Biomarkers, Functional Mechanisms, and Therapeutic Potentials in Gastrointestinal Cancers Zequn Li, Kui Zhang, Qun Zhang, Huashan Shi, Dongshi Chen, 2023-11-17 Significant changes in diet environment and population increase gastrointestinal cancer morbidity A growing number of novel biomarkers and underlying mechanisms are being elucidated some of which may even conflict with assumptions of past decades Therefore collecting recent findings on novel diagnostic prognostic factors biomarkers and or risk factors in gastrointestinal cancers is a prerequisite for a better understanding of the disease. Despite remarkable progressions in surgical treatments and chemotherapies, the prognosis of gastrointestinal cancer is far from satisfactory due to the high occurrence of drug resistance. Based on the identification of novel biomarkers as well as their underlying mechanisms, targeted drug development will provide significant complementary therapeutic effects to conventional chemoradiotherapies. High throughput methods such as next generation sequencing on RNA level and mass spectrometry on protein/lipid/metabolite level serve as efficient strategies for biomarker identification and drug development. This Research Topic aims at presenting recent advances on gastrointestinal cancer biomarkers and their underlying functional mechanisms, providing a better understanding of carcinogenesis, tumor progression, tumor relapse as well as drug resistance. This will subsequently contribute to the development of novel therapeutic interventions targeting gastrointestinal cancers, thus improving patients' outcomes.

Novel Approaches to Target the Immune System in Gastrointestinal Cancers

Gianluigi Giannelli, Erica Villa, Maria L. Martinez Chantar, 2022-01-31      Disputes and Challenges of Immune Checkpoint

Inhibitors in Gastrointestinal Cancers Hongwei Yao, Wen G. Jiang, Zhi-Chun Gu, Lin Zhao, Zhengyang Yang, 2024-05-15

Recently, immune checkpoint inhibitors (ICIs) have received a lot of attention to treat gastrointestinal cancers. Compared with traditional treatments, immunotherapy can kill cancer cells by activating the antitumor immunity, the specific recognition of cancer antigens preventing normal cells from being attacked. However, the application of ICIs is accompanied by a series of specific toxic reactions caused by the functional stimulation of the immune system, which are called immune-related adverse events (irAEs). Early identification and timely intervention to handle irAEs are usually required to maximize the therapeutic effect of ICIs. In addition, related surgical complications after neoadjuvant immunotherapy are increasingly reported. Thus, although immunotherapy has shown obvious advantages in the clinical treatment of gastrointestinal cancers, the safety and potential risks of such treatment have to be considered. Many clinical studies have shown that cancer patients receiving neoadjuvant immunotherapy experience different degrees of immune inflammatory reaction, immune disorders, immune-related pneumonia, and other adverse events. In addition, some patients suffering from irAEs during the treatment have to face a delayed operation or even lose the opportunity to be operated. Finally, because the clinical imaging manifestations of immunotherapy are complex and diverse, the imaging evaluation criteria have so far not been standardized. The aim of this Research Topic is to report disputes and challenges of immune checkpoint inhibitors in gastrointestinal cancers. We welcome original research articles, Review articles, Mini Reviews, and Case reports. Preferred topics include but are not limited to the following: Timely discovery of immune-related adverse events during immunotherapy; Identification and differentiation between immune-related adverse events and adverse drug events; Treatment and drug withdrawal timing upon immune-related adverse events; Management of related surgical complications after neoadjuvant immunotherapy; Imaging evaluation criteria or methods of immunotherapy efficacy.
