Gcc States In An Unstable World Foreign Policy Dilemmas Of Small States:

Beyond Regionalism? Matteo Legrenzi, 2016-04-15 Regional cooperation regionalism and regionalization in the Middle East are usually considered to be weak and rather ceremonial However since September 11 2001 a new regional order is emerging and the impact of geostrategic changes in the international environment has yet to be satisfactorily studied With older regional organizations suffering from weaknesses new forms appear to be developing and flourishing due either to European support or growing sub regional identities This volume offers refined theoretical models and approaches which are attuned to the new dynamics and contradictions of a wide range of regionalist projects in the contemporary Middle East Case studies of the most important regional organizations in different policy fields offer comprehensive overviews of the main actors institutions historical development and current issues The GCC States in an Unstable World Hassan Hamdan Alkim, 1994 The states of the lower Gulf and Saudi Arabia share a similar economic social and political situation On the one hand they have a relatively small population a high per capita income and a relatively low capacity to absorb capital On the other hand they have acquired significant importance since the Second World War as a result of the discovery of oil and their vast oil wealth 60 per cent of the world's proven reserves Al Alkim's book examines the actors shaping the foreign policy dynamics of the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC states The theme of the study is that as a result of the 1991-92 Gulf war and the Gulf countries increased dependency on the US in the new world order the GCC has become heavily dependent on foreign powers for its survival The author first outlines the historical background explaining its effect on current foreign policy issues and investigating the role played by internal factors He then deals with political and social dynamics strengths and weaknesses and harmony and conflict in intra state relations Regional and international interactions and the role of decision makers are examined as they impinge on the drawing up of foreign policy Finally the book examines the issues and problems facing the GCC states for their foreign policy in the 1990s and asks how they will approach the twenty first century Provided by publisher Dynamics of Arab Foreign Policy-Making in the Twenty-First Century Hassan Hamdan Al-Alkim, 2012-04-16 The Arab world's strategic location and its considerable material and human potential should allow it to play a major role in world affairs However in addition to sharing language culture and history Arab states also face common challenges authoritarian regimes ethnic and social cleavages economic underdevelopment and the need for security from the West Hassan Hamdan al Alkim examines the dynamics of Arab foreign policy making in the twenty first century taking account of the current political developments in the Arab world since January 2011 Through an insightful analysis of pivotal issues such as the Middle East Peace Process the food and water crisis and Saudi Arabia's foreign policy Alkim brings us closer to a nuanced understanding of contemporary Arab politics and its role in world affairs This balanced and discerning study is essential reading for policy makers academics and students of Middle Eastern politics The International Politics of the Persian Gulf Arshin Adib-Moghaddam, 2006-09-27 Provocatively written persuasively researched and conclusively argued Adib Moghaddam presents the first comprehensive analysis of international relations in the Gulf from a multidisciplinary perspective

The Making of UAE Foreign Policy Gaith A. Abdulla, 2014 This paper examines the foreign policy production of the United Arab Emirates UAE through the Dynamic Process Model DPM a conceptual framework combining elements of international relations IR theory and foreign policy analysis With a focus on the process of identity construction the motives and values that drive foreign policy production can be better contextualized This paper utilizes many of these existing theoretical models in a novel form to create a framework that is more useful to studying the IR and foreign policy production of small states This framework is presented as the DPM and will be used to analyze the identity construction of the UAE a process central to understanding foreign policy production There were three reasons to choose the UAE as a case study firstly the desire to study a possible shift in the underlying dynamics behind the country's identity construction as a nation state following the death of its founding father and first president Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahyan Secondly the UAE is an interesting example of a re-examination of changing international relations dynamics specifically the growing self-awareness and assertiveness of small states especially Arabian Gulf States AGS regarding their growing political and economic influence both regionally and globally Thirdly there is a weakness when it comes to the integration between IR theory and foreign policy analysis This gap is most apparent in the study of small state foreign policy like the UAE This paper uses the DPM to inform a structural analysis of UAE foreign policy FP production that will reveal a shift in identity construction and domestic socio-political structures from the Zayed 1971-2004 to the post Zayed era It asks how the identity of the DMA is constructed dynamically as it interacts with external and internal structures through the process of articulating national identity as national interest As Richard Devetak notes it is important to recognize that political identities do not exist prior to the differentiation of self and other The DPM sees FP production as a form of identity construction by combining this functional understanding of sovereign nation states systems theory FP5 literature and IR theory

Neighborhood Challenge Birgül Demirtas-Coskun, 2009 One of the intriguing questions of the post Cold War era has been whether the EU will play a major global role in world politics as non traditional threats and challenges came to the forefront Launching new policies such as the Common Foreign and Security Policy the European Security and Defence Policy and the European Neighborhood Policy ENP have been considered important steps in the EU s evolution as a regional and possibly global actor Neighborhood Challenge analyzes critical aspects of the European Union s relations with its neighbours by extending its analysis beyond the ENP Unlike existing books on the subject the volume covers the entire neighborhood from Russia Ukraine and Belarus to North Africa from the Western Balkans to the South Caucasus and Central Asia Such an extensive overview of EU policies toward its neighbors is a timely and valuable contribution to European Studies literature This book can be used as a tool for both academicians and practitioners who specialize in European foreign and security policy as a textbook in European Union foreign policy courses both at the undergraduate and graduate level and as a comprehensive reference book for postgraduate students writing dissertations on European foreign and security policy in general and European Neighborhood Policy in particular The contributions analyze challenges and prospects posed by countries neighboring the EU and the effectiveness of EU policy in dealing with these agendas Region focused chapters examine the EU s politics toward the Western Balkans Middle East CIS and the Black Sea country focused chapters explore aspects of Russia Ukraine Uzbekistan Iran Bosnia Kosovo and thematically focused chapters deal with energy security organized crime and other issues Neighborhood Challenge is intended to contribute to the existing literature on EU foreign and security policy in two ways First its material is not restricted to the ENP Instead it addresses all EU neighbors in a large region and their position in European security The authors argue that not only the countries in the immediate neighborhood of the EU but also those located in relatively far away regions have a role to play in European Union foreign affairs Secondly many of the contributions were written by experts living in countries which neighbor the EU Their contributions lend new ideas and insight to the relevant literature on EU security and foreign policy
