LGBTQ Clients in Therapy Joe Kort, 2018-03-20 All the answers clinicians need to work effectively with LGBTQ clients A therapist who treats LGBTQ clients often must be more than gay friendly Clinical experience scientific research and cultural understanding are advancing rapidly and the task of being LGBTQ informed is ever changing in today's world. This book covers topics such as how to avoid making the common mistake of believing that a couple is a couple thus treating LGBTQ couples the same as their heterosexual counterparts, how to treat clients struggling in mixed orientation marriages and relationships, straight and LGBTQ spouses in the same couple, and how to work with all clients who have non heteronormative sexual behaviors and practices. Perhaps most importantly, the book discusses covert cultural sexual abuse, the trauma suffered from having to suppress one's own sexual and gender identity, as well as the difficult process of coming out to family and friends. A therapist's job is to help clients and their identities through their own lens and not anyone else's, especially the therapist's. The gay affirmative principles put forward in this book will help you build a stronger relationship with your LGBTQ clients and become the go-to therapist in your area.

Working with Men in Health and Social Care is a very welcome contribution to the stock of books on men and masculinities. It is especially useful for those interested in direct practice and policy applications in the fields of welfare and for those who work with the problems men create, the problems men experience and their interconnections. Jeff Hearn, co-editor, Men and Masculinities, University of Huddersfield and Linköping University.

Working with Men in Health and Social Care is an important and timely book that introduces the complex issues and debates involved in working with men in a range of professional settings. The authors locate academic and popular discourse on masculinities within the specific context of health and social care settings, critically analysing the theory and policy that underpin and inform practice and continually linking theoretical frameworks to real life practice examples.

Section 1 contextualises the topic with a discussion of gender theory, social policy and the occupational culture of relevant organisations. Section 2 provides a summary of practice models examining practice with men as individuals as well as in groups, families and communities. Section 3 is organised according to specific groups of service users and includes chapters on fathers, abusive men, physical and mental health, boys and older men.
