Thoreau s writing a touchstone of nineteenth century environmental writing particularly focusing on Thoreau s claim that humans may function as scribes of nature However these studies of Thoreau s antecedents contemporaries and successors also reveal a range of other writers in the nineteenth century whose literary treatments of nature are often more environmentally attuned than most readers have noticed The writers whose works are studied in this collection include canonical and forgotten writers men and women early nineteenth century and late nineteenth century authors pioneers and conservationists They drew attention to the conflicted relationships between humans and the American continent as experienced by Native Americans and European Americans Taken together these essays offer a fresh perspective on the roots of environmental literature in nineteenth century American nonfiction fiction and poetry as well as in multi genre compositions such as the travel writings of Margaret Fuller Bringing largely forgotten voices such as John Godman alongside canonical voices such as Nathaniel Hawthorne Herman Melville Walt Whitman and Emily Dickinson the authors whose writings are studied in this collection produced a diverse tapestry of nascent American environmental writing in the nineteenth century From early nineteenth century writers such as poet Philip Freneau and novelist Charles Brockden Brown to later nineteenth century conservationists such as John James Audubon and John Muir Scribes of Nature shows the development of an environmental consciousness and a growing conservationist ethos in American literature Given their often surprisingly healthy respect for the natural environment these nineteenth century writers offer us much to consider in an age of environmental crisis The complexities of the supposed nature culture divide still work into our lives today as economic and environmental issues are often seen at loggerheads when they ought to be seen as part of the same conversation of what it means to live healthy lives and to pass on a healthy world to those who follow us in a world where human activity is becoming increasingly threatening to the health of our planet
