Handbook of world education : A comparative guide to higher education & educational systems of the world Walter Wickremasinghe,1991 Handbook of World Education Walter Wickremasinghe,American Collegiate Service,1991

International Handbook of Higher Education James J.F. Forest,Philip G. Altbach,2008-01-18 This book provides a central authoritative source of reference on the most essential topics of higher education The International Handbook of Higher Education combines a rich diversity of scholarly perspectives with a wide range of internationally derived descriptions and analyses Chapters in the first volume cover central themes in the study of higher education while contributors to the second volume focuses on contemporary higher education issues within specific countries or regions Together these volumes provide a centralized easily accessible yet scholarly source of information The SAGE Handbook of International Higher Education

Darla K. Deardorff,Hans de Wit,John D. Heyl,Tony Adams,2012-08-20 The SAGE Handbook of International Higher Education examines the internationalization of higher education from a marginal to a core dimension of higher education worldwide This mainstreaming of internationalization is a fascinating phenomenon new concepts programs providers and methods of delivery are emerging impressive national and regional scholarship programs have been established radical reforms have been undertaken to make higher education globally competitive and mobility of students and scholars has increased around the world This groundbreaking handbook serves as a guide to internationalization of higher education and offers new strategies for its further development and expansion in the years to come With a decidedly global approach this volume brings together leading experts from around the world to illustrate the increasing importance of internationalization The text encompasses the diversity and breadth of internationalization of higher education in all its thematic facets and regional impacts Higher Education in the Developing World David W. Chapman,Ann E. Austin,2002-04-30 Identifies five critical issues with which higher education institutions in the developing world must grapple as they respond to changing external contexts offers examples of institutional responses to these issues and considers these within a systems perspective which recognizes that each response impacts how institutions handle other critical issues Half of the students enrolled in higher education worldwide live in developing countries Yet in many developing countries government and education leaders express serious concerns about the ability of their colleges and universities to effectively respond to the pressures posed by changing demographics new communication technologies shifts in national political environments and the increasing interconnectedness of national economies This book identifies five critical issues with which higher education institutions in the developing world must grapple as they respond to these changing contexts seeking a new balance in government university relationships coping with autonomy managing expansion while preserving equity raising quality and controlling costs addressing new pressures for accountability and supporting academic staff in new roles These papers offer examples of institutional responses and consider these within a systems perspective that recognizes that each response has a rippling effect impacting institutions responses to other critical issues Only as government and education leaders understand the interwoven nature of the problems now facing colleges and universities and the interconnections among the intended solutions they seek to implement can they offer effective leadership that strengthens the quality and improves the relevance of higher education in their countries
